PRESIDENT CALLS CONGRESS TO TAKE UP SHIP SUBSIDY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—In the wake of the election which reduced Republican majorities in both branches of Congress to the danger point, President Harding tonight issued a proclamation calling the Sixty-seventh Congress in extra session on Monday, the 20th inst.

"Public interests require the extra session," the President said in his proclamation, which did not mention any specific legislation he sought to have considered. It is generally known, however, that the President was actuated in calling Congress back two weeks ahead of the regular session in order to gain that much time for ship subsidy legislation which he so earnestly wishes to e passed.

In the last session the President was insistent that Congress enact merchant marine relief legislation and at one time sent a letter threatening to call an extra session immediately if there should be an adjournment without action on the subsidy bill. Later, when the coal and railroad strikes disturbed the legislative program, the President consented to a postponement of action until the December session.

The President now believes, the election being over, that it will be expeditious for the Sixty-seventh Congress to get at its work ahead of time in order that it may pass appropriation bills and the ship subsidy measure before March 4.

In the minds of many leaders of both parties there exists grave doubt as to whether the ship subsidy bill can get through. The election, in their opinion, has served to increase the doubt. They point out that in mapping out the legislative program for the special session and the following short regular session beginning December 4, the administration is face to face with puzzling complication.

As a general rule, Congress has its hands full putting through the annual appropriation bills during the short regular session which ends on March 4. In recent years, even the appropriation bills, particularly those providing the funds for the Army and Navy, have been in an uncompleted state when the gavel has fallen on March 4 and it has been necessary to finish them up later on.

If the administration insists upon the ship subsidy bill and undertakes to force it through the Senate, indications are that it will have to do so at the risk of sacrificing most of the appropriation bills. It is generally conceded that the subsidy will be stubbornly fought in the Senate and that several weeks' debate will be required to bring it to a final vote, if a filibuster does not develop, in which case a much longer time will be required.

Passage of the appropriation bills, of course, is vitally necessary to the operation of the government and if any of them remain unpassed on March 4 it would be necessary for the administration to summon Congress into extra session. President Harding, it is known, is exceedingly anxious to avoid calling an extra session next year.

THE ALTERNATIVES

On the other hand the President is keenly desirous of getting the subsidy passed. If he fails to get it passed before March 4, its chances will be zero. He appears, therefore, to be confronted with the alternatives of giving up the ship subsidy bill or reconciling himself to the necessity for calling an extra session next year.

Nevertheless, House leaders are going to make every effort to respond to the administration's wishes. Representative Madden, Illinois, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, arrived in Washington today and announced work would be started tomorrow

To Aid Salmon Trade

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Harding, by executive order, has created a new government fisheries reservation in Alaska to prevent the destruction of the salmon fisheries industry.

The reservation which was created on the recommendation of Secretary Hoover and Fish Commissioner O'Malley, includes Bristol Bay, Cook's Inlet and the waters adjacent to Kodiak and Afognak Islands in Alaska and is to be continued until legislative action can establish more effective control of salmon fishing. Unrestricted fishing is said to be seriously jeopardising the salmon industry which produces a food supply valued at $35,000,000 yearly.

Robbers Get Two Cents

Two hold-up men who robbed Mrs. L. Hirsch and her daughter, Miss B. Hirsch, of 2043 South Budlong avenue, last night, received as the proceeds of their crime 1 cent each. Two cents was all the women had between them. The robbery occurred near midnight at Twenty-fourth street and Budlong avenue after Mrs. Hirsch and her daughter alighted from a street car.

Peculiar Accident

POLICE FIND MURDER GUN HAS RECORD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HAVRE (Mont.) Nov. 9.—The revolver used in the Christier-Carleton double killing here recently was positively identified today by former Police Officer Charles J. Sunday, as the weapon alleged to have been used by John Jenkins in an assault upon L. B. Dance in a local poolroom, Nov. 14, 1919, authorities announced tonight.

According to the authorities, the dead woman's husband, Frank E. Carleton, now of Los Angeles, acted as attorney for Jenkins at the time of the alleged assault in 1919. Former Officer Sunday is said to have told authorities that the revolver was taken from Jenkins by Jake Shockney, who turned it over to Sunday. Records in Sunday's possession, made at the time of Jenkins's arrest, were said to show the number of the gun, 184546, as being the same as that on the weapon found in Mrs. Carleton's hand after the recent tragedy.

Shockney was said to have corroborated Sunday's statement.

Frank E. Carleton, former Montana judge and now practicing law in Los Angeles, husband of Mrs. Margaret Carleton, who was shot dead with the Rev. Leonard Jacob Christier at Havre, Mont., October 27, said last night he "had nothing whatever to say" of the revolver alleged to have been used and which the authorities stated had been identified as the property of one of his former clients.

DRENCHING OF NORTH CONTINUES

Torrential Rain Causes Both Sides of San Francisco Bay to Suffer

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Both sides of the bay are beginning to suffer from the rainstorm, that during the last seventy-two hours has drenched San Francisco with 2.35 inches of rain.

The official weather reports show torrential rains in the valleys and heavy snows on the mountains of the State, and, according to the Weather Bureau figures, the local precipitation is unusual for San Francisco at this time of the year.

The east bay was hit particularly hard by the rainstorm. In the vicinity of Twentieth and Harrison streets where a new boulevard is under construction, the water backed up two and three feet in spots, flooding basements, disrupting auto traffic and blocking street cars a square away.

TREES UPROOTED

Trees were uprooted during the night in some of the Oakland parks by the wind, and several telephone poles were blown over. Crews of the telephone company and the city street department were busy all night repairing damage.

No change in the barometric pressure has been noted by the Weather Bureau here, though the storm area has spread to nearly eleven points in California.

The downpour is welcomed by stock raisers and grain growers, but the rice interests fear for their crops if the storm does not abate.

The storm has definitely put an end to the wine grape harvest, which has already proved a bonanza for those engaged in viticulture.

GOBS BATTLE FOR HONORS AS PUGILISTS

The Pacific Fleet has a new light-heavyweight champion this morning as the result of the superior leather pushing by Sailor Carroll of the Arizona on board the Oklahoma last night in Los Angeles Harbor, when the husky and dusky gob recruits wrested the title from Mayer of the Texas in a fast and furious seven-round fray.

Carasco, Connecticut flyweight entry, trounced Grande of the Texas in seven rounds of milling, while Hackley, featherweight from the Connecticut, was awarded the decision over Canavan from the Mississippi in a six-round affray.

Wile, welterweight of the Texas, was declared victor in his seven-round tilt with Jones of the Idaho.

WRIGHT ACT MAY PASS

Lead Rolled Up in Los Angeles Makes Close Race on Prohibition Enforcement Law

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—A close race over prohibition enforcement in California began to develop today, as belated results from Tuesday's election cut the majority against the measure steadily and tonight the margin against the proposal was only 23,948, with about one-fourth of the State yet to hear from.

Returns from 5065 precincts out of a total of 6681 in the State showed 323,816 votes in favor of making the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution and the Volstead Act the law of California also and 347,764 opposed. Of the missing precincts, 323 were in Los Angeles, where a lead of 32,635 for the act already has rolled up. Imperial, Humboldt and Mono are three counties which have reported no vote yet at all on the question.

Twenty-four of the fifty-eight counties in the State were on the "dry" side of the tabulating sheet. A majority of 7125 for enforcement from San Bernardino helped largely to pull down the "wet" lead during the day today. Among the other counties where prohibition found favor were Fresno, Kern, Kings, Merced, Orange, Riverside and Ventura.

Every county south of the Tehachapi voted "dry," Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino having the largest proportion in favor of the measure, the percentage being

TROOPS KILL REBEL LEADER GEN. CARRASCO

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—Gen. Juan Carrasco, for many months the leader of a considerable rebel army operating on the West Coast, was killed this morning together with seven of his men in a battle with Federal troops at Guamuchito, Durango.

This information was received tonight at the War Office from Gen. Juan Torres, Federal commander in that region. Thus, close upon the execution of Gen. Murguia, another enemy of President Obregon has been removed.

NO REDUCTION SEEN IN CANNING COSTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—President Roy F. Clark of the Western Canners' Association this afternoon predicted that there would be no lowering of production costs in the canning industry during the 1923 season. In his address to the association's semiannual convention here he also stated that, in his opinion, production costs are too high.

MIDSHIPMEN BATTLE FIRE ABOARD SHIP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 9.—Twenty midshipmen from the United States Naval Academy narrowly escaped death this afternoon when, in a heroic battle against fire, they fought their way up the Chesapeake Bay on a sub chaser. It was a battle that will long live in the memories of those who stood on the shore and watched the fight imperiling the academy students until the sub chaser was finally beached on the short of the naval experimental station.

The midshipmen started out early in the afternoon for a seamanship drill on one of the sub chasers which have been tied up at the academy wharf since the armistice.

The bay was rough and the small boat was tossed about as the midshipmen were put through their exercises. When two miles offshore the engine backfired. Before the men realized what had happened the forward part of the vessel was enveloped in flames. The midshipmen took their stations at the hose lines and formed bucket brigades as the flames spread.

The sub chaser's prow was turned toward the shore. It was then that the battle began. A stiff breeze augmented the danger.

Heroically the midshipmen battled every foot of the way. On the wharves at Annapolis a crowd gathered, attracted by the smoke. Light craft set out from the academy and near-by points to offer assistance.

Cheers arose from those standing on the beach at the experimental station when the midshipmen beached their boat. The boat was burned beyond repair, the flames eating away all the superstructure and part of the hold.

MARSH GAS CAUSES FATAL BLAST AT MINE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SPANGLER (Pa.) Nov. 9.—Menthane—commonly called marsh gas—was responsible for the explosion in the Reilly mine Monday which claimed a toll of more than three score of lives. This conclusion was reached tonight by Seward Button, chief of the State Bureau of Mines, who completed the first phase of an investigation to fix responsibility for the disaster.

DRY LAWS MAY STUMP CONGRESS

BY ROBERT BARRY
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Republicans retain political control of Congress by a margin which means little to the Harding administration. The farm bloc can overturn things at will. Republican insurgents will hold the whip hand on all controversial legislation. The more popular question today was:

"Can the unmistakable 'wet' victories bring about a liberalization of the Prohibition Enforcement Act?"

And, to that the answer was "yes" and "no."

Impressed by the vote cast for "wet" candidates in many States of the East and Middle West, Congress undoubtedly will lend a more receptive ear to protests against the extremism of the Volstead Act, which gave birth to such widespread disrespect for obedience to Federal statutes. These votes might bring about modification of the strictures on possession of liquors, of the search and seizure provisions, of the prohibitions on medicinal wine and beer. Thus, the answer was in the affirmative.

DIFFERENT PROBLEM

As to amendment of the Volstead Act to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and light wine, a wholly different problem is presented. The alcoholic complexion of Congress has little to do with that. Out in Chicago, Representative Fred S. Britten, Republican and "wet," announced he would propose modification of the Volstead Act to permit manufacture and sale of 5 per cent beer and 14 per cent wines and finance a soldiers' bonus by a tax on such beverages.

Congress could enact such a law, but an act of Congress would not be worth the paper on which it

WIDOW OF HOTEL MAN DUE TODAY

Will Swear Out Warrant for Suspect Now Held at Oklahoma

The solution of the mystery surrounding the death of Nicholas F. Dabelich, Oakland cafe proprietor, whose body was found here on October 25, is believed near at hand, according to advices received last night from Oakland.

Mrs. Mary Dabelich, widow of the slain man, has been instructed by the police to come to Los Angeles and swear out a warrant against Jack W. Allen, who was arrested in the northern city when he attempted to pawn a diamond ring similar to one worn by Dabelich prior to his death.

WIDOW COMING

Mrs. Dabelich is expected to arrive here today. She will also swear to a John Doe warrant against a second man, whose identity the police know, but who is still at large. Dabelich's body was found wedged under a bridge on Mesa Drive, and after investigation by local police, the evidence obtained was turned over the Oakland authorities in the belief that Dabelich met there the persons who killed him.

A ring of circumstantial evidence is being tightened around Allen, according to Oakland police, and an early confession is expected. The Oakland police yesterday learned that Allen, with another man, had been riding in a new automobile in Los Angeles at about the time that Dabelich was slain here. The automobile was of the same make as that from which the blood-stained floor found near the body, was discarded.

DENIES COMPLICITY

When confronted with this evidence, Allen for the first time admitted that he was in Los Angeles at the period when Dabelich was slain. He refuses, however, to admit his complicity in the crime.

"Get the other fellow," he said, "he will tell you about the murder."

Allen, clerk in an Oakland furniture store, was arrested Wednesday in Oakland by a chance circumstance when the police learned that he had been attempting to sell a diamond identical in size to that missing from the body of Dabelich.

Italians' Envoy Once California Mine Engineer

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROME, Nov. 9.—Premier Mussolini last night appointed Duke Gelasio Caetani Ambassador to the United States, Signor Avesnano, who was first designated for the post, likely will be Ambassador to France.

Duke Caetani, a member of one of the most noble families in Italy, spent thirteen years in America. He said last night: "I am enthusiastic over the appointment. I have more close friends in America than in Italy and I really feel as if I were going home."

Although his title is hereditary, Duke Caetani is a self-made man. He took a degree as a mining engineer at Columbia University in 1906.

United American Line Adopts Panama Flag Due to the Daugherty Ruling

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The Shipping Board today granted permission to the United American Line (the Harriman line) to transfer the registry of the steamships Reliance and Resolute from the American flag to the Panaman flag.

It was said unofficially at the Shipping Board that the reason assigned was the recent Daugherty ruling against the sale of liquor on ships flying the Stars and Stripes.

The Resolute is scheduled to begin a world tour November 15, and when the Daugherty ruling was made there were 52 cancellations from persons who said they did not want to take such a tour on a dry ship. The Reliance will sail February 3 for a six-weeks' cruise to Brazil.

ROBINSON'S STATEMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—R. H. M. Robinson, president of the United American Line and of the American Ship and Commerce Corporation, declared today that the application for transfer to Panaman registry was due to loss of trade resultant from the Daugherty ruling on the sale of liquor on American ships on the high seas.

Selection of the Panama flag was made, he said, because it was to be the most acceptable to the interests of the United States. Financial investment and management of the ships will remain American.

The Resolute and Reliance are the two largest privately owned vessels flying the American flag. Two years ago, when the United American line took the vessels over from the Royal Holland Lloyd and placed them in the Illinois Bonus and Beer Amendments Continue to Pile Up Votes

RALSTON PLURALITY OVER BEVERIDGE IS GROWING

Senator-Elect's Lead Now 35,903; Kansas Gubernatorial Contest Conceded to Democrat

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Additional returns from Tuesday's election in Illinois piled up the total for the soldiers' bonus and amendment favoring light wines and beer, compilations tonight showed. On the soldiers' bonus 4373 precincts gave 934,677 in favor and 351,879 against. The wine and beer vote from 4285 precincts was: Yes, 711,034; No, 342,116.

For Congressman-at-large 4423 precincts gave Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, Republican, 649,866, and Albert, Democrat, 554,523.

For Congressman-at-large (regular) 4468 precincts showed the following: Yates, Republican, 743,738; Rathbone, Republican 731,661; Murphy, Democrat, 525,418; Gorman, Democrat, 531,187.

RALSTON GAINING VOTES IN INDIANA

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 9.—The plurality of Samuel M. Ralston, Democratic U. S. Senator-elect, has increased with the arrival of additional returns. Tonight with the vote from forty-three precincts still out, Mr. Ralston had a lead of 35,903 over Albert J. Beveridge, the Republican nominee.

The vote in the 4352 precincts was: Ralston 551,312; Beveridge 515,309; William A. Henry, Socialist, had received 10,695 votes.

CONCEDE DEMOCRAT KANSAS GOVERNOR

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Nov. 9.—With only 196 precincts missing out of 2584 in the State, Jonathan M. Davis, Democrat, was leading his Republican opponent, W. Y. Morgan, tonight by 16,191 in the Kansas gubernatorial race. Morgan conceded the election today. The vote was: Davis 254,025; Morgan 237,827.

Election by the Republicans of seven of eight Congressmen in the State was a surprise late today when corrected but unofficial returns from all but one precinct in the third district placed Sproul, Republican, in the lead in that district by 556 votes over Stephens, his Democratic opponent.

MARYLAND BATTLE IS YET IN DOUBT

WILMINGTON, Nov. 9.—Supporters of both Thomas F. Bayard, Democrat, and Senator T. Coleman DuPont, Republican, maintained tonight that unofficial revision of complete returns showed their candidates leading for the short term for United States Senator from Delaware, while for the full term, Senator DuPont's supporters said their revision indicated that Bayard's lead had been cut to 411, while Bayard's supporters asserted that he was leading by 922.

For the short term, from election day until March 4 next, the Republican check of unofficial figures gave DuPont a majority of 72, while the Democratic count stood at a majority of 110 for Bayard.

LEAD OF PIERCE IN OREGON LARGE

PORTLAND (Or.) Nov. 9.—Tabulation of latest returns from the general election of Tuesday, with complete unofficial figures from 1641 of the State's 1729 precincts, gave Walter R. Pierce, Democrat, 132,377 for Governor, against 98,162 for Ben W. Olcott, Republican.

The figures represent complete returns from twenty of the State's thirty-six counties.

FRAZIER ELECTED, OPPONENTS CONCEDE

FARGO, Nov. 9.—The electorate of North Dakota which recalled Lynn J. Frazier, Nonpartisan Governor, one year ago, sent the same man to the United States Senate in Tuesday's election, his opponents conceded tonight.

REPRESENTATIVES IN NORTH ARE WINNERS

SEATTLE, Nov. 9.—Washington voters in Tuesday's general election, chose a Democrat to fill the seat of Miles Poindexter, Republican, in the United States Senate, returned the five Republican incumbent representatives of Congress, repealed by an overwhelming majority the poll tax measure passed by the 1920 Legislature and showed their disapproval by large majorities, of five other initiative and referendum measures on the ballot.

These results were apparent when returns from all but a few of the precincts in the State were tabulated today.

In the Senatorial contest C. C. Dill, Democrat, had a lead of 4073 votes over Senator Poindexter.

In four of the five Congressional districts the Republican Representatives were swept into office again without serious opposition. In the Fifth District, where the race appeared close at times, Representative J. Stanley Webster has apparently been re-elected by a majority of more than 2000.

WINES AND BEER ARE OHIO LOSERS

COLUMBUS (O.) Nov. 9.—The complete unofficial vote for United States Senator, as tabulated, showed Representative Simeon D. Fess, Republican, of Yellow Springs, to have defeated Senator Atlee Pomerene, Democrat, of Canton, by 52,018 votes.

A. Victory Donahey, Democrat, of New Philadelphia, was elected Governor by a plurality of 16,230 votes over Carmi A. Thompson, Republican, of Cleveland. The complete unofficial vote for Governor, was Thompson, 806,724; Donahey, 816,164.

The complete unofficial vote for Senator was: Fess, 789,268; Pomerene, 737,250.

The same returns from all but 313 out of the 3167 precincts in Ohio showed a majority of 161,686 against the proposed constitutional amendment to legalize the sale of light wines and beer. The vote for the amendment stood at 584,883, while the vote against it, 846,534.

PINCHOT GAINS IN REMOTE DISTRICTS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania's Republican Governor-elect, planned to slip out of the city for a few days rest and to study plans for a new State budget and for a State government reorganization scheme to be presented to the Legislature. Late returns indicated Pinchot's plurality was increasing as remote regions of the State were heard from. Figures received from 7580 of the 9021 districts in the State gave him 795,068 votes to 539,577 for John A. McPharr, his Democratic opponent, a lead of 255,492.

The returns showed that the Democratic candidate carried twenty-seven of the sixty-seven counties.

Maj. David A. Reed, Republican, elected to the United States Senate for the full term beginning next March, led his Democratic opponent, Samuel E. Shull, by 359,039 votes in 7269 of the districts.

George Wharton Pepper, present Republican United States Senator, who was elected to fill the un-expired term of the late Boies Penrose, had a lead of 321,221 over Fred B. Kerr, the Democratic candidate, in returns from 734 districts. Unofficial returns indicated that the Democrats gained six Congressmen in Pennsylvania, giving them a delegation of seven.

W. B. ROSS ELECTED WHOMING GOVERNOR

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) Nov. 9.—W. B. Ross Democrat, was elected Governor of Wyoming, Tuesday. It was shown by returns gathered and compiled here up to this afternoon.

The last hope of the Republicans that their candidate, John W. Hay, could overcome the Ross lead was dispelled late in the day by the receipt of returns from Uintah county, which had been counted a Republican stronghold.

ENTIRELY IN FAVOR OF OLD GUARD MAN

BOISE (Idaho) Nov. 9.—Tuesday's election in Idaho was entirely in favor of the Republicans, according to unofficial returns today.

Burton L. French and Addison T. Smith, the two incumbent Congressmen, have been conceded winners over their Democratic and Progressive opponents, and C. C. Moore, Republican, for Governor, and an entire Republican State ticket apparently have gone over.

Newspaper tabulation of returns from 726 of the 814 precincts in the State give for Governor: Moore, (R.) 46,821; Alexander, (D.) 35,102; Samuels, (P.) 29,150.

Indications are that it will take several days to get complete returns from all Idaho precincts as the majority of those which have not reported are in isolated places.

MONTANA DEMOCRAT LEAD IS INCREASING

HELENA, Nov. 9.—Returns reported from 1692 precincts out of 1525 in Montana this noon increased the lead for the United States Senate of Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, to 18,642 over Carl W. Riddick, Republican. The returns for Wheeler were 75,869 to 57,226 for Riddick.

GERMANY WILL ASK SHOWDOWN

Germany does not pay up and look with concern on the prospect of permanent French domination of that rich region under the guise of either Rhineland autonomy or the perpetuation of the military regime established by the peace treaty for fifteen years.

SEEK INTENTIONS

The government wants to elicit a declaration of French intentions before accepting a reparations settlement based on expectation of a restored Rhineland.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Premier Poincare told the Senate this evening that the French government had decided to act alone with respect to Germany if the Brussels conference failed to give France a satisfactory agreement. He expressed the opinion that no general settlement of the reparations problem was possible unless the question of inter-Allied debts was solved at the same time.

"France is not imperialistic," he declared. "I can say that she is the least imperialistic of the nations but she has rights to defend. We do not contemplate any personal action before the Brussels conference, but if we do not obtain satisfaction there is nothing in the world that can prevent us from acting alone in the fulness of our rights."

ROAD TROUBLES IN STATE TOLD

Rainstorms Put Many Routes on Danger List

Auto Club Advises Slow Going Through Water

Boulevards Slippery With Film of Mud

Reports on the condition of roads after the heavy rainstorms have been issued by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California for the safety and guidance of motorists. The reports concern local routes and highway conditions in both Northern and Southern California, as follows:

Highway conditions in Northern and Southern California after storms. Local routes.

Harbor Boulevard: Detour around construction work between 93rd and 108th streets very rough and muddy with, one bad culvert crossing with water up to the running boards.

Manchester avenue: Half pavement open between Vermont and Western. Motorists should drive slowly on this stretch on account of its narrow width and to avoid slipping off into the mud holes on either side.

Pigueroa-Manchester avenue intersection: Flooded with water on Thursday.

Manchester avenue: Impassable between Figueroa and Vermont.

Angeles-Mesa Drive: Flooded for about one mile. Water is not deep—road is passable only with slow speed. Many cars were stalled on Southern California roads and streets because of speeding through water which splashed through radiators onto coils and ignition system. Slow time should be maintained in driving through water.

Big Bear Valley: About three inches of snow in the valley. Rim of the World and Mill Creek roads not advisable. Victorville desert route passable.

San Diego Coast Route: Unless further rains occur the detour, which is five miles long, below Capistrano will give no trouble. Very little rain reported at San Diego.

Redondo-Wilmington Route: Detour necessary just west of Lomita involving 4000 feet of road construction work. This detour consists of adobe roads and will be impassable in rainy weather.

Valley Boulevard: O. K.

Foothill Boulevard: Now clear through to San Bernardino. Detour at Azusa eliminated.

Midland Trail: Owens River Valley open to Big Pine and Bishop. Westgard and Montgomery Passes open, but not advisable and storm still raging in northern district adjacent at Bishop.

Lake Tahoe: Placerville Road closed at Placerville with rain and snow.

Auburn Road: Closed at Auburn.

Redding to Alturas: Not advisable for at least two or three days longer, at least until road has dried out somewhat.

Chico to Feather River districts: Closed on account of storms.

Redding and Red Bluff to Eureka: By Hayfork, Peanut and Bridgeville closed with snow and rain.

Crescent City to Grants Pass: Closed.

Yosemite Valley: All roads closed. Those desiring to visit Yosemite can take cars into the valley by train from Merced, a charge of $15.50 is made per car each way, and cars must be at the loading dock in Merced at 7 a.m.

Sequoia National Park: Closed.

Gen. Grant Park: Road closed.

Huntington Lake: Closed for the season.

Coast Route north: San Juan detour north of Gilroy not advisable, route all travel from Salinas to Watsonville and Santa Cruz, thence through Los Gatos, Saratoga and Sunnyvale, thence the regular road to San Francisco.

Valley Route north: O. K.

Brea Canyon: Still closed.

Salton Sea Route: Detour at Banning very rough, sandy and narrow.

Report received on the 8th inst. from Berry Merritt, San Luis Obispo office, advises that new pavement on Cuesta Grade has been thrown open to travel with the exception of half a mile at the foot of the grade on the north side, where a detour is necessary.

Los Angeles and vicinity experienced the heaviest rain of the season yesterday when the center of a storm which has been raging in the Northwest for several days moved rapidly southward. A high wind accompanied the rain and did much damage at several points. Wind velocity decreased as the storm moved to the south.

TREES BLOWN DOWN

At Bakersfield and in Tulare county several trees were blown down, and in points in the San Joaquin Valley late Emperor grapes still on the vines suffered some loss.

In the vicinity of Los Angeles the heaviest rain came just before daylight, followed by showers that continued most of the day. Between rains the sun shone brightly and the temperature varied several degrees in short spaces of time. At Riverside a slight fall of hail added to the variety of storm conditions.

CAR TRACKS CAVE IN

The only property damage of any consequence in Los Angeles was the caving in of an excavation beneath Pacific Electric tracks at Winston and San Pedro streets. A slight delay of early cars resulted from the cave-in and many cars were detoured on Main street from the Sixth-street overhead route. Traffic congestion was the only result of the change.

At Pasadena the walls of the Strand Theater were threatened because of an excavation near the building and the theater was ordered closed until the building department is able to make a thorough inspection.

RIVER RISES

Heavy rain was reported from the mountains, where more than three inches of rain had fallen up to early last night. Although the east and west forks of the San Gabriel River had increased more than two feet Flood Control Engineer Reagan anticipated no trouble from flood water.

The Weather Bureau reports that the storm is likely to last through most of tomorrow with a slight falling temperature.

HARDING CALLS EXTRA SESSION

on the preparation of the appropriation bills. An attempt will be made to rush the appropriation bills through the House and clear the way for the subsidy bill by the first of the year. Even if they succeed, however, the slow-moving Senate will have difficulty in disposing of them in the remaining two months of the session.

The Senate upon reconvening will resume consideration of the $5,000,000 Liberian loan bill to which has been attached numerous riders carrying large sums of money. The Dyer antilynching bill is next on the program, but there is doubt whether this will be pushed.

COUNTY'S PROGRAM HELD UP

Los Angeles county must rest content with the present County Hospital, County Farm, County Jail and Hall of Justice for both Propositions No. 3 and 4 were defeated by snug margins, a recount of returns for 1449 out of 1453 city and county precincts proved last night.

On Proposition No. 3, involving the appropriation of $7,000,000 for a County Hospital, farm extensions and improvements 105,362 voted in affirmation while 64,042 voted "No." A two-thirds vote was necessary and the proposition failed to carry by 7573.

On Proposition No. 4, providing $2,000,000 for a new jail and Hall of Justice, the count ran "Yes," 107,143; "No," 62,691, or a deficit of 6079 from the required two-thirds vote.

The returns from 831 city precincts gave both propositions a favorable outlook toward victory but the county precincts, 618 out of 622 reporting, nullified the majority gained in the city proper.

LIBERALS IN SADDLE NOW?

Dry Enforcement Will be Serious Problem

Victories of Wets May Force Loosening of Rules

was written unless the Supreme Court of the United States could be convinced that 4 per cent beer and 14 per cent wines did not constitute "intoxicating liquors" under the Constitution. It would be a question of fact for the court to determine, and the "dry" forces are prepared to issue eternal challenge to the assertion that a man cannot become intoxicated on 4 per cent beer or 14 per cent wine.

AFFAIR OF CONSTITUTION

The answer to that beer and light wine question becomes, therefore, a negative one. Congress cannot make the United States "wet" by statute. Prohibition is an affair of the Constitution, not of the Volstead Act.

The Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution provides:

"The manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited."

Now, Congress might declare that 4 per cent beer or 14 per cent wine was not intoxicating, but that could not alter the constitutional provision against intoxicating liquors, and it would be a question of fact for the Supreme Court to determine, and all the enactments of Congress could not alter that until three-fourths of the States had voted for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Congress could make it easier for the bootlegger, the "rum-smuggler," the home-brewer and "moonshiner" by removal of the more drastic enforcement provisions, but Congress could hardly declare that Scotch whisky was not an "intoxicating liquor" within the meaning of the Constitution.

Returns which came in during the day justified the statement on Wednesday morning that the Republican majority in the House would be approximately fifteen. On basis of virtually complete returns the House would seem to stand as follows:

Republicans, 225; Democrats, 207; Socialist, 1; Independent Republican, 1; Farmer-Labor, 1.

The Republicans have only seven votes more than the 218 which constitute a majority of the House's 435 members.

Should President Harding be granted his wish not to have a special session of the Sixty-eighth Congress, the new House would not assemble for organization until December, 1923.

PREDICTION DIFFICULT

Death and resignations would, therefore, play as prominent part in the actual control of the House as they did following the elections of 1918, when Champ Clark was re-elected Speaker through the changes which had taken place due to deaths and illnesses. To figure on what might be the situation in December a year hence, would be to form no more conservative estimate than that the Republican working margin would be approximately fifteen.

The State contests which remained in doubt last night made calculations on the administration majority in the Senate very difficult. There was reason to believe, however that the Republican margin could be put down at eight and not more than ten. Former Representative C. C. Dill, a Democrat, who displayed few evidences of distinguished ability when in the House, appeared to have a safe lead over Senator Miles Poindexter, Republican, active head of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, and vigorous advocate of antistrike legislation to prohibit railroad strikes.

CLAIM FRAZIER WINNER

To offset that, the Non-Partisan League leaders were claiming the election of Lynn J. Frazier, recalled Governor of North Dakota, over J. F. T. O'Connor, Democrat supported by "Regular" Republicans by 10,000 and the chiefs of the I. V. A.—Independent Voters' Association — were conceding Frazier's election. Frazier's accession to the Senate would mean little, however, to the Harding administration. He would be no less a satellite of La Follette than was former Senator Gronna from North Dakota.

In two States, there were prospects of contests or recounts over Senate seats. The supporters of Col. William A. Gaston, Democrat, beaten in Massachusetts by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge by about 8400 votes, took steps to have a full recount. In Delaware, errors in tabulation rendered Thomas F. Bayard's margin over Senator T. Coleman Dupont, Republican incumbent, so narrow, that a recount was regarded as inevitable.

By giving the Democrats Washington and the Republicans, North Dakota, the political complexion of the Senate could best be put down as follows:

Republicans, 51; Democrats, 42; La Follette, 1; Non-Partisan League, 1; Farmer Labor, 4.

DECLARES WARFARE

Frazier, having declared open warfare on the Republican national organization and Shipstead in Minnesota, having retired, Senator Kellogg, regular Republican, they could not be counted as belonging to either of the major parties, although anyone familiar with the way things happen in the Senate never would count them as constituting parts of an administration majority. The nominal Republican majority would be 16, but with La Follette in open insurgency against his party and the White House and Frazier taken into account no practical estimate could put it at more than 6, if actual rather than so-called "working majorities" were considered.

NEWBERRY CASE

On top of that came formal announcement by Senator-elect Woodbridge N. Ferris, Democrat victor over Senator Townsend, Republican, in Michigan, that he would insist on a re-opening of the Newberry case in the Senate. Democratic Senators already have given notice of such intent and Senator LaFollette has taken formal steps in the Senate. Enough Newberry supporters were defeated Tuesday to give the opponents of Senator Newberry a clear majority. Yet, were he unseated the seat would not go to his 1918 opponent, Henry Ford, simply being declared vacant. Gov. Groesbeck would name a Republican regular.

Although the Senate may make its own rules to govern any particular case, the precedent established in the Lorimer case was that new evidence had to be brought before it to justify a reopening of the case against him. Thus far there has been no indication of new evidence against Senator Newberry.

"My first official act on taking office will be to begin steps for a rehearing of Mr. Newberry's case," Senator-elect Ferris declared at his home at Big Rapids, Mich. "I feel it my duty to the people of Michigan to straighten out this matter."

Rival claims of what the new Congress may or may not do about prohibition will continue up to the hour of convening of that body. It is more than likely the first real test of prohibition enforcement will come before the new House meets. It is the administration program to have the ship subsidy bill called up at the special session of which the President today gave formal notice. The ship liquor issue brings up the whole question, in one form or another and a test of Congressional "dry" sentiment is inescapable.

hopes that communication might be restored tomorrow.

The government also appeared to have had very little wireless communication with Constantinople. The government knows nothing concerning the whereabouts of the deposed Sultan, except that he has not taken refuge, as has been reported, on a British warship.

Official circles pointed out that the situation is almost an exact counterpart of that which arose from the Chanak crisis, the important difference, as emphasized by Premier Bonar Law tonight, that there now is no question of isolated action by the powers, who are all working in agreement.

Ismet Pasha, the Foreign Minister of the Turkish Nationalist government is known to be in Constantinople waiting to go to the Near East conference at Lausanne as soon as the date for the meeting is settled. Although the British government maintains the opinion that the change of complexion of affairs necessitates a postponement of the date it hopes to meet by November 20.

STARVE AND BEAUTY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The American Red Cross announced today that amidst the beauty of their ancient temples thousands of Smyrna refugees are starving on the Greek mainland and the Greek islands of the Aegean, cowering before the approach of winter." The statement was based upon a cablegram from Vice-Chairman A. Ross Hill in charge of foreign operations who is in Athens.

WRIGHT ACT HAS CHANCE

better than 2 to 1. Los Angeles county brought in the largest dry vote in point of numbers, in Santa Barbara and San Diego the contest was closer than elsewhere.

North of the Tehachapi the principal "dry" counties were in the San Joaquin Valley, although San Joaquin county, of which Stockton is the county seat, was slightly "wet." Santa Clara went "dry" by 1000 votes.

WET MAJORITIES

San Francisco, Alameda and Sacramento counties had the largest wet majorities, these being approximately 16,000, 26,000 and 5000. Most of the counties north of San Francisco were in the "wet" column.

The majority that was cast two years ago against a prohibition act that was a "bone-dry" measure, forbidding even possession of liquor as well as manufacture and sale, has been cut down nearly two-thirds already in the vote on the so-called Wright Act this year. Two years ago the prohibition measure lost by 85,000 votes.

WALLACE'S STATEMENT

The adverse majority of about 24,000 votes that the press reports on the Wright law leaves the situation hopeful for the passage of that law, A. J. Wallace, president of the Anti-Saloon League of Southern California, said yesterday. Only two-thirds of the votes have been reported in the State.

In the count that gave a majority against the Wright law, he asserted San Francisco is included with a 58,000 majority against the law, and Alameda with her adverse majority of 27,000. The San Joaquin Valley and the country districts, all favorable to the Wright law, are in many cases yet to be heard from.

BILL JARRETT WINS ELECTION

Noted Hawaiian Captures Seat in Congress

One of Few Democrats Whom People Selected

Made Record as Sheriff in Prison Annals

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU (T. H.) Nov. 9.—William P. (Big Bill) Jarrett, who carried the standard of the Democrats of Hawaii into the halls of Congress for the first time since the islands became part of the United States, is acknowledged to be the most popular man of Hawaiian blood in the Territory.

His election Tuesday in the face of a Republican wave that washed into the territorial legislative seat an almost solid G. O. P., representation in both houses, is ascribed solely to the esteem in which he is held by all classes and colors of voters. Like Prince Kuhio, late Delegate to Congress, he is close to the heart of the Hawaiian.

The Delegate-elect was born on the Island of Hawaii in 1877 of a Caucasian father, and a mother half Caucasian, and half Hawaiian. He was educated at St. Louis College, Honolulu, and has been active in politics since his graduation.

OFFICIAL MANY YEARS

For two years Mr. Jarrett was deputy Sheriff of Honolulu, Sheriff of the city and county twelve years, and high Sheriff of the Territory from June 1, 1914, until last June.

As high Sheriff he had charge of the territorial prison and there he made a name that was unique in the annals of such institutions. Under his direction the prisoners built a new prison, modern in every respect, to take the place of the old "Reef," noted in penal records of the mid-Pacific.

Under his regime was established a series of reforms that gained nation-wide attention. He made the "honor system" effective and introduced a graduated scale of behavior records whereby prisoners passed from one class of trustee to another, each higher grade carrying additional privileges.

When Jarrett retired last June as head of the prison he was the center of a demonstration within the walls that indicated the success of his administration. The prison orchestra and dramatic club, established by himself, led the farewell exercises and at the close "Big Bill" passed among "his boys," shaking hands and saying his farewells.

PRISONERS WEEP

Many of the prisoners broke down and openly wept. As he left the hall all the inmates, crowding about him until he passed through the door, broke into the Hawaiian words of the song written by Queen Liliuokalani, "Aloha Oe."

During his recent campaign, which terminated with approximately a 3000 majority in his favor, he invariably began his speeches with the simple announcement, "I'm Bill Jarrett." It always brought an ovation.

The Delegate-elect is married and has four children. He also has two brothers, both of whom are active in politics, but unlike himself, they are Republicans. One of them, James, was elected Tuesday to the territorial Senate on the Republican ticket.

The Jarrett family is one of the oldest and most prominent in the islands. The first Jarrett to arrive in Hawaii came in 1820, the year the missionaries landed from Boston. He was a petty officer on the old U.S.S. Vincennes. When his enlistment expired during that ship's visit to the then monarchy of Hawaii, he settled in Hawaii.

JONES WINS AS SHERIFF AT FRESNO

Demand for Recount May be Made by Two Candidates on Close Vote

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Nov. 9.—Assurance of the re-election of Sheriff William F. Jones and victory for C. E. Barnum for public administrator, in the late semiofficial returns of this forenoon, was almost immediately followed by the prospects for a demand for a recount from the camps of both defeated candidates. Jones's election was assured by a majority of 563 votes from 300 precincts with the returns coming in this morning from thirty outlying precincts, most of them in the mountain districts. Barnum, who has maintained a slight lead over Roy Harrington throughout the semiofficial tally appears elected by 311 votes.

Conferences of supporters of each of the defeated candidates were held this morning, at which the desire for a recount was discussed but no definite action started.

Neither of the two defeated candidates would participate in these conferences and declined to discuss the possibility of their desiring a second tally of the election returns. Later Thorwaldson and Harrington met for a private discussion of their defeat and the factors which they believe responsible. Afterward they issued statements conceding the election of Jones and Barnum on the face of the returns.

An official tally from 201 precincts out of 222 in the county was prepared this morning by J. E. Farley, deputy County Clerk for presentation to the Board of Supervisors at the official canvass.

Several thousand radicals marched to the United States Consulate at Vera Cruz to deliver a message sent by the Reds to the United States government demanding the immediate release of the men.

HOUSE TO GET WOMEN

One Newly Elected Congresswoman Known for Business Ability; Other is Stranger

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Though surprises were expected in the election of women candidates, nevertheless they ran somewhat truer to forecast than the men.

We find Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck (Rep.) elected in Illinois, and Miss Alice Robertson (Rep.) defeated in Oklahoma. That means we shall have two women in Congress when it begins its special session on the 20th inst.

Mrs. Huck was elected to fill out the unexpired term of her father, William B. Mason, who died in office, while Miss Robertson will serve the rest of her term.

Therefore neither of these two women will be members of the next Congress, which, unless called in special session, begins its two years' term December, 1923.

ANOTHER DEFEATED

It has been expected that Mrs. Otero Warren (Rep.) would be elected New Mexico's Congresswoman, but late returns have indicated her defeat.

As anticipated, Mrs. Peter Oleson and Mrs. Ben Hooper were defeated for the Senate from Minnesota and Wisconsin, respectively. But, according to late reports at Democratic national headquarters, two women were elected to Congress—Mrs. St. Clair Moss from Missouri, and Miss Esther K. O'Keefe from Indiana.

Therefore, unless later returns change the present results, we shall have two women in Congress just as soon as it convenes, and two in the next Congress, all in the House and none in the Senate.

COLLEGE MOTHER

Mrs. St. Clair Moss, the successful Democratic candidate, was born Luella Wilcox, of Scotch-Irish ancestry, and a native of Illinois. She was married to Prof. Frank P. St. Clair, who died in 1913. Her second husband, Dr. Woodson Moss of the University of Missouri, died in 1920. One daughter died at the age of 12, but Mrs. Moss has been "college mother to more than 3000 college daughters."

Following are outstanding facts in Mrs. Moss's career:

She held a teachers' certificate when 17, teaching school for three years in Colorado. Many mornings she "broke trail" through the snow on her pony.

At the age of 27 she was elected the first woman president of Christian College, and was president of Hamilton College at Lexington, Ky.

Having financed and supervised the construction of eight college buildings and managed an annual budget running to $150,000, she is known as one of the best administrative and business women in the State.

She was the first woman to be elected to the school board of her home town, Columbia, and has been identified with the Women's Democratic Club there since its organization.

FIRST ADVENTURE

Miss Esther O'Keefe, the second woman apparently elected to the Sixty-eighth Congress, is a younger woman, being in her early thirties. Not much was known of her at Democratic national headquarters here, except that she is a graduate of a western college, has done newspaper work and makes a splendid speech. She has been prominent in suffrage circles, but this is her first adventure in politics.

WOMEN AID FESS

If Senator Fess wins in Ohio, as returns are indicating, his victory will have been greatly influenced by Republican women operating from national headquarters. But even if he doesn't the women have taken a leading part in the Ohio campaign. And here lies a tale.

Senator Pomerene blocked the appointment of George Upton, whom President Harding nominated member of the Federal Reserve Board. Mr. Upton is the husband of Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, vice-chairman of the Republican National Executive Committee, and head of Republican women's activities. It was openly asserted Senator Pomerene wanted to keep Mrs. Upton out of the Ohio campaign, and he is said to have expected that blocking her husband's appointment would make the veteran suffrage leader so displeased that she would quit.

But, on the contrary, Mrs. Upton stuck to her unpaid job here in Washington and threw the weight of her influence into the Ohio campaign.

Those who know Mrs. Upton do not believe she did it to beat the Senator who blocked her husband, but nevertheless, if Senator Fess is elected some folks may think it something in the way of divine justice.

Starting at 6 a.m. Tuesday, when the polls opened, the officials remained tallying until the final envelope was sealed at 1 p.m. Thursday. This is believed to set a local and possibly a State record. Close Race for Sheriff's Job in Tulare County

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, Nov. 9.—Complete returns from 116 precincts out of 121 give Robert Hill a lead of 288 over Sheriff Court Smith, in one of the closest and most exciting Tulare county races in years. The count from outlying districts will favor Smith, but is not expected to overcome Hill's lead.

Fred Scott, District Attorney, leads Pat Newell with 756, Miss Gladys Stewart leads George Tchummy by 3800 for County Clerk, and J. M. Buckman, incumbent County Superintendent, has a lead of 2000 over Miss Elizabeth Noyes. Tulare county gave big majorities to Richardson, Johnson and Young.

Figures on 105 precincts give Richardson, 10,316; Woolwine, 4147; Johnson, 8363; Pearson, 4056; Young, 1930; Shearer, 4058. Amendments Nos. 1 and 2 were approved, No. 3 carried by a small majority and No. 19 was heavily defeated.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 9.—President Schwerin of the Federal Wireless Company is here with plans to construct the largest wireless station in the world in Shanghai. Work is expected to start within thirty days. He expects to complete it in nineteen months.

President Schwerin asserts news from and to the United States will be carried at cheaper rates. The American Chamber of Commerce recently passed resolutions favoring cheaper news cables. The British and Japanese news agencies have preferential rates, thus making their viewpoints mroe accessible to the Chinese press.

VOTE PLEASES REPUBLICANS

Majorities Still Retained in Both Houses

Spirit of Unrest Given as Cause of Slump

Party Planning to Continue Economy Policy

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican National Committee, today voiced the gratification of party leaders that Republican majorities have been retained in both Senate and House. He issued a statement setting forth what he believes to be the reasons for the election results.

The Republican majorities of two years ago were whittled down, in the chairman's opinion, by the influence on the public of unsettled conditions following the great war, an exceptional importance attached to local issues over national issues in various States, the normal tendency of a part of the voters to seek a change in off years, and the invoking of bogus issues to becloud the political situation in general.

STATEMENT FOLLOWS

The statement follows:

"The political off-year always witnesses a decided reaction from the majorities of a Presidential election. With very few exceptions, the Congress elected in off years has been of opposite political faith to the administration. In view of this, the retention of control of Congress by the Republicans this year is very gratifying.

"This is especially true in view of the spirit of unrest which prevails throughout this country as an aftermath of the great war. Such a spirit always visits its dissatisfaction upon whatever party may be in power. At such times the only thought that appeals to a great class of people is to vote for a change regardless of the issues involved or the records of the contending parties.

"In addition to this situation, there were issues of real importance in some States, which took prominence over national issues, and in other places opposition to the present administration raised fake issues in order to befog the public.

PRINCIPLES SAME

"Results do not change any of the fundamentally sound principles of economy of government. Neither do they shake the determination of the Republican administration to stand by these principles. Today the Republican party is more than ever the one party of construction and Americanism as against the forces of destruction and Internationalism. Those who supported the Republican candidates in these elections were fully appreciative of that fact.

"Reduction of public expenditures and taxes continue to be the dominant issues in every community as well as in the nation. This Republican administration will continue its program of rigid public economy which has already resulted in a slashing of public expenditures and reduction in public debt and taxes.

"The party will remain steadfast to those underlying principles of all enduring governments."

CHAMBER SWITCHES ON ITS UNMERGER STAND

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUSA, Nov. 9.—Previous action of the Colusa Chamber of Commerce in favor of the unmerger of the Southern Pacific-Central Pacific Railroad system was rescinded at a regular meeting today.

In support of the resolution adopted, it was said that further study of the question had showed that the former action was taken without the due consideration the importance of the question demanded.

NEW MEN WILL LEAD SENATE

Cummins, Lodge Both to Quit Active Rule

Watson May be Named Head of Party

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—New leaders in the Senate after March 4 next became a certainty today when it was learned definitely that Senator Cummins of Iowa will not be a candidate for presiding officer pro tempore after the present session. Senator Lodge will also relinquish his leadership of the Senate after the session expires on March 4. He is not physically rugged, and with the changed conditions in the Senate he will be glad to take a less active part in the management of Senatorial matters. Senator Watson of Indiana is likely to become the Senate leader, and if for any reason this is not accomplished, Senator Curtis of Kansas may be chosen. He is now the Republican whip, and has poise and influence that would be of great value in handling a rather mixed majority party.

Senator Cummins, who is also chairman of the powerful Interstate Commerce Committee is weary of the double duties and finds them difficult with increasing ages. Who will succeed him is not known, but probably Senator McNary or some of the other western Senators will be chosen for this important position. Whoever is selected will preside over the Senate in the absence of the Vice-President.

Strange as it may seem there will be little change in the men in control of the more important committees of the Senate, and the chairmen will remain as at present with the exception of the Finances Committee, of which Senator McCumber is now the head. He will be succeeded by Senator Smoot of Utah, who will be the highest ranking member. Senator Hale of Maine will probably become the chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs made vacant by the elimination of Senator Page of Vermont, and by the acting chairman, Senator Poindexter, who is apparently beaten by former Congressman Dill of Washington.

There will be some minor changes in some of the other big committees, like banking and currency, where Calder and Freilinghuysen were junior members. Senator Townsend's defeat in Michigan will make a vacancy on the Post Roads Committee. He will probably be succeeded by Senator Sterling, who will be ranking member at the time of the Senate reorganization.

What seems to be a well-founded statement that Senator Newberry will resign in January to take effect on March 4 is generally accepted here as authentic and this will also cause additional changes.

What the Republican and administration leaders fear is that a deliberate campaign of filibustering by the Democrats will be initiated to force a special session after March 4 and that then there will be an attempt to play politics. If an extra session comes after March 4 the contest over the seating of Mayfield of Texas will cause a scandal even greater than the Newberry case and will occupy most of the summer.

In the House the defeat of Congressman Volstead has deprived the Judiciary Committee of its chairman and in addition the Republicans have lost five other members of this committee. There will be a struggle to control this committee between the factions who desire a modification of the Volstead Enforcement Act and those who would have no modification of the present enforcement measure.

INSISTS WAR DEBT BE PAID

Henry M. Robinson Speaks to World Traders

Asserts America Should Not be Too Severe

Opportunities Opening in South America

That the United States, as a creditor, should not be unduly severe and that European countries as debtors should not be allowed to go scot-free, was the keynote of an address of Henry M. Robinson, president of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank and the First Securities Company, before World Traders at their annual meeting and dinner in the Alexandria last night.

Two definite groups have resulted from proposals in relation to European indebtedness and the questions involved to possible cancellation, he said. One group is for the cancellation of debts with the exception of Great Britain, and the other, which feels it should not be done.

It has been announced in New York that Germany and Italy could not pay anything like a reasonable proportion of their indebtedness to the United States. The statement is made that these countries cannot pay unless a surplus of their export produce is dumped into this country.

Figures produced show that the United States was in excess of exports into these countries over imports for the past fiscal year to an enormous sum. This invisible contribution should in time make it possible for the countries to cancel their debts.

"In my mind," said Mr. Robinson, "it would be a great wrong for the United States to demand payment for a few years, but I submit that the people of this country through their thrift have carried the load, and in the course of time it is the duty of these foreign countries to pay."

H. C. Nelese, who has been in the Argentine for three years acting as treasurer of the American Chamber of Commerce, related briefly conditions and the advantages that would be derived as the result of the combined passenger and freight service that is to be established between Los Angeles and the east coast of South America, beginning December next. Such a service was strongly advocated by Mr. Nelese before leaving for the Argentine.

The new combined passenger and freight line that is to be operated by Swayne and Hoyt, will give this country an opportunity of exporting freely into countries on the East coast of South America.

"The people of Argentina are highly cultured," said Mr. Nelese. "Don't make any mistake. They want the best and can pay for it."

Captain S. S. Sanburg, of the Harbor department, explained a new regulation that would be in effect in December regarding the disposition and removal of freight at Los Angeles harbor. At present it is the only port in the world that is tolerating freight congestion such as exists. Steel pipe, covering 15,000 square feet, piled two high instead of the regulation four high, is lying in the harbor. The new regulation in December will allow only the regular time for freight to lie in transit sheds.

Officers elected for 1922-23 were: Maurice Carasso, president; C. S. Bessemyer, vice-president; J. Forsyth, treasurer, and David Wittet, secretary. The board of directors will consist of Marius de Brabant, S. L. Kribbler, C. S. Bessemyer, Maynard McFie, C. H. Matson, J. Forsyth, Maurice Carasso, R. C. Mead and Alexander S. Cowie.

RIVER DIVISION SESSIONS OPEN

Colorado Water Allocation Offers Problem

Hoover Presides, With Four States Represented

McClure, California Member, to Join Body

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA FE (N. M.) Nov. 9.—The Colorado River Commission held its first informal session here today, preliminary to a general conference of the commission from seven Western States called to draw up a final agreement for allocation and distribution of the waters of the Colorado River and its tributaries, covering an area of 242,000 square miles.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, chairman of the commission, presided at the initial meeting today, which was attended by official representatives of only four of the States, and groups of unofficial delegates. California was represented by a large delegation to watch the handling of the interests of that State.

Colorado is represented at the conference, which will formally open up Saturday, according to Secretary Hoover, by Delph E. two States have met to enter a compact which is to be submitted to Congress and the State Legislatures for ratification.

Gov. Campbell of Arizona and Carpenter, Utah, by R. C. Caldwell; Arizona, by R. S. Norwell, and New Mexico, by Stephen H. Davis, Jr., defeated candidate for United State Senator in last Tuesday's election.

MEETING HISTORIC

Col. Scrugham, Nevada, Governor-elect, will be here to represent that State. His arrival late tonight, and W. F. McClure of Sacramento, Cal., member of the commission, also is due tonight. Frank C. Emerson, State treasurer, will represent Wyoming.

All sessions of the commission will be executive, it has been announced. Convening of the commission will mark the first occasion, it is said, where more than Gov. Mechem of New Mexico are the only Governors in attendance.

The Arizona Governor said today that Arizona was anxious for expedition of an amicable settlement of the Colorado River problem "without taking it to the United States Supreme Court."

"There is a pressing demand for reclamation water and power in Arizona, and time is an exceedingly valuable element," Gov. Campbell asserted. "A large number of small projects, principally for power, are waiting on this settlement," said the Governor.

George H. Maxwell, executive director of the National Reclamation Association at Washington, and Director A. P. Davis of the Reclamation Service also are present. Amando Santa Cruz of El Paso is attending as an unofficial representative from Texas.

Secretary Hoover will be the guest of honor at a dinner in Albuquerque Saturday.

The real work of the commission is not expected to get under way until the first of next week.

WOOLWINE TO KEEP HIS JOB

Defeated Candidate Will Not Resign Now

Motion - Picture Company Bids for Services

Late Count Fails to Change State Results

"We attempted a miracle and the day of miracles seems at an end," said Thomas Lee Woolwine in conceding last night his defeat for the Governorship by Friend W. Richardson, whose majority steadily increased yesterday in excess of 175,000. With approximately 65 per cent of the Los Angeles city and county vote counted, Richardson's majority here is expected to exceed 66,000.

Denying reports that he would resign at once to enter private practice, Mr. Woolwine said, however, that he has had several attractive offers to enter private practice, among which one of the most desirable is a proposal that he serve as counsel for a motion-picture corporation.

"I have no present intention of resigning; that is a matter to which I must give some further thought," he said.

HIS STATEMENT

In a formal statement conceding defeat, Mr. Woolwine said:

"With a Republican registration of approximately 900,000 to 200,000 Democratic, we attempted a miracle, and the day of miracles seems at an end. It was a glorious fight. We conducted a clean, truthful campaign against insurmountable odds. I have made it a cardinal rule of my life to look forward and not backward. I look and that's all there is to it.

"I made thousands of new friends throughout the State, and cemented for all time old friendships, and to say that I feel a heartfelt gratitude toward those who so nobly assisted me will hardly express my sentiments.

"While I do not care to attempt any kind of an alibi or offer any excuses, at the same time I feel constrained to say that I was personally villified by the most glaring falsifications. However, I refuse to attribute this personally to my opponent, and it is my fervent hope that he may be able, in some measure, to approximate in performance his promises and make the people of the State a good and efficient Governor."

During the day yesterday reports were current that Mr. Woolwine planned to resign at once. It is the belief of some of his friends that he will tender his resignation within the next sixty days.

JOHNSON'S VOTE

Although Senator Johnson apparently carried every county in the State with an anticipated majority in excess of 200,000, his total vote on yesterday's count was only 4000 greater than that of Richardson, the count giving Mr. Johnson 468,147, and Richardson 464,447. On these returns Mr. Johnson's majority over William J. Pearson was 291,788 and Mr. Richardson's majority was 156,570.

This count represented 5425 precincts for the Senatorship and 5483 precincts for the Governorship.

Other Republican nominees, including Lieut.-Gov. Young, received huge majorities. Indications are that Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan will receive the greatest number of votes cast for any candidate in the general election.

In the race for associate justice of the State Supreme Court, partial State-wide returns indicate the election of Judge Kerrigan and Judge Seawell and the defeat of the two incumbents, Judge Shurtleff and Judge Sloane.

"DRYS" STILL HOPE

Dry leaders yesterday continued to predict victory for the prohibition enforcement measure, despite returns which indicated defeat for the measure by several thousand votes.

Mr. Richardson, on returns from more than three-fourths of the State's 6681 precincts, carried fifty-four of the fifty-eight counties in California. The counties giving Mr. Woolwine majorities are El Dorado, Mariposa, San Francisco and Solano. In San Francisco, Mr. Woolwine's majority on the partial count was 14,195.

In San Diego, where the total vote for Governor was about one-fifth of the total vote in San Francisco for Governor, Richardson's majority was 13,088. In Alameda county, across the bay from San Francisco, Richardson was given a majority of 19,659, and in Sacramento county, where the wet Sacramento Bee predicted a Woolwine majority of many thousands, Richardson was given a majority, on partial returns, of 111.

In Los Angeles county Senator Johnson received a greater majority over Mr. Pearson than the majority given Mr. Richardson over Mr. Woolwine, but the total vote for Mr. Richardson was 23,169 greater than the total vote for Senator on a count of 1130 of the county's 1484 precincts.

MEDICAL ACTS WIN

Victory for the osteopathic and chiropractic acts was made virtually certain by yesterday's returns which added to the overwhelming negative vote cast against the proposed $500,000,000 water and power act.

In the race for Superior Judge in this county, Judge Hahn, Elliott Craig, Judge McLucas and William C. Doran were elected. Judge Summerfield and Judge Wood, who were elected in the primary, but whose names appeared on the November ballot as "majority candidates," received a huge vote.

The so-called lawyers' bill was defeated by a vote of 2-to-1. The veterans' $10,000,000 bond act also carried by a 2-to-1 vote and the State housing act was beaten more than 5-to-1.

Police judges elected in Los Angeles county are: Judges Chambers, Richardson, Frederickson and Crawford and Attorney Caryl M. Sheldon.

For justice of the peace four incumbents, Hanby, Follette Forbes and Baird, were re-elected and Scott and Wood were elected. Two incumbents, Brown and Hinshaw, were defeated. All proposed pay increases for city and county officials were lost.

ON PROPOSITIONS

Partial returns from city, county and State, which are believed to be fairly representative of the general sentiment of the voters, indicate the outcome as follows on various measures: Municipal, No. 1-A, proportional representation lost; No. 2-A, district representation, lost; No. 3-A, district representation, lost; No. 4-A, increase Mayor's salary, lost; No. 5-A, increase City Attorney's salary, lost; No. 6-A, increase City Auditor's salary, lost; No. 7-A, increase Councilmen's salaries, lost; No. 8-A, firemen's and policemen's pension, carried; No. 9-A, added power for water board, carried; No. 10-A, addition to Exposition Park museum, carried; No. 11-A, to put City Clerk and City Treasurer under civil service, carried; No. 12-A, added powers for water board, lost; No. 13-A, skyfight law, carried; No. 14-A, public improvements fund, carried; No. 15-A, civil service provision to permit demotion of employees, lost; No. 16-A, added powers for water board, lost; No. 17-A, water and power measure, carried; No. 18-A, $2,800,000 fire bonds, carried; No. 19-A, $5,000,000 water bonds, carried.

County: Increase Supervisors' pay from $5000 to $7500, lost; $7,000,000 bond issue for County Hospital, lost; $2,000,000 bond issue for new hall of justice, lost.

State land settlement bond issue of $3,000,000, lost; title insurance act, lost; exemption World War veterans from taxation, lost; judges pro tempore, lost; organization of school districts, carried; increase in number of signatures on initiative petitions relating to, takes and collections of funds, lost; transportation act, lost; use of streams within and without State, lost; absent voting, carried; deposit of school money, carried.

Five women will grace the Assembly at the next session of the California Legislature as a result of Tuesday's State-wide election. This is a gain of two women members over the session of two years ago.

Two of the three incumbent Assembly women were re-elected. They are Mrs. Anna L. Saylor, Forty-first district, Berkeley, and Miss Esto B. Broughton, Forty-sixth District, Modesto.

The new women members of the Legislature are Mrs. Cora M. Woodbridge, Ninth District, Roseville; Mrs. Grace S. Dorris, Fifty-sixth District, Bakersfield, and Miss Eleanor Miller, Sixty-seventh District, Pasadena.

BOND VOTE FATAL TO ROAD WORK

Santa Monica to Hold Special Meeting to Talk Over Street Problems

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 9.—Failure of the local bond issue for $1,200,000 to carry at Tuesday's election, being defeated by 105 votes, has caused the city officials here to wonder by what method they can finish their street improvement program recently inaugurated through Santa Monica's growing need of more modern traffic arteries. That a mass meeting of local citizens will be called shortly through the local Chamber of Commerce for discussion of development emergencies was intimated today by Commissioner of Public Works W. H. Carter.

Defeat of the bond issue means, for the present, the abeyance of plans calling for the improvement of Trolleyway, one of the biggest projects on the proposed program and which if accomplished, in cooperation with the Venice authorities, would have resulted in the completion of a Coast highway clear to Del Rey, where connection would then be made with the State highway. Need of such a through highway parallel to the ocean is evidenced every day, city officials say, and must be put through soon if traffic and business development is to be supported.

The project needed two-thirds majority to carry. The total vote on the bonds, 4772, is the largest vote ever cast here on a public improvement project.

"There is one thing certain," Mayor S. L. Berkley said today when discussing various plans for the street improvement, "and that is these streets must be opened. It is a vital traffic demand. Some ways and means must be brought forward that Santa Monica may be justified in claiming to be the most progressive city in the Southland."

In Benefit Play

Mabel Van Buren, Larry Semon, Catherine Van Buren.

WHEN Chester Conklin makes love to Larry Semon the result is loud, hearty and prolonged laughter on the part of the audience, according to those who last night witnessed "Charley's Aunt," the all-star show being given at Philharmonic Auditorium by the Elks for the benefit of their orphans' Christmas fund.

And when the rest of the cast numbers such sterling players as William H. Crane, Ruth Roland, Ora Carew, Mabel and Catherine Van Buren, Herbert Heyes and D. O. Hatswell, a great evening's entertainment is assured.

"Charley's Aunt," the comedy classic that has delighted three generations, is proving as big an attraction today as it did when it was first presented, and a record crowd is expected to witness the remaining performances tonight and tomorrow.

Music between the acts was furnished last night by the firemen and policemen's combined bands. Tonight the Elks' Band from Pasadena Lodge, No. 672, will play, and tomorrow night the White Squadron Band of Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99, will provide melody.

LATINS EAGER FOR SESSIONS

France and Italy Object to Delay at Lausanne

Far East Situation Leaves Diplomats Chafing

Turk Program Gives Promise of Difficulties

BY SAMUEL DASCHEL
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Unless the firm desire of France and Italy is overruled by England, the conference at Lausanne will go ahead as scheduled on Monday. The Latin nations are agreed that the policy of delay which the Allies invariably have shown in their negotiations with Turkey is partly responsible for the recent outbreaks at Constantinople and for the sudden development of strong groups of irreconcilables within the Nationalist Assembly at Angora. Consequently, while both Italy and France realize the justice of Marquis Curzon's demand for a two weeks' postponement they nevertheless see danger ahead if the Allied commissioners at Constantinople are compelled to play with fire in imposing a state of siege on the hostile people who are intoxicated with victory and of overpowering strength—the Allied guard at Constantinople numbering about 5000.

The present plan suggested by Premier Poincare is that delegates be dispatched to Lausanne by all of the powers attending the conference whereby the sessions will be opened. After the three or four days necessary for the preliminaries it is believed a British proposal for a week's adjournment would be accepted. The time could be used, as is invariably the case, for researches by special committees until the result of the British elections would permit the departure of the statesmen with a definite policy.

VETERANS ASSIGNED

Dispatches from Italy affirm that Premier Mussolini intends to go to Lausanne although Premier Poincare is sending two diplomatic veterans, the Italian Ambassador, M. Barrere and the former Turkish Ambassador, M. Bompard. M. Barrere played an important role at Genoa and has been a consistent worker for the Franco-Italian entente. M. Bompard formerly was ambassador to Petrograd and later was in Constantinople until the war. He is an authority on Levantine affairs. The Turkish delegation already is en route under the leadership of Ismet Pasha charged by the National Assembly to adhere unconditionally to a program which is certain to cause difficulties, probably much more serious than any that have yet come up for regulation between Turkey and Europe. The Turks will require absolute, integral execution of the national pact, a plebiscite in Western Thrace, autonomy of the islands, an indemnity of 6,000,000,000 gold francs from Greece, restitution of the Mossoul region to Turkey, readjustment of the Turko-Syrian frontier, recognition of the complete independence of Turkey, and suppression of the capitulation treaties. Such a program, it is considered at Paris, must be modified but in any case can only be aggravated by delay.

UNITY THREATENED

Although there is nothing intimated in the news of Premier Poincare's attitude tonight to warrant sayin gthe Lausanne conference will not be postponed, there is nothing to encourage the belief that it will open on the day scheduled. France and England still are more or less agreed on their stand toward the Kemalists and Constantinoplists, but the unity is not as perfect as the respective governments would have it appear on the surface.

Premier Poincare has, like Mr. Bonard Law, passed an order on to the French commissioner to act in concord with the British and to take any steps he deems necessary, but your correspondent knows from a private source that M. Poincare also has informed Downing Street that France will under no circumstances undertake war against the Turks.

What can be deduced from that is a puzzle. One can only say that it means France will not fight the Turks except as a last resort.

This much is certain: French public opinion, as well as the government's, has changed vastly since the efforts originally made by France to help save the situation and now favors the Kemalists. Recent developments have given rise to a sentiment that France's efforts have been unappreciated and the French are the last people in the world to continue being generous under such circumstances.

Brazilian Tars Pay Homage to American Gobs

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 9.—Yesterday was Nevada day at the Brazilian Centennial Exposition, in honor of the American warship of that name and its sailors and marines, who have been representing the United States here since September last. The day's program was furnished by American and Brazilian sailors and marines from the warships here and by aviators.

This was the first day devoted exclusively to North Americans and it was in the nature of a farewell to the Nevada, which sails soon.

The Nevada has provided something new for the Brazilians by broadcasting wireless concerts through loud receivers located in various parts of the exposition grounds.

Hydroairplanes from the Nevada and from Brazilian ships performed dairing stunts in the air during the afternoon and evening.

Brazilian sailors and marines joined with the Americans in a street parade, which was followed by a ceremony of military homage to the American flag under the leadership of the Lord Mayor of Rio de Janeiro.

Lloyd George's Tour of Wales is Successful

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Former Premier Lloyd George today began a triumphal tour through Wales, speaking at Cardiff, Newport, Bridgend and many other towns.

He had his usual send-off from London, but at Newport the crowd was so enthusiastic that it broke windows in the railway carriage from which he spoke.

Lloyd George is already attacking the record of the new government, declaring that after three weeks' tranquility the results had been a collapse of European exchanges.

Germany and the Turks, misled by the foolish talk that he (Lloyd George) was the only man in their way, had torn the Mudania pact to shreds, declared the former Premier.

He said he hoped Prime Minister Bonar Law would translate Lord Curson's words to action and be firm, as "the world would be saved by firmness, not flabbiness."

This is the question considered the most important before the annual meeting of the Arizona Good Roads Association to be held soon in Douglas, Ariz., according to Harry Welch, association secretary. Three speakers will present the matter in all its phases, he said.

HEIRESS TO GATES FORTUNE TO MARRY

CHICAGO GIRL ANNOUNCES ENGAGEMENT TO PAL OF SCHOOL DAYS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Miss Delora Angell, 20-year-old heiress to the $26,000,000 estate of the late John W. Gates, will be married in the spring. Her engagement to marry Lester Norris, son of Cal Norris, Lake Forest furniture dealer and undertaker, was announced at a party given by Mrs. E. J. Baker, Delora's aunt.

Young Norris is 21 years old, and the romance dates back from the time they attended school together in St. Charles. He is a commercial artist and illustrator.

Miss Angell, who is a niece of the widow of the famous plunger of the '90's, was left the entire estate. Norris's parents are of moderate means. It is said that Miss Angell and Norris plighted their troth before they were graduated from school, but at that time it failed to meet the approval of Miss Angell's father, Frank A. Angell. He advised them to wait.

Then, according to the story in circulation, in St. Charles, he attempted to direct Delora's sentiments away from the comparatively poor boy. She was placed in a distant school and taken on numerous trips to California in the hope that the separation would cool her regard for young Norris.

She passed many months in California where at various intervals she was reported as receiving the attentions of different men and on some occasions engaged. She promptly denied all these reports.

Delora will get only the income of the Gates's estate until she is 31. Then she will be given one-quarter of the estate, another quarter when she becomes 35 and the remainder when she reaches 40. Until she is 31, also, the full estate will be managed by a board of trustees.

CONVICT PLEADS FOR OPERATION ON BRAIN

AUTHOR ASKS AUTHORITIES TO HELP "SAVE HIM FROM HIMSELF."

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—In response to a pathetic appeal to officials to permit him to risk undergoing a dangerous operation if "it will make a man" of him, Dist.-Atty. Ruston, Asst. Dist.-Atty. Jos V. Gallagher, and Dr. Ernest M. Vaughan of Brooklyn, are considering the case of George V. Lester, serving a prison term on Blackwell's Island.

Lester, who had steadfastly refused to give his true name or address, but admitted he is from a prominent Virginia family has an M. A. degree from a college and is a writer of short stories for magazines, is believed to be a victim of psychic condition causing criminal tendencies.

A fall from a horse ten years ago, Dr. Vaughan thinks, can be held responsible for three prison sentences given the man.

Last Monday Lester was sentenced in Brooklyn for passing a worthless check for $12.50 and was taken to the island. The following day he wrote a letter to Gallagher petitioning him "to help save me from myself."

Upon questioning it developed that ten years ago Lester was thrown from a horse and was struck on the back of the head, remaining unconscious for three days. Since that time Lester said he had suffered headaches at various times and when he recovers from these undergoes attacks of aphasia and is unable to remember what he does until he has regained his normal state of mind.

MILLIONS NEEDED BY REVENUE BUREAU

TAXPAYERS' CLAIMS MUST BE ADJUSTED; SUM TO BE ASKED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—More than $40,000,000 is needed for the revenue bureau for the payment of adjusted claims by taxpayers for taxes illegally collected, treasury officials estimated today. A deficiency appropriation to permit the bureau to pay these adjusted claims will be asked of Congress when it convenes the latter part of the month, officials say.

The claims so far adjusted, officials explained, cover the various tax years back as far as 1917, but do not comprise the total of claims pending before the bureau which it will require months to clean up.

At the same time it was estimated that about $300,000,000 will be recovered by the government from the drive instituted by the revenue bureau to effect the payment of back taxes before the end of the current fiscal year, June 30, 1923.

Skin Ablaze with Eczema

Constant Itching Almost Unbearable!

We know there is one thing that stops eczema, and that is more red-blood-cells! S. S. S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blood cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it! Skin eruptions, eczema with all its fiery, skin-digging torture and its soul-tearing, unreachable itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting-giants of nature! S. S. S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1826! S. S. S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body-builders known to us mortals! When you put these facts together,—then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. Mrs. Arthur N. Smith, Pearl St., Newark, Ohio, writes:

"My little girl had a very bad case of eczema. She began taking S. S. S. and is well now. I thank you very much. I tell my friends what a good medicine it is. I cannot talk too much about it, for I know it is O. K."

Here is your opportunity. S. S. S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S. S. S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs rheumatism, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down. S. S. STORM CLOSES MOUNTAIN ROAD

Eighteen Inches of Snow in Giant Forest

Rangers Move Into Quarters for Winter

New Building Under Way at Alder Creek

THREE RIVERS, Nov. 9.—The Giant Forest road from Watson's Spring to Giant Forest is now closed, probably until next spring. Eighteen inches of snow fell at Giant Forest and five inches at Colony Mill during the recent storm. Overseer Keller and the road crew moved from Giant Forest to Colony Mill on October 26 and are now repairing the road from Colony Mill to Park Gate. Ranger Grunigen remained in charge at Giant Forest and will be relieved there by Ranger Magly, who, with Mrs. Magly, will have charge there during the winter. Rangers Dorr and Brooks are at Cedar Creek and will work all winter on the lower part of the Giant Forest road. Should the weather permit, the road to Giant Forest will be opened at intervals but tourists should secure information from headquarters at Three Rivers.

Supt. John R. White has moved to winter quarters at Three Rivers.

Chief Ranger Hopping on a recent inspection trip to Cabin Meadow and Black Oak country found a black bear in a trap, so near dead that it had to be killed. It is strictly against rules of the park to trap animals and the bears afford much pleasure to children and countless visitors during the summer. An arrest for the offense is expected to be made.

Construction of a permanent headquarters building is soon to start at Alder Creek, 1650 feet altitude, with a magnificent view of Moro Rock and the Kaweah peaks. No other national park is said to possess so excellent a location for year-round quarters as that found at Alder Creek.

HUGHES ASKS CHANGE IN FOREIGN SERVICE

POST-WAR CONDITIONS MAKE BETTERMENT IMPERATIVE, SAYS SECRETARY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Far-reaching reorganization of the foreign service, as proposed in the bill pending in Congress and presented by Representative Rogers, Republican, Massachusetts, was indorsed by Secretary Hughes in letters to Mr. Rogers and to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, made public today at the State Department.

"Post-war conditions have rendered a general betterment of the present organization so imperative," Mr. Hughes wrote Mr. Rogers, "that failure to provide for reorganization along constructive lines would be tantamount to retrogression.

The Secretary made it plain that the revived Rogers bill prepared at the State Department and submitted to President Harding was the proposal he indorsed. He described it as representing no important departure from the principal features of the original Rogers bill, which were enumerated as follows:

Classification of Ministers; amalgamation of the diplomatic and consular services into a single foreign service on an interchangeable basis; substitution of a corps of foreign service pupils for the present corps of consular assistants; a retirement system.

SHIPPING BOARD TO CHANGE OPERATIONS

EMERGENCY FLEET MANAGER WILL SUPERVISE FIVE MORE LINES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—William J. Love, vice-president and general manager of the Shipping Board's Emergency Fleet Corporation, will in addition to his other duties shortly assume charge of the North Atlantic district in New York City, in place of A. F. Mack, resigned, Chairman Lasker announced today. Mr. Love will make his headquarters in New York and will assume the active supervision of the operation of all the Shipping Board passenger vessels now operated on the North Atlantic service, to South America and the Pacific.

The changes, described in the announcement as "important and sweeping," was occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Mack tendered on account of "pressing personal business."

Mr. Love probably will spend one day a week in Washington. The lines he will supervise in his new position are the United States, the Munson, Admiral, Oriental and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

TWO SAILORS INJURED

Motorcycle Leaves Road Throwing Men Into Ditch

The accident occured about sixteen miles north of Lebec. Howard suffered from concussion of the brain, a badly cut scalp and numerous cuts and bruises, while Hinckley's right shouldedr was seriously injured. The men were taken to Lebec by passing motorists and Dr. S. C. Long was called from Bakersfield to attend the injured men, later removing them to a local hospital.

JUDGE TARGET OF "FRAME-UP"

Plot to Ruin Justice May be Costly to Lawyers

Rains Cause Alarm Among Fresno Vineyardists

Action of Grand Jury Stirs I.W.W. Circles

FRESNO, Nov. 8.—Disbarment for one local attorney, with possible criminal prosecution, may result from an asserted attempted bootleg "frame-up" on Police Judge J. G. Crichton, which has just been discovered. Judge Crichton, refusing to divulge the names of those concerned in the so-called "frame-up" declared yesterday that he will take the matter up with the bar association and is securing evidence for this purpose. Affidavits purporting to show the workings of a conspiracy are in his possession, the judge said.

A local attorney is said to have approached a third party with the proposal to lay a trap for the Police Judge. This much the selected victim will admit.

The plans are supposed to have miscarried in the selection of the "plant" who is reported to have immediately confided the scheme to Judge Crichton.

"If I find the case warrants it, I shall take it to the bar association," the judge said yesterday following his refusal to divulge names or to give the nature of the plot.

FEAR CROP LOSS

Little immediate loss was predicted to grape crops by local shippers as a result of .04 of an inch of rainfall in the Fresno district yesterday morning, with declarations that a heavier fall would likely cause considerable damage.

Reports varied somewhat. A representative of one concern said that he expected heavy damage, while another said that damage might result if the rain continued with warm weather.

Reports in general from shippers were that little damage was expected. Reports from the vineyards disclosed that growers were very much alarmed and predict a loss of 50 per cent from mildew, according to H. R. Keller, assistant farm adviser.

About 40 per cent of the late crops of Emperors, Muscats, Malagas and Cornichons are said to be on the vines yet. In case of mildew there would be little chance of salvage except by sending them to the wineries where a price of from $10 to $15 a ton was estimated.

WOBBLIES ON THEIR WAY

With Sheriff William Jones holding John Doe warrants for their arrest, six asserted members of the I. W. W. have apparently disappeared, following their indictment by the grand jury.

The "wobblies" were formerly operating in this territory and are said to have migrated to more lawless districts.

This has been learned following a search for six men, whose names are not known in connection with indictments returned against them November 1, 1922, by the grand jury. Three men, Miles McCabe, Mike Hurley and A. J. Johnson were arrested shortly before the return of the indictments and are the only alleged leaders of the movement held by the authorities at the present time.

STOP STRIKE TALK

Threats of a strike affecting the male employees of the County Hospital have been dissipated by the action of the Board of Supervisors Monday in granting an increase of pay of $15 a month to each male employee in the county institution.

The total increase for each month will be about $500. This money is to be given in lieu of living quarters which have proven unsatisfactory to the employees and which were the cause of the threats of strikes.

In speaking before the board Dr. H. O. Collins, director of the hospital, made a statement that it is at present impossible to get help which is efficient and which will remain because of the low rates of pay and the inconvenient living quarters.

FACES DOUBLE CHARGE

Following a collision at Elm and California streets, G. S. Katzakian was arrested for reckless driving and for transporting liquor.

The accident occurred when Katzakian ran into a car driven by Mrs. Frank Iano, 128 West Belmont. Officers investigating found a gallon of moonshine brandy in the back of Katzakian's car.

The charge of transporting liquor was filed by the arresting officers, Kruger and Sayres, and that of reckless driving by Mrs. Iano.

The purpose of the proposed organization is announced as to promote the best interests of the firemen, maintain a brotherhood and fraternal feeling, discuss all State laws affecting firemen and fire work and propose new laws for better service and greater protection.

NIPPON GOVERNMENT LENDS AID TO RADIO

BARON TOGO'S SUGGESTION HAS WEIGHT WITH JAPAN'S CABINET COUNCIL

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU, Nov. 9.—The Japanese government has decided to extend assistance toward the proposed formation of a Japanese-American radio corporation, according to a cable dispatch received today by the Nippu Jiji, local vernacular newspaper.

This action, it is said, was taken by the Cabinet Council following the recent arrival in the United States of Baron Togo, who, with Baron Kumakichi Nakajima, is the originator of the wireless corporation plan. Baron Togo was one of the Japanese delegates to the Pan-Pacific Commercial Congress in Honoluiu, which closed last Monday. It is said his visit to the United States is for the express purpose of completing plans for his radio project. The plan of the department of communications, the dispatch states, to build government wireless plants failed while the government refused to include the construction fund in the 1923 budget.

The Cabinet Council has fixed the budget at 1,350,000,000 yen, according to the cable report, including increased appropriations for education purposes and decreased appropriations for the army and navy.

WOOD WILL FINISH WORK IN ISLANDS

General Defers Departure for University Until Bill for Reform is Acted Upon

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Maj.-Gen. Wood will not quit as Governor of the Philippines until the reform legislation he has advocated for the islands is acted on by the Philippine Legislature. The Legislature will be in session until February 1, but may approve the Wood reform program before that date. In such an event Gen. Wood expects to clean up his affairs at Manila as soon as possible and return to the United States to accept the post of provost at the University of Pennsylvania. The arrangement is satisfactory to the authorities of the University of Pennsylvania, who expect the general to be in Philadelphia before the middle of March at the latest.

That is the substance of the information given to Secretary Weeks today by J. Williamson Ziegler of Philadelphia, who recently returned from Manila, where, as spokesman for the university, he discussed the situation with Gen. Wood. Secretary Weeks asserted today that the War Department had received no communication from Gen. Wood bearing upon his intention, but Mr. Weeks said he assumed that the general's attitude as outlined by Mr. Ziegler would be confirmed.

JUDGE HURRIES HERRIN TRIAL

Delays and Technicalities Brushed Aside

Selection of Jury Starts Next Monday

Politics Injected Into Case by Farrington

BY PHILIP KINSLEY
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MARION (Ill.) Nov. 9.—All objections and motions tending to delay or dismiss the cases against the five defendants in the first Herrin massacre trial were brushed away today by Judge D. T. Hartwell and the work of picking out jurors will begin next Monday. Adjournment until that time was taken in order to permit remodeling of the courtroom and because of Armistice Day.

Both sides announced themselves in readiness for trial at 11 o'clock today. The motion to quash the indictments on the ground that the grand jury which returned them was improperly drawn and improper influence had been used by the Attorney-General and his aides in the jury room was overruled. The court stated that the record was made and it was good and that there was no showing of sinister acts.

OUTS TECHNICALITIES

The logic of the young judge, who years light tweeds instead of a robe and who sits at ease, sometimes on the railing, sometimes with one foot perched on the witness box rail, was like the sun shining through murky clouds. He cut through everything to the main issues.

President Frank Farrington of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, who was in court again with the defense attorneys, took advantage of Sheriff Melvin Thaxton's triumph at the polls to issue a statement declaring that this was a mandate in favor of a fair trial for every miner indicted in connection with the Herrin affair. He also rapped Atty.-Gen. Brundage.

His statement follows:

"The results of the elections for county officials in Williamson county are of the deepest interest to those who have followed developments in this county since the so-called Herrin riots last June.

WILL DEFEND MINERS

"The returns overwhelmingly vindicate my position in declaring that the Illinois Mine Workers would defend every miner indicted for alleged participation in those riots.

"Despite the fact that Atty.-Gen Brundage, himself a Republican, urged the citizens of Williamson county to repudiate at the polls every Republican who could be suspected of union sympathies, the voters have elected every candidate supported by the union. In my judgment the attitude of the mine workers in Williamson county is an example of what the attitude of the miners in the rest of the State would be if they were given an opportunity of expression. I am now more certain than ever that all mine workers are in sympathy with my declaration."

Probable Modificación de la Ley Volstead

WASHINGTON, nbre. 9.—En el Ministerio de Hacienda se decía hoy que era probable vinieran proposiciones para que se modifique la ley Volstead en lo que respecta a la venta de cerveza y vinos ligeros, como resultado de las elecciones del martes. Entretanto, dícese que el Ministro Mellon sostendrá la política de la Tesorería y seguirá aplicando con todo rigor las leyes prohibitivas, hasta que el Congreso obre en el asunto, a pesar de la expresión de la opinión pública en varios Estados. A menos, pues, que la cuestión llegue al Congreso, dicen los funcionarios de la Tesorería, no se tendrá en cuenta la posible fuente de ingresos que podría derivarse de los impuestos sobre cerveza y vino.

Elecciones de Candidatos Húmedos

CHICAGO, nbre 9. — Fueron electos once declarados candidatos húmedos al Congreso, y derrotados nueve que se decían también húmedos, en las elecciones de martes en los estados de oeste central, según análisis de los resultados publicada ayer. La mayoría de los candidatos al Congreso en los estados del oeste central se presentaron antes de la elección como secos, o mantuvieron silencio a ese respecto, o dijeron que no consideraban la prohibición como punto importante. En los siguientes estados no anunciaron los candidatos parlamentarios discusiones sobre la prohibición: Kansas, Kentucky, Minnesota, North Dakota, Oklahoma y South Dakota. En algunos de ellos, como Kansas, Minnesota y Oklahoma, los candidatos al Congreso se presentaron todos como prohibicionistas. En Indiana y Iowa, los pocos candidatos húmedos declarados fueron derrotados.

ARMY TRANSPORT WILL BE FLOATING SCHOOL

CANDLER INTERESTS SAID TO BE BACK OF UNUSUAL ENTERPRISE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. — Sale of the Army transport Logan to E. T. Winston of Atlanta, Ga., was announced today by the War Department.

Army officers said they understood it was the intention of the Logan's new owner to use the vessel as a floating school for boys and said it was probable that Mr. Winston had acted in the capacity of agent for Asa G. Candler, Jr., son of the Atlanta capitalist.

Classrooms and quarters for the student body would be provided and as studies having to de with foreign nations were reached, voyages would be made to those countries.

Another report, however, was current that Mr. Winston acted for Mr. Candler and the latter would use the Logan for a tour of the world before converting it for use as an educational institution.

PIERCE

A Modern Closed Car

We invite special attention to the new Pierce-Arrow Enclosed Drive Limousine—a distinct departure in all-season and all-purpose closed cars. By lowering the full width plate glass partition, it may be instantly changed from a chauffeur-driven limousine to a spacious and companionable seven-passenger sedan. The transformation is complete in every detail.

For summer, with the four door windows and the two rear side windows lowered—the cowl ventilator and ventilating windshield properly adjusted, the coolness and comfort of the open car are closely approximated.

This beautiful, modern type is one of nine models of Pierce-Arrow closed cars.

An invitation is extended to every man or woman who appreciates the finer accomplishments in motor car building, to inspect this car in our showrooms. We will gladly place a car and a competent driver at your disposal for a complete demonstration, upon request.

HUNDRED YEARS SMALL MATTER

Del Mar Woman Retains Interest in Politics

Marks Complicated Ballot at Last Election

Life in Southland Brings Back Youth

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DEL MAR, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Susanna Stevens, 101 years old, was the oldest person to cast a vote in Del Mar on November 7, and probably was the oldest woman voter in the State, if not in the entire country. Mrs. Stevens was brought to the polls in a closed car by her son, E. R. Stevens. Owing to the fact that one of her hips was broken in an automobile accident three years ago, she has difficulty in getting in and out of the car, and was permitted to mark her ballot in the car in front of the voting booth, but her eyes and mind were clear and she marked the ballot herself. She had kept herself well informed concerning the candidates, and her ballot was perhaps the most nonpartisan cast here, being about equally divided as to Democratic and Republican candidates, and containing a name or two from the Socialist ticket.

Mrs. Stevens was born in White Creek, Washington county, N. Y., but has lived in California the last thirty years, and more than twenty-five years at Del Mar. She is the mother of five children, and has led an exceptionally active life. "I once steered a canal boat back in New York, and I think I could steer an automobile now," she says.

"Elections have changed a good deal since my girlhood," Mrs. Stevens said, after casting her ballot. "I can remember clearly the Tippecanoe-and-Tyler-too campaign. Campaign songs were very popular in those days.

"When I reached 70, back East, I thought I was getting pretty old, so I came out to Southern California and got young again," Mrs. Stevens's eyes twinkled merrily as she spoke. "This is a great place for us old people."

Besides the hip broken recently, seven other bones in Mrs. Stevens's body have been broken in accidents, dating back to a collarbone broken when she was only a few weeks old, yet she has always lived the busy life of a farm housewife. Even now she finds some light tasks to occupy her hands in the home of her son, E. R. Stevens, a prosperous Del Mar farmer, and every day is driven down to the postoffice and about the community in the handsome closed car which he bought for her benefit.

"I believe it is due to my active interest in people and things of current interest that I still find life so full of pleasure," Mrs. Stevens said. "But we read the Unity literature, and anger, spite and malicious gossip are unknown in my son's household. Therefore, while my interest in people is always keen, it also is always friendly, and I think that helps a great deal toward living long and finding life sweet to the end."

DRINKING BOUT ENDS IN VICIOUS ASSAULT

OFFICERS CALLED FIND HOME OF MISSING MAN IS A DISTILLERY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Nov. 9.—Following what is said to be an attempt at murder, shortly after noon today, which incidentally led to the discovery of a complete liquor still in a house occupied by him at 538½ East Park street, Adolph Montoija, was tonight being sought by a posse of heavily-armed officers in the wash country to the east of Ontario.

Joe Esparza, Montoija's asserted victim, at first thought to be dying, was so far improved as to be able to be removed to his home in Pennsylvania avenue, San Bernardino, by automobile ambulance late this afternoon. His condition is still considered serious.

According to a disjointed story told by Esparza after he had recovered consciousness sufficiently to talk, Montoija took him to his house, locked the door, choked him and battered him over the head with a gun, after which he beat a hasty retreat.

Neighbors notified the police by telephone and when the officers reached the place, Esparza had staggered to an alley, where he lay in an apparently dying condition.

The man was finally removed to a near-by house and Dr. G. J. Fleming summoned. After an examination, the physician expressed the belief that the man would live.

An examination of the house occupied by Montoija revealed a complete still, a barrel half full of corn mash and a considerable quantity of liquor, all of which was taken into custody.

It is said that both men had been drinking before the trouble.

BOIL CAUSES DEATH

Redlands High School Boy Dies Following Operation

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Nov. 9. — The funeral of Emeral Worthing, popular student of Redlands High school, who died from brain fever which developed from a boil, was held at the Dow & Fitzsimmons chapel today. Rev. W. P. Walden officiated.

Worthing was one of the most popular of the high school boys. Several days ago a boil developed on his temple and a day or so later he was hit on the head by a thrown football. The boil pained him so after, that he was forced to leave school. It was opened several times and finally doctors operated, but the poison had entered his system and he died after two days of unconsciousness.

The boy was the mascot of the University of Redlands football team last year and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Worthing of [illegible] Citrus avenue.

EDITOR'S TROUBLES MULTIPLY

Newspaper Man to Face Trial as Result of Political Squabble

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, Nov. 9.—As a result of Superior Court Judge Valentine's denial of a writ of mandamus to E. O. Wickizer, publisher of the South Pasadena Record-Courier, City Attorney Dudley Robinson today took steps to set for trial a long pending case against the newspaper man.

Denial of an injunction by Judge Perry Wood four months ago left Wickizer subject to prosecution on a charge of building a business structure without a permit.

Wickizer's following application for a mandate writ made it legally impossible to proceed until today. The jury trial to come is expected to attract more interest than any local affair in years. The whole affair is characterized as a political quarrel, Wickizer having bitterly opposed the election of the City Council majority which denied him the permit sought and without which he is charged with proceeding in defiance of the law. Intense partisanship has arisen, half of the town being for Wickizer, the other half for the Council.

The penalty in this case is three months in jail or $90 fine. Wickizer, it is said, plans to take the matter to higher courts if he loses locally. Although he has a very full speeding calendar Justice Crump indicated this evening that the definite trial date would be within the next two weeks.

The writ of mandamus, denied to Wickizer, sought to force the city to give him an electrical inspection. Without this Wickizer has been unable to secure the electricity he needs to light his building and run his presses. Advised by the City Attorney City Manager Orbison denied inspection and for nearly half a year Wickizer's $10,000 investment has been a "juiceless white elephant," absolutely useless for the lack of electricity.

Upholding of the city on the Wickizer writ indicates that the city will also win a similar suit instituted by Wickizer's attorney, Robert Austin. Mr. Austin desires to start immediate construction of a $28,000 business building adjoining that of his client. The council denied the permit because the property concerned will not be legally available for business use until the council acts on a report of the City Planning Commission just filed.

Stolen Car Stalls, They Try Rail Speeder and Then Second Automobile

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Nov. 9.—Protecting themselves from the downpour with raincoats fashioned from pieces cut from the top of a large touring car, belonging to C. T. Manville, Southern Pacific agent at the Guasti station, after an unsuccessful attempt to steal the machine, thieves early today made their way to this city on a power rail car. The robbers obtained the power car from a station shed at Guasti, left it at the side of the track, helped themselves to a touring car belonging to F. Power, 227 Bopview avenue, and made their escape, according to a report to the police this afternoon.

The thieves first rolled the Manville automobile some distance from the Guasti station, where it was parked, but were unable to drive it since the owner had disconnected the ignition wires. Evidently displeased at their failure, and unwilling to let their labor go for naught, they cut the top from the car with knives and used it as a protection from the rain while journeying into Ontario.

The rail car was standing in a driveway at the side of the owner's home and its loss was not discovered until he was ready to use it this morning.

SURGERY CURES MANIA

Operation at Orange Hospital Aids Demented Man

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LA HABRA, Nov. 8.—What is believed to be a successful operation has been performed on A. G. Hamilton, patient in the psychopathic ward of the Orange county hospital, to remove his mania for murder which nearly resulted in the death of his small daughter here last week.

The operation was performed by Dr. Harry Zaiser, superintendent of the hospital, and according to attendants the man has been entirely docile and rational since that time. He will be observed for several weeks at the institution to make certain of success, it is stated.

Mr. Hamilton up to the time of the operation, had been under guard of four men because of his violence following his arrest at his home in La Habra by Sheriff C. E. Jackson and a posse of officers. He had attacked his 3-year-old daughter and wife and had then barricaded himself in his home.

The fire department was called and extinguished the blaze.

Wounded Man Fights Suspected Burglar After Two Shots Had Taken Effect

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Nov. 9.—Two men are in the Emergency Hospital, one believed to be seriously wounded and the other badly beaten and bruised as the result of a shooting affair which occurred at 1237 D street shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Iso Ustipak, proprietor of a small store at the above address, is the wounded man. In his story to the police he stated that the injured man, who was also taken to the hospital, came into his store and after summoning him from the rear, shot twice. The bullets lodged in the store-keeper's side, but did not prevent him from attacking his assailant, who was later apprehended by the police.

According to hospital officials and the police officers who were called to the scene, the shooting was done by Nick Nokovich, who it is believed intended to stage a daylight hold-up until, much to his surprise, the bullets from his gun failed to stop the attack of Ustipak, who, despite his wounds, administered to Nokovich a severe beating.

Capt. C. A. Tuffs of the city fire department, who chanced to be passing the store at the time of the shooting, carried Ustipak to the hospital. Nokovich was later taken to the hospital by the police. Neighbors in the vicinity of the D-street store contend that the two men were friends, but know of no motive for the shooting.

NEW PACKING-HOUSE

Second Independent Concern Opens At Glendora

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDORA, Nov. 9.—The new packing house of the Hall-Riser Packing Company is rapidly nearing completion. Efforts are being made to have it ready for the opening of the navel season. There is considerable speculation as to the effect of the new enterprise on the industry in Glendora as the output of the new house will be marketed through the sales department of the American Fruit Growers, Inc. This is the second independent house in Glendora, the Randolph Marketing Company being the other.

The navel outlook is very good, about 70 per cent crop being reported for the coming season, while the valencia yield will be normal. This is considered as an excellent prospect for this district in view of the damages sustained by last year's freeze.

PICK FIRST NAVELS

Tulare County Fruit Ready for Shipment to Market

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, Nov. 9.—First commercial picking of 1922 navels has started in favored groves in the Globe and Clavicle districts. Shipments will not be made until next week. Picking for Tulare County Fruit Exchange will probably start at that time. Fruit is coloring well but not quite up to test in most places. Shipments usually begin about November 15th or 20th.

Horticultural Commissioner Brann estimates the crop at 80 per cent of last year. Good sizes and excellent quality prevail.

Relief from the present car shortage may be expected about the 20th inst., according to latest report. Some fruit from Lindsay has gone to Australia and Europe for the holiday trade.

Small House Majority Not Usual Thing

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Based on the assumption that the Republican majority over the Democrats in the House will be eighteen, there appear to have been only three other instances since the formation of the Republican party, sixty-seven years ago, when there has been such a small majority of one party over another in the House. In thirty-four Congresses the House majority has fallen only four times below twenty.

In the Fifteenth Congress, under Cleveland, the Democrats had a seventeen House majority. In the Fifty-first Congress, under Harrison, there was a Republican majority of eight, and in the Sixty-fifth Congress, under Wilson, there was a Republican majority of three. Just as there will be three Independents in the next House, there were four in the Fiftieth Congress and six in the Sixty-fifth, but none in the Fifty-first.

The Senate has had twelve majorities of ten or less since the Thirty-sixth Congress, under Pierce, in 1859, the ten marking the division of one party over the other and not including Independents, which ranged in six Congresses from one to six members.

Employment Conditions Are Good in Los Angeles

This City Leads the Country in Tobacco Consumption

Upward Tendency is Shown by Bank Summary

"Employment conditions in Los Angeles, despite the scarcity of labor and the enormous amount of building construction, are relatively better than in the majority of the cities in the United States. Industrial troubles are entirely absent, the influx of labor from the outside is negligible and wages are being maintained on a fair scale in accordance with the relation of demand and supply."

F. J. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association thus summarizes the employment situation in Los Angeles, where a building program entailing approximately $120,000,000 for this year has been carried on unmarred by friction. A recent survey by the National Association of Manufacturers reveals the fact that Los Angeles, with building permits amounting to $103 per capita for the first six months of 1922 leads the cities of the United States in which building construction work was 75 per cent open shop. In Washington, D. C., the leading city where building operated under a condition of 75 per cent closed shop, the building permits for the same period were only $49 per capita, or less than one-half of the total for Los Angeles.

Scarcity of labor is particularly acute in the building trades, according to Secretary Zeelandelaar, but wages have not been allowed to soar unreasonably. Skilled artisians, especially plasterers, bricklayers and finishing carpenters are in the greatest demand and the members of these crafts are commanding the highest wages. Carpenters are being paid between $7 and $8 a day, plasterers $10 and $11, and bricklayers, $9 to $10. These wages are generally lower than those prevailing in cities where there has been industrial strife.

"Because of the decline in the cost of living, present wages are entirely adequate and leave the workingman in a satisfied state of mind," said Mr. Zeehandelaar, "and where talk of soup-kitchens was heard last year for the unemployed, the present activity in new building, which will probably continue for the next two years, is utilising all available labor."

Los Angeles smokers continue to surpass the remainder of the country in the amount of tobacco consumed, according to the local superintendent of a chain system operating a string of cigar stores and agencies in this city. No reaction has taken place from the year-around volume of cigarette and cigar sales, and contrasted with the sales in eastern cities, which decline in the rainy months, total sales per capita are smaller, but the growing number of smokers, both women and men, stimulate the aggregate volume.

Cigarettes constitute the greater part of purchases, and together with pipe and chewing tobacco, are about 64 per cent of total sales.

Recovery of Exchange is Day's Feature

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Recovery in foreign exchange was the outstanding movement on today's financial market. It did not affect the rates on every European country; indeed their course conflicted as much as it did the day before. But while sterling, which, on Wednesday, had risen 1⅜c, fell back ⅞c today, the franc moved up rapidly. As against Wednesday's low price of 6.37 cents and the same day's closing of 6.31½, the rate rose to 6.39¼ today. In these sudden movements, the shifting of settled speculation was certainly reflected; it is possible that the approaching completion of the British government's transfer of funds was also an influence. Whether London has been drawing on its Paris balances to establish credits at New York is disputed and the bankers are not apt to give out the facts in such an operation. But the exchange market will hardly have forgotten how, when Germany transferred her first $50,000,000 reparation money from London to New York in the summer of 1921, sterling fell in a few weeks from $4 to $3.69 without the slightest change in the general situation.

Opening with renewed advances, the day's stock market appeared to be taken in hand by the "speculative pools," who once more overdid things, bringing the market into an abrupt reaction which closed the day with highly irregular changes and with as many net losses as net gains. Bond prices also moved unevenly. Attention continued to be fixed on the cotton market, where the spot price rose to 26.80 cents a pound, as compared with 26.35 on Wednesday; 24.79 a week ago and 16.40, at the low price of the year. A little more of this may bring some interesting curtailment of the cotton export trade.

In the weekly Federal Reserve statement an increase of $52,500,000 in reserves and $30,800,000 in circulation (following increase of $118,400,000 and $18,700,000 in the preceding week,) marked the approach of the inland November settlements, after which the demand on credit usually subsides. The increase in outstanding reserve notes brings the total to a point $218,000,000 above the low mark of the year, which was reached in June and only $65,000,000 below the January highest.

BRAZILIAN COFFEE CROP TO BE HEAVY

The coffee trees of the 1923-24 crop are reported to be in excellent condition, and the largest crop since the harvest of 1915, or possibly that of 1906, is confidently expected, says Consul Gofforth, Santos, in a dispatch to the Department of Commerce.

It is yet too early to form a definite opinion as to whether the minimum of approximately 7,000,000 bags (132 pounds each,) or the maximum of a little over 9,000,000 bags of all coffees available for export from Santos during the year ending June 30, 1923, will prove to be the more nearly correct. The territory from which Santos draws its supply of export coffee is comprised primarily of the State of Sao Paulo, which usually furnishes more than 50 per cent of the total; of the southern part of the State of Minas Geraes, which furnishes from 7 to 9 per cent, and of the northern part of Parana, which furnishes less than 1 per cent.

Arrivals at Santos of the 1922-23 crop are now approximately up to the maximum allowed. Stocks in the interior, held over by the planters from 1921-22 crop, are said to have been almost wholly exhausted before Aug. 1, 1922. Planters were so eager to avail themselves of the good milreis prices prevailing that they failed to reserve enough coffee for consumption in their own districts, and in the cases of two municipalities, at least, coffee was reshipped to them from the city of Sao Paulo.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Trade Conditions Improve; California Sun Maids Invade Europe; News Perspective

BY CHAPIN HALL

Confidence regarding the business outlook is quite general. Trade conditions have improved throughout the United States during the past six weeks. In Southern California, and especially in what is termed the Los Angeles district there is a consistent gain in almost all lines over the corresponding period a year ago. At no time has this center fallen much below the comparative lead established two years ago when the United States Chamber of Commerce designated this vicinity as the white spot of the country.

Basically economic writers assert that conditions in the United States are more favorable to business expansion than at any time since 1920. Judge Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation said the other day: "There are no obstacles to continued prosperity in the iron and steel business, except such as may arise from interference with the natural course of supply and demand."

Accumulation of idle funds, following such a severe period of adjustment as that through which the business world has passed, has lowered money rates, a fact which, in itself, has probably had an important effect in encouraging borrowers to resort to credit.

There have been five great factors in the process of business recovery. The first was the working off of the accumulated stocks of high-priced goods left on hand when the prices collapsed in 1920. The second factor was the abundant supply of funds that became available after prices dropped and interest rates fell.

The third stimulating influence was the great building boom; the fourth the unprecedented activity in the automobile industry, and the fifth the abundant crops which will greatly increase the purchasing power of the agricultural sections of the country.

In Los Angeles a survey of the retail trade shows that it is holding up well and that fall and winter merchandise is moving rapidly with early Christmas trade in evidence. We are hearing less of the "shop early" propaganda it having been demonstrated that the movement has little effect in influencing the purchasing public which buys when it is good and ready, and which imposes upon the merchants the obligation of being prepared for the rush when it eventuates.

SUN MAIDS

For the first ten months of 1922 exports of raisins from California amounted to more than four times the volume for the entire year of 1921. The Sun Maid Raisin Growers have established district offices in London, Birmingham, Manchester, Glasgow, Amsterdam and Copenhagen.

TWO NEW MEMBERS

At a meeting of the members of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday afternoon B. M. Wotkyns of Stephens & Co., and C. W. Finigan were elected to membership.

NOT ALL AUTOS

Evidence at Broadway and Seventh street, to the contrary notwithstanding, there is still other means of transportation than auto and street car. More than 500,000 top buggies are sold every year, and at a convention just held in New York 260 exhibitors were represented. The horse-drawn vehicle industry was at a standstill for several years, but factories are now running full time. Prices are higher than ever, but the product is handsomer and more durable than in the old days. Pennsylvania is the center of the industry.

INFORMATION COURTESY

Courtesy is often a determining factor in developing new business. Merchants understand this but have a hard time selling the idea to their employees many of whom flatly decline to adopt the theory that the customer is always right. There is more uniform courtesy in the banks than almost anywhere else. Competition for new accounts is so keen that the clerks who come in contact with the customers are models of patience and tact often under trying circumstances. In some important offices well informed men are taking the places of irresponsible office boys or girls, and if the visitor is not sure whom he ought to see he is tactfully questioned and finally properly directed.

RUBBER PAVING

Contemplation of a traffic calm comparable to "Noiseless Town" is induced by a suggestion which comes from overseas to the effect that a new type of rubber composition paving block has been perfected and can be placed on the market at a price to compete with the ordinary creosoted wooden block, and having a life estimated at fifteen years.

Two types of blocks have been produced, a number one block, made of the "core" surfaced with a half-inch hard vulcanized rubber, and a number two block, which consists of the "core" only. The principal ingredients of the core, which has been patented, are rubber, jute and china clay. These ingredients enable the whole block to be vulcanized in one piece, and it has been found by experiment that the block should be a solid mass, and not made up of separate superimposed portions. Where the block has been hollowed out and filled with concrete or wood to reduce cost, it has been found that the rubber surface "creeps" and shows wear on the underside at the place of contact, and not on the surface.

DEBT CONSOLIDATION

Close Analysis of Three Methods Proposed; Circulation Features Advocated

[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

It seems certain that serious consideration is being given to the development of a plan for the consolidation of the government debt as represented by the various Liberty Loan issues, and that one of three methods may prevail, namely:

Refunding through a long-term bond issue bearing interest of 4 1-4 per cent.

A long-term issue carrying a lower interest, possibly 3 per cent, wholly exempt from taxation.

A long-term issue with even a lower interest rate, perhaps as low as 2 per cent, with the privilege extended to national banks to use these bonds as security for circulating notes.

The first plan, no doubt, contemplates taking care of the war savings stamps maturing January 1, 1923, the remainder of the Victory 4 3-4 per cent notes due May 20, 1923, and possibly the Third Liberty 4 1-4s due in 1928. But it is fair to assume that any new loan, bearing interest at the rate now paid by the Liberty issues, would be small when the magnitude of the total is considered, and possibly temporary.

With the exception of the saving in work and incidental expense that could be made by bringing all the interest payment dates together it is difficult to see where anything is to be gained by suggesting the exchange of one 4 1-4 per cent bond for another. So far as the public is concerned, the exchange would undoubtedly be slow of accomplishment.

LONG-TERM BONDS

There is much to be said in favor of a long-term government bond that is wholly tax free, though the interest rate be much below 4 1-4 per cent. The present nontaxable 3 1-2s are at a premium, and in 1918 sold as high as 102½. The taxability of the Liberty Loan 4 1-4 payment issues may not be a factor of great importance, because their interest is not in any event taxable under the normal tax and exemptions are still sufficiently liberal that the individual may continue to own a fair proportion of them and still be exempt.

But the ownership of Liberty Bonds by individuals grows constantly less. The bulk of the selling is, as it has been for the last few years, by the people, and the buying has been by institutions and by the Treasury Department for the sinking funds. Consequently, it might not be a matter of real seriousness if the present Liberty issues were called in and a tax-free bond put out in place of them.

And if the interest rate were lower, possibly no higher than 3 per cent, the saving to the government might be considerable. There is this to say, however: If the rate is lowered the bonds would not have the same attractiveness to banks and other institutions, and some additional feature which would cause the banks to want them might of necessity be added; and it may have been this that prompted the suggestion of the circulation feature.

CIRCULATING NOTES

Every national bank in the United States may issue circulating bank-notes to the amount of its paid-in capital. But to do this it is necessary that the bank lodge with the Treasurer of the United States, interest-bearing bonds of the United States, carrying the circulation privilege, to the amount of the notes to be issued. This method of issuing a circulating medium is approved, or disapproved, according to political views, personal opinion of the economic trend and the efficiency of the individual bank managements. It was, however, rather generally considered to have failed during 1907, in which year a panic made very extraordinary drafts on the country's currencies.

Prior to the enactment of the Federal Reserve Act, a total of not more than $3,000,000 a month of circulating notes could be canceled, and this was a factor that operated against the proper elasticity of the method.

The custom of issuing circulating notes by national banks, however, has this effect on United States government bond prices: During 1907, the panic year, United States 2 per cent consols, due 1930, sold from 106 1-4 high to 104 1-8 low; the 4s, due 1925 ranged from 130 5-8 high to 117 low, and the Spanish War loan 3s, which matured in 1918, changed hands at from 106 1-4 high to 100 1-4 low. The 2s, due 1930, are now quoted at about 103 and the 4s, due 1925, at about 104 3-4. Both issues are wholly tax free, and nearly all of the outstanding bonds are owned by national banks and are pledged as security for circulating notes.

COMMERCIAL PAPER

The Federal Reserve Act became a law in December, 1913. By its terms it submitted commercial paper for United States government bonds as security for circulating notes, and issued notes of the Federal Reserve banks in place of the notes of individual national banks. The act also prescribed a method whereby all the circulating notes then outstanding could be retired gradually over a period of twenty-two years. The maturing bonds, however, automatically take care of this.

The practical application of the principle of national bank circulation inclines toward currency inflation. For instance, a national bank with $50,000 capital now has the right to buy up to $50,000 of the 2 per cent bonds, involving an expenditure of about $51,500. For these bonds it can obtain $50,000 of bank notes, so that its outlay stands at $1500, and the bank still owns the bonds, which return in interest $1000 a year. There is a small tax on the circulation, and an expense for the printing of the notes, but the profit is still sufficiently large to encourage some institutions to carry more circulation than conservative circumstances might require, and, in addition, there is still a restriction on the amount of circulation that can be canceled.

REFUNDING LOAN

The use of circulating notes by national banks was urged in 1900, when the last important refunding of the national debt, through the issue of the 2 per cent consols of 1930 was done. At that time the need was for more banks, and circulation was made more profitable than formerly for this purpose. The need now seems to be for a greater number of large banks rather than for a larger number of small banks, and this likewise may be in the minds of those who are advocating the circulation feature in the government's new bond issue.

Until something is decided one way or the other, the effect of the uncertainty will probably be to prevent the prices of Liberty Bonds from rising.

LONDON MARKET

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Business on the stock exchange today was sluggish partly owing to the approach of the fortnightly settlement, while violent fluctuations in continental exchanges also militated against initiative. The general tendency, however, was steady with a slight upward movement in some departments. British funds on the gilt-edge market were supported and firm, while in foreign bonds prices were maintained and in some cases hardened due to the resistance of the franc after an initial weakness. Home rails strengthened somewhat although the demand was small. Dollar rails advanced, Canadian Pacific 164. Foreign rails recovered. The industrial market remained quiet and firm, steel and engineering shares were without much movement. The oil market recovered further, Paris being inclined to support it. Mexican Eagle, 3 19-32; Shells, 4 4-32; Royal Dutch, 34¾. African mindings were firmer and American issues were fairly well maintained.

Stringency in loanable credit in Lombard street was not as acute today, and overnight money never was more than 2½ %. Bar silver declined to 33 7-16 and 33 for spot and forward delivery. Foreign exchanges: New York, 4.66¾ to 4.67; Paris, 69.70 to 71.40; Berlin, 24,000 to 25,000.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. — Widespread liquidation in the final hour of today's stock market, precipitated by a sharp break in General Asphalt issues wiped out the fairly substantial gains made in the early part of the session and caused losses of 1 to 3 points in a number of active shares. Publication of an encouraging resume of business conditions by the Federal reserve bank, higher foreign exchange rates and an active resumption of pool activities in special stocks brought a good volume of buying orders into the market during the morning, early gains ranging from 1 to nearly 5 points. New high records for the year were made on this movement by May Department Stores, Van Raalte Silk, Remington Typewriter first preferred, National Biscuit, Underwood Typewriter preferred, and American Smelters Securities A.

Short covering also was an important factor in the early advance, some gains being made by domestic oils, shipping, rubber and tire stocks, in which a fairly large short interest is supposed to exist. These gains were cancelled, however, in the final reaction.

Weakness of General Asphalt was attributed to the circulation of reports that the earnings of the company might not be sufficient to warrant continuance of the preferred dividend and that it was having difficulty in obtaining the loan, but these reports were later denied and the stocks recovered part of their loss. The common was down 5⅝ points on the day and the preferred 5¼.

Independent steel shares were hit rather hard in the final selling, Gulf Station dropping 3⅝ points below last night's close; Crucible 3 and Republican Midvale 1 each. United States Steel common, which was within a point of its year's high during the afternoon, later cancelled its gain and dropped a point below yesterday's final figures. Equipments also proved a vulnerable target, American Locomotive yielding 2½ points and Baldwin, Pullman and Lima 1 to 1⅝.

Mexican Petroleum, conversion privilege in which, expired last night, was considerably less active today, gaining 4 points on a turnover of less than 1300 shares. At the company's offices it was announced that 72,540 shares had been coverted for Pan American B stock, leaving only 43,000 shares in the hands of the public. In some quarters, it was believed that the New York Stock Exchange might decide that insufficient stock was outstanding to insure the required "free and open" market, but no announcement was forthcoming today.

Among the number of active shares, which fell victims to bear pressure were Studebaker, Consolidated Gas, American Can, American Woolen and Corn Products. Allied Chemical was hammered down nearly 8 points. Declaration of a quarterly dividend of 50 cents instead of the usual monthly dividend of that amount by Mexican Seaboard, was reflected in a decline of nearly 1½ points, that stock now selling slightly above $18 a share. S. S. Kresge failed to respond to the announced plan of the directors to increase the capital stock from $20,000,000 to $0,000,000, apparently in preparation for another stock dividend. Resumption of dividends on Remington first preferred, at the next meeting resulted in a strengthening of both classes of preferred stock. Total sales were 1,003,000 shares.

Call money held steady at 5 per cent throughout the session. Time money rates continued firm, trading quiet. Only a small amount of new commercial paper is coming into the market.

Great Britain demand declined to 4.45½, cables 4.45⅝; 60-day bills on banks 4.43¾ in the later dealings.

A much stronger tone prevailed in today's foreign exchange market. Sterling rates improved fractionally despite a rather heavy offering of grain and cotton bills. French, Italian and Belgian exchanges, particularly the two latter, made good recovery from yesterday's pronounced weakness.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Bond Market Sinks

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Unfavorable news developments in the Near East caused another slump in the prices of foreign securities in today's bond market, the only other feature of which was the strength of railroad mortgages. Profit-taking was held responsible for a 3¼-point drop in Chile Copper 7s, which with General Electric 5s and Liggett & Myers 5s, dash off a point, were the weak spots in the industrial division.

United States government bonds were irregular but mainly stronger. The first 4¼s advanced 20 on $100. Other changes were nominal. Total sales, par value, were $12,675,000.

The only important offering today was an issue of $6,000,000 first mortgage sinking fund 7 per cent 20-year gold bonds of the Cahuagua Sugar Company, a Cuban corporation, which were put out at 97½ to yield about 7.20 per cent.

MAKE MONEY
MAKE MONEY
MAKE MONEY

Make money do that which it has not done heretofore.

Make one payment of $16.48 at age of 35 for $1000 life insurance and place $300.00 to your own credit in the Los Angeles Mutual Building and Loan Association and thereby create an estate of $1300.00 and not another dollar more to be paid by you during life.

In the event of death the Los Angeles Mutual Building and Loan will pay $300.00 on receipt of death proofs, the life insurance company will pay $1000.

$1500 thus invested creates an estate of $6500.

$3000 thus invested creates an estate of $13,000.

$6000 thus invested creates an estate of $26,000. Older and younger ages in same proportion and men and women on equal basis.

This is not so-called investment life insurance but investment plus life insurance and you do not lose your investment fund.

Give us your address and age at nearest birthday and we will give you further information.

Address J. S. MUNSELL, 740 So. Spring St.

I want a good organizer who has a little money to go in with me in pushing this proposition.

Speculators Get a "Kick" Out of Politics

Great Britain Prepares to Pay on Account

Uncle Sam is Holding Gold Filled Sack

BY C. B. EVANS
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—There are a good many people hereabouts who desire to be scared. They look at the political face of the United States and see changes wrought by the election which may throw the balance of power in Congress into the hard fists and soft brains of theorists desiring to change things, and these observers do experience a little fear. Gazing farther East than Washington they find the makings of trouble in the exactions laid on the Allies by the Turks, but they don't want quite the fullness of sensation which would be involved in another general war.

Persons of this class are mostly speculators, some of whom think the stock market is doomed to have a large decline anyhow, and they don't quite understand why the old thing holds its head up so well, some parts of its visible anatomy even showing extraordinary vigor, such, for instance, as the copper stocks.

While the speculators are standing around on the mountain top, the manufacturers and merchandisers are busy down in the rich valley of production, creating things and wondering what is the matter with those fellows up there.

Averaging the emotions of these two classes, we find comparatively little change from previous conditions. A lot of us think that the American habit of rebuking the administration for nothing in particular on the off year is a mere mental exercise of no particular moment, while those who think they know all about Europe say, whether they believe it or not, that the Turks are just setting up a bluff. Anyhow, most of those who do not like Henry Cabot Lodge are rather glad that his scholarly face and courtly manner will still grace the United States Senate, while La Follette as a political curiosity will give interest to a life that without him would be drear indeed.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Foreign exchange is another matter, for the unlearned cannot help observing a little lengthening of the lines of apprehension on the faces of experts handling the bills and added anxiety among those who have a special understanding of the politics of Europe. French, Belgian and German exchanges are at new low levels, the franc at 6.17, after opening at 6.62, and marks hanging precariously on a fraction of one-eighth above one one-hundredth of a cent and certain to break that eighth off. Then it is remembered that on Saturday week this precious financial performer sold as high as .03%.

The wide and widening gap between continental bills and sterling involves a situation out of which will soon come important happenings. It is fairly well known that residents of the afflicted nations of the continent have been placing their wealth in other countries for a long time and the process is not yet at an end.

Meanwhile, Great Britain stands grim and silent, but allows her to take its course. It is said that another $50,000,000 on account of that debt is soon to be handed over to us. Those who believe that the payment of that debt will be a great injury to the finances of the world, notably hurtful to us, look with the profoundest interest on these payments, and are taking the ground that the British intend to fill us up with gold as rapidly as possible and make us sick of our demand that this obligation shall be met.

TOO MUCH GOLD

This thought is not altogether unreasonable, for we do not want the half of the world's gold that we do not now possess. The question what to do with it and what action we should take in case of abandonment of the gold standard by other countries would be rather too much even for the best of our financiers. Surely there would be an unprecedented situation, probably involving events of the most unfortunate character.

Since the tide of American business began to set so strongly in the right direction our people have formed a habit of expectation, and it is not easily changed by ordinary events. Those matters, therefore, which face us just at the moment do not much chill the spirits of business men or speculators. The man who is interested in securities holds just one key in his hand, with which he unlocks the door of business every morning, and that is the rate for money. Until something happens to change that materially his position will not be changed and he will wait in vain for any big scare.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Another spurt of buying came into Union Oil Associates yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, and the stock equaled its high for the year of 190. Profit taking near the close, however, brought the final price down to 188 1-2, a loss of 1 1-4 from the previous day. Union Oil of California closed at 189, off 3-4, and United States Royalties ended the day at 35 cents, a decrease of 1-2 cent. General Petroleum sold at 118 1-2 at the close, or a loss of 1-3 from the previous day.

Oatman United failed to retain all of the gain acquired the previous day, and a loss of 1 cent was sustained on the day's trading, the stock closing at 21 cents. Telluride was off 2 cents, closing at 85 and Simon Silver Lead dropped 1 cent on a closing quotation of 30. Virginia Louise at 13 1-2 cents was 1 1-2 cents below the previous day, although the stock sold as high as 15 during the day. Tom Reed was taken around 13 cents and Gold Dust at 9 1-2.

Los Angeles Gas preferred acquired 1-2 point on a closing price of 91 1-2.

WALL STREET NEWS

BY MONITOR
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—General Asphalt continues to be as much of a puzzle in its weakness as it has been at times heretofore by its strength. There is, of course, a good deal of talk about the preferred dividend being shaky, but at the same time there appears to be little or no basis for rumors about the disappointing out-turn of the South American oil fields. Advices from Venezuela state that the company has ample production, and that it is obtaining a good market for its oil at higher prices than are current in this country. Those who base their market operations on the oil prospects of the company are, therefore, believed to be justified in being bullish on the ultimate possibilities of the company.

Dispatches from Detroit announcing the increase in the capitalization of the S. S. Kresge Company from $20,000,000 to $40,000,000 did not come as much of a surprise to the street. There is considerable speculation on the question as to whether the additional $20,000,000 stock is to be used for stock dividends or whether part of it will be offered for subscription with present stockholders having first choice at a price which would give the old stock valuable rights. Kresge has been earning at the rate of about $30 per share on the old capitalization, which would leave an ample margin to continue to pay the prevailing $7 rate on the increased capital stock.

Stewart Warner directors are called for a special meeting to be held November 20. Notice of this meeting brought forth rumors of an impending stock dividend for this company, but President Smith immediately denied any such intention, and declared that an extra cash payment would be the only result of the meeting. So far in 1922, Stewart Warner has paid $3 per share, having recently restored the dividend of the old $4 per annum basis. In well-informed quarters in the street, it is assumed that the next dividend will be the regular quarterly payment of $1, with an extra of about the same amount.

All classes of Market Street Railway continued to climb steadily today, with comparatively heavy buying in evidence. Brokers in close wire touch with markets in California have been advised that the amendment to the State Constitution voted upon at Tuesday's election, which, if passed, would enable the city of San Francisco to purchase the lines of the Market Street Railway, has apparently passed. City Engineer O'Shaughnessy placed a valuation of about $40,000,000 on the company's property, as against the valuation of $48,000,000 set by the railway officials. However, even the $40,000,000 would enable the company to retire the preferred stocks at par.

Export demand for copper is reported to be in excess of domestic demand, as American consumers are still holding out for 13 3-4c metal. All the leading producers are holding copper 1-8c above this level, and resent any reports that figure is available below that figure. Much of the foreign demand is coming from France.

The sharp run-up in U. S. Steel is causing financial analysts to dig into statistics for an answer. In most quarters the optimistic statements made by Judge Gary Monday are accepted as ample reason for the current strength. However, the outlook for the final quarter of this year is very good, and it is apparently a foregone conclusion that the corporation will earn all of its dividend requirements. Second and third quarter net ran slightly below $27,500,000. Last quarter net is expected to cross $40,000,000. Heavy depreciation charges in the third quarter cut down the net available for dividends for the period, but it is probable that depreciation charges for the December quarter will be considerably less. The unfilled tonnage report of the corporation is due tomorrow, and estimates in the street upon the probable showing have been raised to from 150,000 tons upward.

United States Realty common has been placed on a permanent 6 per cent basis as directors today declared quarterly payments of 1 1-2 per cent for the newt two quarters.

The recent advance in crude rubber, as well as the current very sharp increase in high-grade cotton prices, attracts interest to the probability of a higher level for automobile tires. The heavy price reductions made recently by the trade have apparently cut down the margin of profit to a point where it would be almost impossible to enter the open market for raw materials and sell the finished product at current prices. However, officials of the larger companies do not anticipate any immediate rise in tire prices.

Bearish Views Depress Prices in Grain Mart

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—While general surroundings of the grain markets were rather bearish and values were shaded early, the undertone was firm and the finish was on a fair rally from the inside figures, with wheat ⅛@⅜c lower on the old crop futures and unchanged on July. Corn, after being off ⅞@1¼c, closed ⅛@⅜c lower, while oats were ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher and rye ⅛@⅛c higher.

Local sentiment was rather bearish on wheat due to a break of ⅞ to 1½d in Liverpool on increased pressure from Argentina, with sales of 4 cargo to Italy at equal to 1.33½ per bushel, or much cheaper than North American grain. On the decline of 1¼@1⅜c from the finish of the previous day houses that were the best sellers the two previous days became good buyers and the rally was easily attained with the December showing the most strength and closing ⅜c over the May, against ⅛c on Wednesday.

There was some buying of December and selling of maximum attributed to seaboard account. Exporters were fair buyers at Winnipeg, but the latter market showed more weakness than Chicago and closed ⅛@⅜c lower. Milling demand continues fair with premium on red winter 1c higher.

Traders construed the government report on corn as bearish and sold freely early only to have their offerings absorbed by houses with eastern connection and were forced to cover on the rally. Local bulls remain confident of their position, although the ease with which the large eastern orders have been filled of late causes some of the pit element to be somewhat bearish. Country offerings down-State were reported as much more liberal, with some bids withdrawn on account of inability to make shipping sales. Argentine exports were estimated at 4,400,000 bushels against 1,713,000 bushels last year, with offerings abroad at a lower price than American.

Oats held within a range of 1.04@1.04⅝, with trade largely of a local character. Receipts, 129 cars, with cash prices easier as compared with December.

Active buying of rye against export sales at the seaboard and to remove hedges against sales to the East gave the market a strong tone. There was also buying of rye and selling of wheat at 30c difference. Shipping sales of 119,000 bushels were made to exporters.

PITTSBURG STEEL BASIS COMPETITIVE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Steel users of the Middle West are not discriminated against in the matter of prices as a result of the Pittsburgh plus basing system, John F. Tregllo, chairman of the board of directors of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, declared before the Federal Trade Commission.

Mr. Tregllo said that while the steel manufacturers, including those located in the Chicago district, generally quoted on an f.o.b. Pittsburgh basis, plus the freight rate from Pittsburg to destination, competitive conditions actually govern the prices at which they sell.

"Steel prices are based on competitive conditions," said Mr. Tregllo. "At times the mills in Chicago will not get the full benefit of the Pittsburg freight rate over the base price. At other times they will not. The price is always affected by local conditions.

"The Pittsburg base is a mere matter of convenience. It is a yard-stick to measure value. It is a spot to shoot at. After you arrive at the location of quotation it does not necessarily fix the price at which the steel is sold."

METAL MARKETS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Nov. 9.—Daily Metal Trade today says: "Platinum continues inactive generally, sales being light and the market soft. One Manufacturing concern has just bought a round tonnage of basis iron from a dealer at a price delivered. Southern furnaces find it difficult to interest consumers, although several have come down to the $25 price asked by one furnace interested. Several charcoal iron furnaces are still under a market level, operators finding much price resistance, users not being inclined to anticipate the relaxation of restrictions and material awards have increased somewhat and railroad cars are also in better demand. Finished steel is confronted with delivery difficulties, affording a serious obstacle. Copper is stronger and also higher, trading being more active.

RICHARDSON IS BACK AT HIS OLD JOB

Successful Gubernatorial Candidate Calm as He Gets Friend's Greetings

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 9.—Friend W. Richardson, elected Governor at Tuesday's election by one of the largest majorities ever given a gubernatorial candidate in California, arrived at his office at the Capitol bright and early and began transacting the business of State Treasurer as calm and unassuming as though he had never been in a political campaign. Gov.-Elect Richardson referred to his triumphant election as if it were an everyday occurrence, and although those who called at his office to congratulate him were bubbling over with enthusiasm, the new Governor was unperturbed.

"I felt certain the people of the State would elect me on my promise to reduce the enormous expenses of the government," declared Mr. Richardson, "and the reliance I placed on their verdict has been completely vindicated."

One of the persons who visited Mr. Richardson to congratulate him was Representative Charles F. Curry, re-elected to represent the Third District.

Mr. Richardson is grateful to the citizens of Los Angeles county for the whole-hearted support given his candidacy last Tuesday. He said:

"I wish to thank the citizens of Los Angeles county for the wonderful vote given me and also desire to thank The Times for the clean, able and splendid fight it waged in my behalf during the primary and final election campaign. I made my campaign on the issue of efficiency and economy, and I want to take this means of assuring the people of Los Angeles county that they will not be given cause to regret the confidence they reposed in me at the polls.

"There is before me a remarkable opportunity to reduce the operation expenses of the State government by millions of dollars without injuring a single worthy function, agency or commission. I propose to take advantage of this opportunity. With the election over, I plan to take a rest which the strenuous campaign has made imperative, and after the brief vacation I probably will announce some of the plans which I shall endeavor to put into effect in the administration of the State government."

URGED BOYS STEAL, CHARGE AGAINST MAN

A. B. Wing of Belvedere was arraigned before Justice Hinshaw yesterday on a charge of receiving stolen goods, and held for a hearing Monday in bail of $1000.

Juvenile Officer H. C. Hinshaw of the Board of Education, who caused Wing's arrest, charges Wing persuaded Mike and Everett Casale, little sons of Andrew Casale of 5125 Whittier Boulevard, to take money from their father's cash register and give it to him. Wing told the justice he was merely acting as banker for the boys and knew nothing of the source of the money.

LARGE SUM WASTED ON WATER ACT

Proponents of Repudiated Economic Freak Spent More Than $136,000

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 9.—The proponents of the California Water and Power Act that was defeated at last Tuesday's general election spent $136,747.64 in an effort to secure the adoption of the measure, according to an expense statement filed by the campaign committee for the act with Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan. The statement was made public today.

Rudolph Spreckels, San Francisco banker, was the largest contributor to the campaign fund, his contribution, according to the statement being $86,711.74.

Dr. John R. Haynes of Los Angeles raised or contributed personally $10,537; William Kent, former Congressman, $5000 and Charles R. Crane, of New York, $5000.

The major part of the expenditures were for salaries and for advertising. Those who received the largest amounts from the committee were L. C. Davidson of Sacramento, $21,600; L. F. Parton, San Francisco $11,127; Franklin Hichborn, Santa Clara, $5569; Dr. Horace Porter, Riverside, $3884.84 and the James H. Barry Company, San Francisco, $11,347.

Jordan declared today the statement was filed in accordance with a law passed by the last legislature requiring all persons, associations, etc., interested in the passage or defeat of propositions submitted to the people, who spend more than $1000, to file a statement of receipts and expenditures at least five days before the election and another within twenty days after the election. Failure to do so is a misdemeanor. The opponents of the measure have not as yet filed a statement.

Expenditures by other groups that worked for or against propositions on the ballot, according to statements on file, were as follows:

League for the Conservation of Public Health, against Propositions No. 16, 20 and 28, $5503.60.

League to Protect the Initiative, $6794.34. Dr. John R. Haynes of Los Angeles contributed $6536 of the total.

California Bar Association and others interested in the passage of the so-called lawyers' bill spent $37,069.

YOUNG WIFE FREED WHEN LOVE COOLS

Raisin Grower's Daughter Granted Divorce Decree in Local Court

Marriage was a failure for Stella Cramley, daughter of a wealthy Fresno raisin grower. Her love failed to hold her husband, Steve Cramley. Judge Summerfield yesterday granted her a divorce. Daniel M. Hardy was her attorney.

Stella was regarded as one of Fresno's leading beauties. She was introduced to Cramley at a Fourth of July celebration in Ontario in 1917. She was 17 years old, she says, and susceptible, and he was handsome. Subsequently she married him.

It was not long before his love cooled, she told the court.

"He came home one evening and said he was going to leave me—he had found someone else—and that he was through with me. I asked him where he had been for the past few days and he replied that it was none of my business.

"I implored him for money to live on before he went. He said that he needed all he had for himself. When I begged him to stay and told him I would forgive everything he had done he told me that my crying would not keep him. After he left me I wrote several letters to him but he did not answer me. He did not care for me and he would not come back."

Mrs. Cramley was corroborated by her sister, Mrs. Carry Williams.

She said, "He came back home for his clothes. His wife was weeping. He shoved her aside. My parents and I helped to support her after that."

EVANGELIST SCORES SLEEPING CHRISTIANS

SALVATION ARMY MAN IS HOLDING TEN-DAY CAMPAIGN HERE

"Somnolent Christians and Ministerial Somnambulism" provide the greatest problem of the church, according to Lieut.-Col. George H. Davis, Salvation Army evangelist, who is conducting a ten-day campaign in Los Angeles at the army's hall, 121 Weller street.

Col. Davis gave his talk on "Sleeping Sickness" in the church, before the largest audience of his local campaign, the assemblage including Brig. C. R. Boyd and his Southern California staff officers.

"If sleep walking is a symptom of epidemic encephalitis," said Col. Davis, "there was abundant evidence indicating that the Christian church, was, in a degree, included in its recent ravages."

Col. Davis flayed "somnolent Christians," declaring them to be a hindrance to the progress of the cause they represent.

"Too many Christians are singing about 'being in the way,'" he asserted. "It will be a good thing for Christendom when some of them either get busy or get out of the way."

REAL MONEY

HIGH CHARACTER.

I give salesmen—not peddlers; truth tellers, clear thinkers, men who can stand on their own feet with a pride and dignity borne of the firm conviction that the house behind them has a reputation to maintain for the BEST and only the BEST.

Above all, these salesmen must be MEN—for, while I shall be cordial, I do not intend to coddle or impose themselves to play governess to any of them.

I am conducting a school of salesmanship at my sales school every morning at 10 a.m.

BONAR LAW FOR HARMONY

Declares Allies are Working in Accord in Near East Situation; Wants America in League

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The Prime Minister and his Cabinet attended the annual Lord Mayor's banquet in the Guild Hall tonight, where were gathered also the members of the diplomatic corps and the leaders of the church and business life of the city of London.

Bonar Law was suffering from a cold; he made little reference to the election or politics, but incidentally remarked that none of his party, which is fighting the labor party, was fighting labor itself; if they did that none of them would be elected.

WANTS AMERICA

He expressed regret at the absence of the United States from the League of Nations and said that although his government desired to afford the league greater opportunity for usefulness the league at the present moment could not secure peace.

He said there was nothing new to say about Constantinople. The Allies were working in complete harmony and unanimity and if that harmony, as he hoped, was continued, he was sure the difficulties would be overcome.

He emphasized the deep sense of comradeship with Italy and friendship with France, characterizing as a mistake the supposition that because British credit stood high England was not suffering from the effects of the war. It was to the interest of the whole world to bring about the recovery of Central Europe and so far as material interest was concerned the recovery of Germany was as much to the advantage of France as to England.

PLEA FOR HARMONY

His speech was largely devoted to emphasizing the desire of the present government to work harmoniously with the Allies. He looked forward with fresh hope and confidence.

Alluding to the dominions, he said he thought it was no disadvantage, at a time when these dominions had reached manhood that a man born in one of them should for the first time be Premier of his country.

Former Premier Lloyd George, who for many years past had been the principal speaker at the Lord Mayor's banquet, was absent tonight, while for the first time in the history of the banquet the presence of "the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland" was announced, as Sir James Craig and his wife appeared.

CONTRACTORS TO ORGANIZE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Nov. 9.—Local contractors will organize an Arizona chapter of the Association of General Contractors at a meeting scheduled for the 18th inst., when Arthur S. Bent, president of the national association, and G. W. Buchholz, general secretary, will be present.

Greeks Leave Thrace, Turks Now Control

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VIENNA, Nov. 9.—The Greek evacuation of Thrace has been completed and Turkish administration has been introduced by Chakir Bey, whose gendarmerie now occupy the territory between Chataldji and Chorlou. The Turkish Nationalists, it now is reported, will demand at Lausanne autonomy for Western Thrace with Saloniki as the sea outlet for Jugo-Slavia while the Bulgarians would receive Dedagatch as a free port.

It is learned that the Jugo-Slavs may attempt a coup d'etat before the Lausanne conference and occupy Saloniki, knowing that the weakened Greeks would be unable to resist.

A concentration of Serb troops on the southern frontier of Macedonia, supposedly with this objective, already has been reported from Sofia. Jugo-Slavia is in an uncomfortable position, surrounded by the hostile Fascisti of Italy, the irredentists of Hungary and the malcontents of Bulgaria.

IMPORT TAXES WILL REACH $445,000,000

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A Federal revenue of approximately $445,000,000 this fiscal year from import taxes, or about $100,000,000 more than ever before in the nation's history, was forecast today by customs officials. This is on the basis of returns under the new Tariff Act for a month and a half of its operation and the almost unprecedented income which immediately preceded the enactment of the Fordney McCumber statute when there were heavy withdrawals from bonded warehouses and a rush of imports so as to avoid the high duties carried in the new law.

PROMOTER IS GIVEN FREEDOM

John S. Berger is Divorced from Asserted Extravagant Wife

John S. Berger, promoter of the recent Pageant of Progress Exposition in Los Angeles, made big money by his efforts, but his wife, Elizabeth Berger, tried to spend it all, he told Judge Summerfield in divorce proceedings yesterday. The court granted him a decree.

Mr. Berger asserted that he spent $20,000 in thirteen months on his wife. He declared she was a saleswoman in Texas before he married her. He enumerated some of his gifts to her, including a $2000 sealskin coat, pearls valued at $1500 and a $1700 diamond ring.

He missed these gifts, he said, and was told by his wife that she had lost them. He was suspicious, however, and employed two detectives, who traced the valuables to Mrs. Berger's relatives in Texas. The detectives' report was offered in evidence.

Mrs. Berger called him vile names and was not at all bashful about asking for money, he asserted, usually demanding between $150 and $200 each day. He said she bought on an average two hats, two dresses and two pairs of shoes each week.

He testified that he went to a beach cafe one evening and found her dancing in scanty attire.

"Like 'September Morn?'" queried Judge Summerfield.

"Well, she had hardly anything on," said Mr. Berger.

Mr. Berger also testified that his wife nagged him and bothered him during business hours at his office.

FAMILY ROW AT HAMMER TRIAL

Tremaine and Wife Squabble Because of Girl

Surprise Witness Tells of Clara's Purchase

Says She Saw Her in Store Buying Weapon

A bitter quarrel between Alberta Meadows's father and his second wife over a girl known as Mildred Moore, an attractive and constant attendant at Clara Phillips's trial, took first place among the exciting trial incidents yesterday.

From several sources it was learned that Fred A. Tremaine, the slain girl's father, had engaged in a heated quarrel with his second wife. By the close of the day the incident had become a general topic of discussion in the courtroom and the corridors of the Hall of Records.

SELECTED FOR PLACE

Mildred Moore was the cause. Tremaine, at the conclusion of the morning session, approached one of the outer guards and told him to select an attractive girl to occupy one of the seats reserved in the courtroom for the dead girl's family. Miss Moore was chosen. Returning from lunch, a woman later identified as Mrs. Tremaine, halted them in front of the Hall of Records. She grabbed Mr. Tremaine by the arm and exclaimed:

"What do you mean by going around with other women?"

Mr. Tremaine and Miss Moore continued on their journey. Then Mrs. Tremaine turned on the girl and shouted:

"You hussy—what do you mean by going around with a married man!"

WANTS PAIR OUSTED

Tremaine and Miss Moore returned together to the courtroom and occupied adjoining seats through the afternoon. Shortly after court convened Mrs. Tremaine appeared outside the courtroom door. She called for Deputy Sheriff Dewar and instructed that official to oust her husband and "that woman" from the room. Deputy Dewar refused.

"I'll be back at 5 o'clock to get him!" was her parting remark, and Mr. Tremaine was so informed.

"If anybody calls for me, don't let them in the room," Tremaine instructed the guards.

Though the woman at one time denied she was Mrs. Tremaine, she told several court attaches that was her name. She gave her name to others as Ella Theodoren. She is the same woman who, during the early stages of the murder investigation, admitted she was Mrs. Tremaine. She was then living away from home, but she explained she was doing so to care for her aged mother.

She returned to the Hall of

SURMISE MISS VALLI ILL

Report from East Confirmed by Hospital and Physician; Information Ends There

A special dispatch yesterday from Marinette, Wis., said that Virginia Valli motion picture actress, formerly a resident of Marinette, was reported there to be critically ill with pneumonia in Hollywood. Her mother, Mrs. A. L. Holmes, was summoned to her daughter's bedside.

So merely to ascertain and tell the general public how Miss Valli was getting along, the publicity department at Universal City, where the star acts, was interrogated.

GETTING BETTER

"Miss Valli? Oh yes; well, her hubbie, Benny Lampson, was in here not an hour ago and he says she's getting better and that she will be back at work soon. Better call him though."

Sure, anything to oblige, and so we called the Mr. and Mrs. Benny Lampson's home:

"No, Mr. Lampson's not home, but Mrs. Lampson's getting better, we think. But she has been very sick. She's still at Good Samaritan Hospital; you might call there."

So we induced central to give us Good Samaritan Hospital:

"How's Miss Valli?"

"Miss Valli——Valli?"

"Yes—Mrs. Lampson, you know."

"Oh, yes, Mrs. Lampson. Who's this? Oh, The Times. Well, Mrs. Lampson's doing very nicely."

"She's been quite sick though, with pneumonia, we understand?"

"Pneumonia? Oh, indeed no!"

"No? What was the trouble then?"

"Well, you'd better call Dr. Guy Cochran; he's her physician."

Dr. Guy Cochran was called:

"Hello, doctor; this is The Times. Would you mind telling us about Mrs. Lampson's—Miss Valli's—condition?"

"Oh, no! No, I can't tell you. No, really, I can't."

Click.

But anyway, she's getting better.

"The $38,000,000 jinx" was some six months later reported to be engaged to marry C. Wilson Campbell, an oil promoter of Los Angeles. At that date, this youthful feminine Croesus already possessed more than a million dollars' worth of property in her own name, and owing to the fact that she was not of legal age in California, a legal guardian had to be appointed for her.

More than two and a half years ago Miss Angell remarked: "When I get ready to marry it will be nobody's business but my own whom I marry."

MAYOR TO VETO JAY-WALK BILL

The pedestrian ordinance is to receive the Mayor's veto this morning unless something altogether unforeseen occurs to change his mind overnight, for late yesterday evening, after an afternoon devoted to consideration of the ordinance, he expressed himself as being decidedly against it.

The ordinance is to the effect that pedestrians must wait for a traffic signal before crossing street intersections. The Mayor, according to a statement of his secretary, H. H. Kinney, is of the opinion that such an ordinance would inconvenience the many for the sake of the few, for after all the great majority of traffic in the business district is pedestrian. Then, too, there would be constant danger and confusion resulting from cars making right turns at intersections, and driving into the throng of pedestrians crossing the street in obedience to the signal.

The ordinance has been awaiting the Mayor's action for some time, and his veto has been expected each day during the last week.

RAIL EXTENSION SOUGHT

Long Beach Delegation Would Have Santa Fe Road Silt Harbor for City

Representatives of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce and the city renewed efforts yesterday to have the Santa Fe Railroad extend its tracks to the Long Beach port instead of the Los Angeles port.

A delegation of five from the Long Beach city government and the chamber called upon J. L. Hibbard, general manager of the Santa Fe Railroad, yesterday afternoon and outlined briefly the advantage which would accrue to the road from extending its tracks to the Long Beach port.

Members of the delegation pointed out that Long Beach is rapidly growing and that its harbor facilities were sufficient to handle practically all ocean-going shipments from this vicinity.

Mr. Hibbard told the delegation that the railroad would consider the proposal. The efforts being made by Long Beach to have that city made the terminus for the Santa Fe extension to the ocean are the result of delays encountered by the road in its efforts to obtain a franchise from the local City Council.

Mr. Hibbard announced for the first time that the road has just been authorized to place 13½ miles of second-line track in California, New Mexico and Arizona. This improvement will give the Santa Fe a double track from Winslow, Ariz., to Los Angeles, with the exception of a thirty-mile stretch on this side of Barstow.

The delegation which called upon Mr. Hibbard was composed of Mayor C. A. Buffum, City Manager Charles E. Hewes, members of the City Council and delegation from the Chamber of Commerce headed by C. S. Henderson, H. S. Callahan and E. J. Whiteman.

BEAR DISCOVERS BODY OF MAN

A thrill of realism that wasn't in the scenario was injected into a motion picture scene being filmed in Griffith Park yesterday, when a bear, being used in the picture, dashed into a clump of bushes and emerged dragging the form of a dead man.

The body proved to be an unidentified Japanese, who Police Detective Sergeants Craig and Schofield say, committed suicide about ten days ago by hanging himself to the limb of a tree.

An investigation showed that the Japanese had destroyed all marks of identification, with the exception of a possible clew provided by a gold watch. The motion-picture people notified park attendants, who, in turn, telephoned the police.

McCLEOD TO PREACH

The Rev. Carl L. Howland, pastor of the Second Free Methodist Church, announced yesterday that the quarterly meeting of members and officials of that church will be conducted tonight, tomorrow night, Sunday morning and Sunday evening. The congregation, on every occasion, will be addressed by the Rev. Davis McCleod, district elder.

POLICE GET CONFESSION OF SUSPECT

Asserted Member of Gang Tells of Four Robberies in Los Angeles

An asserted confession to four robberies committed here between September 7 and October 6, last, was made yesterday by Carl Alexander Pfeiffer, said by police to be a member of the Frank Nordhoff gang, after his arraignment in police court on charges of highway robbery.

Eddie Ray Enos, truck driver, implicated by Pfeiffer's confession, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Gibson and Carron of the Boyle Heights station. He is said to have admitted his part in the robberies.

According to the police, Pfeiffer's confession sets forth that they robbed a drugstore at 3235 West Washington street, Oscar C. Smith, proprietor, of $86 and several kodaks; L. W. Walter's store at 5001 Compton avenue, obtaining $61.90 in cash and $105 in checks; Dr. W. R. Maloney of $500 in jewelry in front of his home, 1033 Gramercy Place, and a store owned by Sam Kotkin, 4029 Hooper avenue, of $115 in cash.

Pfeiffer was arrested several days ago on suspicion of having been one of Nordhoff's gangsters, and after a grilling by the police, is said to have confessed to the four robberies, implicating Enos as his partner.

BOY OF TEN RUNS STILL; IS NABBED

"Baby Moonshiner" Said to be Youngest One Yet Found

Dan McDermott, Jr., 10 years old, of 2159 Orange Grove avenue, Alhambra, is the youngest distiller of moonshine liquor on record in California, according to local prohibition agents, who say they found the youth operating a fifty-gallon still when they raided the McDermott home yesterday.

Official Federal reports show that when a squad of Federal agents rushed the McDermott home yesterday morning they found Dan in charge of a still and a dozen barrels of mash. He informed the raiding officers that he had been instructed by his father when to turn off the gas, and how to attend to the other details of producing bootleg whisky.

While the Federal agents were questioning Dan they discovered three other children in an upper bedroom, and were informed by the young still operator, they say, that he was also in charge of the children. During the questioning of the boy, his parents arrived in an automobile and were at once taken into custody. Mrs. McDermott was released to care for the children, and her husband taken to the County Jail. The still was seized by the Federal agents and the mash destroyed.

Agent-in-charge Dolley declared, following the raid, that many cases where children had been employed to tend moonshine stills were coming to his attention, and that in the future all such cases will be turned over to the county juvenile authorities.

KLAN ARRESTS TO BE SIFTED

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Nov. 9.—No time will be lost, it was indicated here today by City Manager Charles E. Hewes, in launching the investigation of charges that led to the suspension yesterday of Chief of Police Ben W. McLendon. The city manager will begin at once an investigation of the claims of former Chiefs of Police James I. Butterfield and C. C. Cole, asserted members of the Ku Klux Klan, that McLendon caused their arrest last Friday night because of personal enmity, Hewes announced.

Prompt action in the matter is due to the deposed chief, Mr. Hewes announced, in order that, if he is found not guilty of the charges he may be restored to his post the earliest possible moment. On the other hand, it was indicated, if McLendon is found guilty of the charges he will be permanently dismissed.

The charges grew out of the arrest of Butterfield, Cole and Steven Mitchell, asserted Kleagle of the Ku Klux Klan in Long Beach, on the ground that they were leaders in a disturbance said to have been staged by the Klan at the auditorium here Friday night when Thomas Lee Woolwine was delivering a political speech.

Sergt. William H. Dovey, named late yesterday as acting chief of police, took charge of the department last night. Acting Patrol Sergt. W. J. Ray has been named desk sergeant in charge of the night watch, the post formerly filled by Sergt. Dovey.

He asserted that she deserted him and devoted herself to good times in the company of other men, representing herself as single and frequenting cafes and dances. The plaintiff's attorney is A. P. Michael Narlian.

AGED ROMANCE IS SHATTERED

Forty Years' Wedded Life Too Much for Couple

Hot Charges of Affinities Fly at Hearing

Son Says Plot Framed to Get "Other Man" in Case

A. W. McReady and Sarah A. McReady lived together for forty years, but unlike the old song, they lived together forty years too long. They were too much alike in temperament and now at the age of 72 they were in Judge Toland's court where Mr. McReady sought a divorce from his aged wife on a charge of desertion.

Mrs. McReady contested the divorce, declaring in answer to his charges that he was cruel. McReady told his story in court several days ago, producing letters exchanged between his wife and Oscar Freemyer, a stockman, and containing endearing terms. Mrs. McReady admitted writing the letters, but declared that they were written in an effort to reform Mr. Freemyer of the drink habit.

WAS OVERCOME

When she was called on the witness stand yesterday Mrs. McReady was overcome by emotion and it was some time before she could answer questions put to her by Attorneys Todd and Dawson. Former Judge Dana Weller represented Mr. McReady. The latter is a retired farmer and schoolteacher.

"He told me," Mrs. McReady testified, "that during our married life he had to stand aside for other men!"

Mr. McReady responded by declaring that his wife was infatuated with Freemyer.

Mrs. McReady retorted that her husband was infatuated with Grace Clemm, their housekeeper.

A. W. McReady, Jr., witness for the mother, was then placed on the stand. He testified that his father had declared to his mother that Grace Clemm's shoes "are worth more than all your body."

The aged husband denied all these charges and declared that his wife had "considerable temper."

SON ON STAND

The son testified further of an incident in which his father sought to have him implicate Mr. Freemyer by means of Mrs. McReady's diamond ring.

"You take this ring and place it on Mr. Freemyer," the son said his father had told him, "and I will have him arrested and sent to the penitentiary."

The son refused to do this, he said in court. However, he pretended he had found the ring, which his mother had hidden, but his mother cornered him and pointing her finger at him had forced him to tell the truth.

In February, 1918, the wife testified further, Mr. McReady became so violent he ordered her out of the home.

"SWORE AT ME"

"He swore at me," she said, "and stated he did not want anything to do with me. He declared that he was infatuated with his housekeeper."

She was the most detestable woman in the world to him, Mrs. McReady said he had told her. He wanted to be independent. "He boasted to me that Mrs. Clemm was a perfect queen."

Judge Toland awarded the decree to Mr. McReady on the grounds of desertion. He stated that Mrs. McReady's attitude towards Freemyer had not been conducive to domestic felicity and that a reconciliation seemed impossible.

Wyman, chairman of the American Legion's Armistice Day committee, that a greater number of marchers will appear in the parade, which opens the day's festivities, than have ever before appeared in an affair of like character in Los Angeles.

Ex-service men who are to participate in the parade are requested to form at the corner of Adams and Figueroa streets at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

Veterans of Foreign Wars are requested to report to Post Commander Frank M. Wilson in uniform at 1 p.m. Saturday at 437 South Hill street. All gold-stripe men are invited.

LEGION IN LINE

The parade will start at Pico and Figueroa streets proceeding south on Figueroa to Santa Barbara, thence west to the Hoover-street entrance to Exposition Park. The Rainbow Division, another famous fighting organization, will share the honors in the parade with the Ninety-first; posts of the American Legion and their auxiliaries, members of the Disabled Veterans of the World War, units of the present Army and Navy and Marine Corps and war time welfare organizations will have their places in the line. Other patriotic organizations have expressed a desire to participate and they are requested to get in touch with Capt. Harry Huntington, marshal, by phone at 824-747 for assignment to places.

ELABORATE PROGRAM

Entertainment will be provided at Exposition Park in the afternoon by the Army, Navy and Marine Corps in bayonet exercises and physical drills. Tom Mix is to stage a riding and roping exhibition. Massed bands and a community chorus will provide music.

Records at 5 p.m. and waited until the crowds had been dispersed. Tremaine was told that a woman was waiting for him in the corridor. When he failed to come out the woman walked down eight flights of stairs and went toward Main street.

Officials of the court searched her large handbag for a weapon, but found none.

Since the death of Alberta Meadows, many reports have been heard of the troubles between Tremaine and his wife.

TALKS OF HAMMER

Next in importance, among the day's incidents, was the sudden appearance on the witness stand of a woman who declared she saw Clara Phillips purchase a hammer on July 11, the day before Alberta Meadows was murdered.

Mrs. A. W. Crandall's testimony precipitated a dispute between Attorney Herrington and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fricke. When the witness left the witness stand, Atty. Herrington remarked to the prosecutor:

"I didn't think you had to prove your case with crazy people."

Dep. Dist.-Atty Fricke leaped to his feet and addressed the court: "I resent that remark, Your Honor."

JURORS WARNED

At the afternoon recess the prosecutor went into an executive session with Superior Judge Houser, and when the recess was over the judge instructed the jury to disregard any side remarks.

Mrs. Crandall, whose sudden appearance as a witness was an eleventh hour surprise, testified that on July 11 she was in a downtown store when Clara Phillips purchased a hammer.

"I was standing on the stairway that leads into the basement of the store," she said. "I saw two people standing below me. The taller of the two was Clara Phillips. The smaller girl, I later learned, was Peggy Caffee.

"I heard the name of Clara mentioned.

"'Come to the hardware counter. I want to look at some hammers,' Clara told Peggy.

"The other girl said: 'You go ahead. I want to go to the music counter.'

COUNTER CONVERSATION

"Then the girl called Clara stepped up to a clerk and said she wanted to look at some hammers.

"She picked up a hammer, weighed it in her hand, and asked: "'Is this the heaviest hammer you have?'

"The clerk said it was.

"'If I hit a person on the head with it, will it kill anybody?' Clara asked the clerk.

"Sarcastically, the clerk said it would."

Clara was laughing throughout Mrs. Crandall's testimony. Attorney Herrington cross-examined the witness.

"Why did you come here to tell this story today?" he asked her.

"Well, Mrs. Caffee was accused of buying that hammer, and I got indignant and told a neighbor that I knew who bought it."

"Have you ever been in an insane asylum?"

"I guess not!" Mrs. Crandall retorted.

"Have you ever ben treated for insanity"?

"No indeed!" Mrs. Crandall replied.

"Aren't you seeking a little notoriety"?

"I am not!"

DEFENDANT'S REMARK

When Mrs. Crandall left the witness stand she passed by Clara's chair. Clara, still laughing, turned toward the retreating witness and said in an audible tone:

"It's peculiar you can't tell that story without getting nervous!"

Mrs. Crandall tilted her chin a little higher and passed on.

Earlier in the afternoon the prosecution called George Albert, a houseman at the apartment-house where Peggy formerly resided. Mr. Albert saw Clara Phillips on several occasions, particularly on the night of July 13, the day of the crime, when Clara returned to Peggy's apartment to obtain some parcels she had left there. He could not recall how she was dressed on that day, and was excused.

DEWAR TESTIFIES

Deputy Sheriff Dewar was the next rebuttal witness. He had been present several days before when Mrs. McElroy was awaiting her turn to testify for the defense. On the witness stand Mrs. McElroy denied she was a user of narcotics.

"Were you present in the witness room when Mrs. McElroy made the remark that she would have to have a shot of hop before she testified or she would have to be carried to the witness stand?"

"Yes, sir," said the deputy sheriff.

"You were a stranger to her, were you not?" asked Attorney Herrington upon cross-examination.

"Yes, sir," said the deputy.

ALIENIST TESTIFIES

Dr. Louis Weber, prosecution alienist, was the first prosecution witness of the afternoon. He declared that, in his opinion, Clara Phillips was not insane at the time of Alberta Meadows's death. His opinion was given after Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fricke had asked him a lengthy hypothetical question pertaining to the possibility of Clara's insanity.

"The reasons for my opinion," he said, "are based upon the assumption that Clara Phillips admonished Peggy Caffee, following the crime, not to tell anyone of the tragedy. That could not have been evidence of amnesia. It also indicated that Clara Phillips knew the difference between right and wrong at the time. Otherwise she would not have warned Peggy Caffee to remain silent."

Dr. O. E. Sawyer, also a prosecution alienist, likewise testified that Clara was sane, in his opinion. He will be questioned further this morning. Dr. Victor Partin, the last of the prosecution's alienists, will follow him to the witness stand.

REBUTTAL STARTED

The prosecution's attack upon Clara's double-barreled defense—psychic insanity and the unwritten law—started yesterday morning when Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fricke called the State's first rebuttal witness.

Eighteen County Jail attaches had been summoned to testify for the prosecution, but only a few responded to the summons. For a short period the case was halted and then bench warrants were issued for the five County Jail matrons who had failed to appear.

Those who did testify declared they had observed Clara during her imprisonment in the County Jail, and that she had always appeared rational to them. The witnesses from the County Jail were J. B. Loving, William A. Oliver and A. G. Hoffman. Following the testimony of these three witnesses, Defense Counsel Herrington announced he would stipulate that all the turnkeys and other County Jail attaches would testify that in their opinion Clara was rational.

Bench warrants were issued for Laura D. Fisher, Elisabeth Bartoo, Fanny Lowe, Frances Wallis and Alice Berry.

TESTIMONY REFUSED

Another rebuttal witness, Mrs. Jennie Black, was prevented from testifying that Clara Phillips had worn a long, dark cape on the day of the murder. Mrs. Black is landlady at the apartment-house where Peggy Caffee was residing on the day of the crime. She was called by the prosecution to rebut Clara's testimony relative to the clothing she wore on July 12 last.

Oscar Hackman, a cattle herder, had previously testified he had seen a woman on July 12 last running from the scene of the murder. The woman wore a long, dark wrap. Clara testified she wore no such wrap on that date. She said she had never owned such a garment. Alberta Meadows possessed a long, dark cape, and had worn it on the day of the murder. It has been missing ever since. The State wanted to show that Clara, upon her visit to Peggy's apartment to get a few parcels within a short time after the murder, was wearing Alberta's cape to hide her own bloodstained clothing.

Mrs. Black saw Mrs. Phillips at Peggy's apartment on three occasions, on Sunday and Tuesday prior to the murder, and on the day of the crime.

"How was Mrs. Phillips dressed on Wednesday?" Mr. Fricke asked her.

OBJECTION SUSTAINED

Attorney Herrington objected, asserting the question was not proper rebuttal, and the court sustained his objection.

"Was she dressed the same on Wednesday as she was on the day before?"

Mrs. Black said she was not.

Dr. Louis Weber was the first alienist called for the prosecution. His testimony contradicted the testimony of the four defense alienists. He had examined Clara Phillips twice.

"Did you form an opinion as to her sanity or insanity?"

"My opinion is that she was sane at the time the crime was committed. I did not find her mentally abnormal."

"What did you find in reference to her memory?"

"Her memory is all right."

"What was your diagnosis as to whether she is sane or insane?"

"Sane. My opinion is founded on the conversation I had with her and her manner."

SINCERITY DOUBTED

Dr. Weber said Clara was not sincere during his examination. She told him she could not remember anything about Waco, Tex., her home town. She had reached the fifth grade in grammar school, but could not remember what she had studied. He gave her the "association test," but she did not respond sincerely.

He examined the strength of her hand to determine her sincerity. "I didn't think she was sincere," the doctor testified. "She was not sincere in reference to her memory."

"Baby Peggy," Film Prodigy, Critically Ill

"Baby Peggy" Montgomery, aged 4, child actress of stage and motion-picture fame, is critically ill at her home in Owensmouth with a severe cold, which the doctors say will develop into pneumonia if her condition does not improve, according to John Montgomery, father of the girl.

"Baby Peggy" is thought to have caught her cold while searching for her lost dog "Rex" that strolled away from her last Tuesday evening.

Montgomery says Peggy was sick Wednesday morning and complained of chills and a severe headache. She worked that day, however, but that night she was taken seriously ill and was immediately rushed to her home and put in the care of two doctors and a nurse.

Peggy has been connected with the Century Film Company for the past two years.

Asserted Drug Peddler Held

Henry Lujan, aged 30 years, asserted narcotic peddler, was arrested near First and San Pedro streets late yesterday by Detectives Yarrow, Mailheau, Littlejohn and Jackson and State Inspector Earl. The detectives stated that they found a large quantity of narcotics in the man's room and that, when arrested, Lujan attempted to bribe the officers to release him. He was booked for violation of the State Narcotic Act, a felony.

PEP MEDICINE CARRIES PUNCH

Bedridden Woman Gets Up and Saws Wood on Strength of It

So much pep was in the medicine vended by C. A. Isbell of 342 Garfield avenue, Pasadena, that it made a formerly bedridden old lady get up and start sawing wood, a witness testified today before Justice Baird. Hardin Thompson of Los Angeles was the witness and the old lady was his mother. He declared Isbell's remedy, which Isbell named "Human Energy," was well denominated.

Isbell was charged with running a pharmacy without a license and with selling drugs similarly unequipped. "Human Energy," it was testified, came in powdered form and a small envelope cost $1. After hearing ten witnesses Justice Baird adjourned the case to the 15th inst.

Wife Tells of Proposals in Divorce Suit

Daisy Goodwin

DAISY GOODWIN, blonde and pretty, will go to Honolulu, but not to see Raymond Goodwin, her husband. He wants her to and wrote a letter requesting that she hurry over, but in that letter lay his mistake. Yesterday Mrs. Goodwin sued for divorce, using the missive as one of the causes for her action.

Mrs. Goodwin, who is said to be the daughter of a wealthy Seattle family, married Goodwin when she was only a child. She learned after her marriage, she says, that one of his principal sources of revenue was gambling. She did not like it, but as long as he loved her she tolerated it.

One day he announced that he was broke, the complaint, which was prepared by Attorney S. S. Hahn, reveals. He took her to the lobby of one of the hotels there and introduced her to a wealthy friend, and became angered when she refused to accompany the man on a party. It was a good way to earn money, Goodwin is declared to have informed his wife.

Recently, according to Mr. Hahn, Mrs. Goodwin received a letter from her husband written from Honolulu. He told her that he had lost his money on the races and wanted her to join him on the islands. But, he informed her in the letter, it would be necessary for her to "bring a lot of money with her."

It is declared in the complaint that the import of the letter is unmistakable. She asks for a divorce because of it. She stated yesterday that after gaining the legal separation she will go to Hawaii—but alone.

Trade Move on Santa Barbara Avenue Halted

Efforts to create a business district out of that section of Santa Barbara avenue adjacent to Vermont avenue met with a rebuff in the Council yesterday, when a majority report was filed denying the request of property owners to erect a business block 140 feet west of Vermont avenue. However, a minority report, filed by Councilman Conaway, favored the request, and the matter went over until Monday for discussion and decision.

The City Planning Commission, through Gordon Whitnall, reported against the request. It was stated by Mr. Whitnall that the property in question is in reality residence property and not suitable for business, in that Santa Barbara avenue has a double roadway, is wide and is one of the ornamental residence streets of the city.

Councilman Allen spoke for the zoning system and declared that if Santa Barbara is made a residence street, that the entire plan of zoning the city will be upset. Property owners in the vicinity of Santa Barbara and Vermont avenues will have an opportunity to speak when the matter is heard by the Council at its Monday session.

These numbers were "Pastel, Minuet Vif," by Paradis, "Andante et Polonaise," by Mezzacarpo, and "Aubade Printaniere," by Lacombe. Bob Cottrell gave a mandolin solo—"Twilight Slumber Song," his own composition. Listeners-in having voiced their approval of stringed instrument orchestra numbers and musical numbers such as were given last night by this quartet, and as have been given frequently from KHJ during the last week, they will be featured in future programs.

SEEK BETTER STATIONS

VENICE, Nov. 9.—Co-operation between the local Chamber of Commerce and the Sawtelle district Chamber of Commerce in their effort to obtain better station facilities in Los Angeles for cars running to the bay district was urged today by Secretary Smith of the Sawtelle body, and Secretary Pier of the local organization. A conference for representatives of the two bodies probably will be called for the first of next week.

We eat Snow Flakes at our home. I tried them first because so many people called for them that I was curious to test their goodness, too. We keep them regularly now—they are so crisp and delicious. If you want the best soda wafer, I recommend Snow Flakes.

THE FIRING LINE

While they are trying to find out who burnt Smyrna they might run down the wight who burnt Sienna. They claim that he did it in the name of art.

COALITION IN ITALY

It is said that five different parties are represented in the new Fascisti Cabinet in Italy. At that, neither the Socialists nor the Commune get a look-in. In this country it is thought bad politics to have more than one party represented in the Cabinet at a time.

BERLIN'S BIG BELL

The great bell in the cathedral tower in the imperial palace grounds, Berlin, which cracked itself while tolling the death of the late Empress and went dumb, has been repaired and rings again. That's where it has the advantage over the human dumb-bell, his cracked head is beyond repair.

THE WIND-UP

Down in New York a Tammany man wanted to lick Mayor Hylan because some official communication sent from the Mayor's office to his wife was signed by the Mayor as "Yours Sincerely." He thought the Gotham executive was getting too blamed intimate with his family. Hereafter the Mayor will never be more than "Yours Truly" to anybody.

THE LANDLORD'S TROUBLES

Pity the poor property owner in Vienna. He was forbidden by law during and after the war to raise rents. Apartments of two or three rooms are bringing in what amounts to 3 cents a month in American money. There are hardly homes enough to go around, but the families that were housed at the time of the war cannot be put out very easily nor can their rent be advanced. The man who owns the house is the one who suffers. He must take his rent at the old figure and it is in paper crowns that are worth less than nothing. Meanwhile his own taxes have been boosted to the skies. Better is a dinky little lot in Boyle Heights than a palace in Vienna.

GETTING INQUISITIVE

It appears that the five political experts who were paid fees of $2,500,000 last year by the Thompson administration in Chicago for making appraisements in street improvement proceedings neglected to make full accounting to the income-tax authorities. It is intimated that they were silently slipping the dough into their jeans in the hope that everybody would forget about it. In the jumble of political bookkeeping it is comparatively easy to slip a few millions to a friend. Even a janitor may find a couple of hundred thousand dollars on the floor when he comes to sweep up. But it seems tough to be asked to pay an income tax on easy money. Can't the politicians in different branches of the service arrange to pull together?

NEED THE REMEDY

President Harding should offer a distinguished service medal to the philosopher or financier who can contribute a practical and feasible program for the adjustment of European debts to America. It is not enough to say that these obligations must be met and paid for the sake of national honor. A coherent plan for this accomplishment must be provided. It is a fine thing to talk of clearing the decks, but it takes soap to clean a deck. If the financial skies are to be cleared through a series of exchanges the sooner they are under way the better for all concerned. Will the wise guy with the cure-all plan step forward while the President pins the medal to his breast?

PERILS OF THE VOTER

As long as we have the noble initiative and referendum in our midst the American voter will be condemned to carry a ponderous and massive ballot to the box. He will have to bear his own cross, as it were. This year, in addition to the names of some seventy-odd candidates for office, the blanket ballot carried brief description of the fifty-three different propositions, amendments or measures the Los Angeles voter was asked to review. This is an off-year in elections. Next time, if the itch for freakish legislation is unabated, the ballot may call for an expression on 100 or more questions. In a few years more the American voter will need a secretary to take care of his ballot and read it to him. He will need a lawyer to interpret the reading and he will need a padded cell to sleep in while the reading is going on. It would seem to be a good deal simpler to intrust the making of laws to the chosen legislators and then hold them responsible for their success or failure. Provisions for the initiative and referendum were of themselves illustrious exemplars of the freakishness of the times. They were the spinning of radicals. A large percentage of the membership of both the Democratic and Republican parties is made up of the conservatives. They are not to be jolted from their moorings by a casual gust of wind. They should be able to hold together in resistance against freak attempts at legislation. The next initiative should be an initiative against the initiative. It has already outlived its usefulness and demonstrated its cumbrous and impractical qualities.

A PILGRIMAGE TO DOORN

Numerous political rounders in Los Angeles and elsewhere throughout the State will be able to weather what would have otherwise been a hard winter for them because W. R. Hearst proved to be as gullible about California politics as he believed the people to be.

When Mr. Hearst looks across the Hudson from his mansion on Riverside Drive, New York, towards California and the setting sun he sees only San Francisco. It is there that his father made a large fortune and there that Hearst was born. While he supports a couple of newspapers published in Los Angeles, he still continues to regard our southern metropolis as only a way station on the Sunset route to San Francisco.

When considering California affairs he advises only with the publishers of his northern papers; and he understands the psychology of the southern part of the State about as well as did Bethmann Hollweg and Von Tirpitz. When he read in his reports from San Francisco that that city was likely to go for Woolwine, that Richardson was to be stabbed there by former Progressives, just as Hughes was in 1916, he gave instructions for all hands in California to clamber aboard the Woolwine band wagon. He followed his natural penchant for trading between the lines.

Reports from San Francisco were highly gratifying, but those from Los Angeles were annoyingly unsatisfactory. So two weeks before election he demoted two of his Los Angeles satellites who had been honest enough to report to him what he ought to know, in place of what he would like to hear; and sent Jack Neylan, publisher of his San Francisco Call, and Tim Reardon, one of the labor-union bosses of the bay district, to Los Angeles to "put Woolwine over."

Word was passed down the line here that Neylan carried the Hearst sack; and there was the customary flocking of political rounders, for the moment unattached, to the Woolwine headquarters. Every Assembly district in Los Angeles, the Hearst men were told, could be carried for Woolwine, for a consideration. Johnson and Woolwine read the Hearst ticket. A bas Richardson!

And Johnson and Woolwine were three laps ahead of the field in the Hearst-Woolwine headquarters here—until about fifteen minutes after the polls closed. It was a glorious election day for the political rounders. They fully demonstrated their claim to personal pull; but it was on Mr. Hearst's leg. They tore madly about the city in taxicabs, their pockets bulging with currency. That taxi bill alone mounted to four figures. Jack Neylan strutted about like a little Napoleon; and by nightfall the Hearst sack was as lean as a Russian refugee.

Then came the reckoning. Woolwine lost the county by about 65,000 and Johnson was 35,000 behind Richardson; but the pockets of the rounders still bulged. Sadder and perhaps wiser in regard to Southern California politics, Neylan left for the north and the rounders renewed their acquaintance with the receiving tellers of the local banks.

Hearst's dream of transferring his political dominance from New York to California ended in a nightmare. A Democratic Governor will sit in Albany and a Republican Governor in Sacramento. But the Hearst night key no longer fits the doors of the gubernatorial mansions. The people changed the locks on the 7th of November.

Gov.-elect Smith of New York is a Democrat; but not a Hearst Democrat. Tammany Hall, as the result of a private deal between Hearst and Murphy, gave the New York publisher a place as Senator on the Tammany slate last September. But, when that slate reached Albany, the present Governor-elect drove his shoe through it. He said Hearst couldn't have a place on his ticket, not even that of municipal scavenger for New York City; and Tammany, the Hearst dough already in the sack, winked the other eye.

Why wouldn't Smith permit Hearst to have even an inconspicuous place on the ticket? He told the people why at a mass meeting held in Carnegie Hall in New York. He then said:

> I know the man. I know he has not a drop of good, clean, red blood in his body. I know the color of his liver; and I know it is whiter than the driven snow, if such a thing be possible.

In an address delivered before a mass meeting of Democratic women in Pythian Hall, New York, he referred to the Hearst Evening Journal as the "mud-gutter gazette." Speaking of Hearst he said:

> The man who preys upon the people, and particularly upon the poor, who misrepresents conditions to them in order to win their support, is the greatest enemy they can have, while pretending to be their friend. . . . I wish to pay my respects in a few words not only to what I consider the greatest enemy to democracy, but the greatest living enemy of the people themselves, whose cause he pretends to espouse; and that is the owner of the New York American and Journal.

He then likened Hearst to a cuttlefish, hidden in the ink fog emitted by his noisome publication. This was some time before the Albany convention was called. And this denunciation of Hearst and his publications has been elected Governor of New York by a plurality of nearly half a million votes. When the Tammany leaders returned from the Albany convention they told Hearst where to head in, under the penalty of a boycott of his publications. And Hearst proved that the Governor-elect's analysis of the Hearst liver was right by writing a letter meekly admonishing his editors to support Mr. Smith.

There are thousands in the State of New York, as elsewhere in the country, who believe that the ex-Governor owes his re-election to his trenchant and courageous denunciation of Hearst and his methods. Hundreds of thousands of Republicans forget their party affiliation long enough to vote for the man who had the moral courage to kick out of his party characters of the Hearst type.

Disappointed and discredited, alike in California and New York, perhaps Mr. Hearst is contemplating a pilgrimage to Doorn.

MERCANTILE PLACE

Adolph Ramish, who purchased Mercantile Place from the Board of Education in 1919, has just sold it to a syndicate of capitalists, headed by A. C. Blumenthal, at a profit of $1,345,000.

Mercantile Place had for many years appeared to the Board of Education to resemble the proverbial white elephant. In reality all it needed was development by some live business men who could see its possibilities and were willing and able to tackle the job on a comprehensive scale.

The purchasers are planning improvements to make of Mercantile Place another unique feature in the building up of a greater Los Angeles. The plans include twelve-story buildings on both Broadway and Spring street and such novel features as arcades and bridges, a twenty-eight-foot tiled walk and frontage for thirty modern stores of artistic design.

In a general way this big enterprise will act as a tonic for all Los Angeles real estate values. It refutes the idea that business progress here inevitably proceeds in certain fixed directions. It anchors Los Angeles more solidly to its center.

No sale of late months has promised more for steady and stately progress in the development of all downtown properties.

SCOURGE OF THE AGES

Leprosy, the scourge of the ages, is apparently near its end. After raging over the world, probably since the beginning of man, it is at last being conquered by modern science.

Egyptian prescriptions for the disease have been found dated 4600 B.C. Literature from Bible times to the present is filled with descriptions of lepers and how they have been stoned, killed or avoided with the utmost fear and disgust.

In the Middle Ages the disease became extensively diffused in Europe. At this time every town had its leper house. No means were found to conquer it, segregation seemingly having no effect. Yet strangely during the fifteenth century the disease underwent a remarkable diminution and practically disappeared from civilized parts of Europe.

At the present time leprosy prevails extensively throughout Asia and in Africa. It still exists in Norway, Iceland, along the shores of the Baltic, in South Russia, Greece, Turkey, Spain and Portugal. It is found in nearly all parts of South and Central America and in certain parts of North America. Isolated cases thought to be imported appear everywhere.

In the Hawaiian Islands the disease, unknown before 1848, is believed to have been imported by Chinese, so that by 1882 there were reported to be 4000 lepers there.

Because the disease seems to affect islands and the sea coasts more than the interior an ancient belief is held by many that it is caused or fostered by a fish diet. But leprosy is found in the interiors where fish is not an article of diet. As yet no theory advanced for its cause appears to be bullet-proof, but a cure does seem to have been found. It is chaulmoogra oil, an oil derived from the flower of an East Indian tree and given internally to the patients.

This treatment has been administered at the leprosy settlement at Kalaupapa, Molokai, since 1919. The number of lepers there is reported to be steadily diminishing. Just recently the territorial board has recommended for "parole" sixteen men and three women who have long been inmates of the settlement. They have been found free of leprosy so far as tests can determine.

A definite end to this worst of all possible diseases is in sight.

A HORSE APIECE

An eastern newspaper is having some fun with Southern California because of an artless advertisement appearing in The Times in which a woman set forth her anxiety to make some business arrangement for going East. She said that she was eager to go to any point east or north of Kansas City and would be willing to accompany a corpse. The idea of a lady being so anxious to escape from Paradise that she cared not whither she went or that her companion was a dead one had its appeal to the eastern publication. It is usually found, however, that when one is especially ardent in leaving California for the East it is for the purpose of severing the last tie and assuring an early return and a permanent residence on the Pacific Coast. If that be matter for jest, let them make the most of it.

RIPPLING RHYMES

OLD BILL'S MEMOIRS

Old Wilhelm's story of his reign proves what I've always said, that he alone was safe and sane and sound in heart and head; all other men were born in vain, mere strips of gingerbread. On useful labors he was bent throughout his long career, his mighty intellect was lent to studies he held dear, he did not give a punctured cent for warlike atmosphere. He wished to build up German schools and see the churches grow, to watch the farmers, with their tools, go forth to reap and sow; the thought of blood in crimson pools filled all his breast with woe. Judge, then,
His Majesty's surprise when war broke out one day; some insolent and meddling guys had shooed world peace away; they plotted war while Wilhelm's eyes were fixed on fields of hay. He had a pencil in his hand and he was doing sums; how much, he figured, will this land prodiice when harvest comes? And up there came an army band with martial fifes and drums.
The waf was on, and Wilhelm leaned against a fence and wept; the greatest blow since he was weaned—Mars labored while he slept! The old world trembled and careened while he 'mid daisies stept!
Designing men of many lands were plot-ting, in cahoot; and captains drilled bloodthirsty bands to emulate the brute, while Wilhelm's white and saintly hands were toying with a flute!

Father hopes to get the price of a Thanksgiving turkey out of the trenches by the last Thursday of next month.

Beaded dresses are the latest fad in feminine fashions. And father wears his beads on his brow when he thinks of the bill.

It might reduce the mortality on account of automobile accidents if so many folks did not forget and leave their bumpers at home.

We have seen quite a number of newly pressed last winter's suits that look fairly well. But the wearer must be a confirmed optimist. His imagination should be strong.

Just now the flappers are busy trying to fasten hair on to their bobbed tresses so as to do away with the short effect. And they are having their troubles. The bobbed-hair fad did not last long.

Ernest Wadsworth Longfellow, son of the famous poet, died recently, leaving an estate of $500,000. But he was a thrifty Yankee, which his father was not. And the son never made a dollar out of poetry.

There are some sorts of labor that are not well rewarded in the United States. A thief carried off a 300-pound safe the other night and found only a dollar in it. We are looking for a strike of the Amalgamated Order of Yeggs for an increased wage.

With the retirement of Associate Justice Clarke and the resignation of Justice William R. Day from the United States Supreme Court bench there will be but one Ohio man on that tribunal—Chief Justice William H. Taft. Ain't that awful! Something will have to be done about it.

THIS IS THE DAY

Colonists from Massachusetts founded Saybrook, the first English settlement in Connecticut, in the year 1635. Under the supervision of Rev. Thomas Hooker and Rev. Samuel Stone, in spite of combined attacks by the Indians, the colony grew and prospered. In 1633 William Holmes of Plymouth colony had established a trading post, dispossessing the original Dutch discoverers.

LINCOLN'S NAME

BY GILBERT E. BAILEY, Ph.B.
University of Southern California

The origin of the name of the Great Emancipator can be traced back to the time when the cohorts of Julius Caesar invaded England.

Old Caesar did not invade England to humble some powerful and haughty rival; but he sent the well-seasoned, well-armed veterans of Rome against the wild, skin-clad Mervian Indians in order to steal more land and to establish more colonies. It was as easy as taking candy from a baby; there was not even "a scrap of paper" in the way.

Fifty-five years before the Christian era the Romans established a colony on the level lands of Lincolnshire on the North Sea, and called it "Lindum Colonia." Translated this means "Flax-field Colony," where the enslaved savages were taught how to cultivate the flax field and weave cloth from the tough fiber.

In course of time the Angles and Saxons displaced the Latins and built the city of Lincoln on the site of the old Roman colony. They also shortened the word for "flax" to simply "LIN;" hence the word linseed, linsey oil and linen.

The Romans were very fond of "purple and fine linen," and the use of linen goes clear back to the early times of Egypt, for they wrapped their mummies in it; and the flax plant is often found growing on their tombs. The word is found in the Bible: Genesis xli:42.

The weaving of linen made Lincoln a famous city. The married women or "Wevres" did the weaving, while the unmarried sisters were busy with the distaff spinning the threads; adding the words "Wivves" and "Spinsters" to our language.

THE PRICE PAID FOR PROGRESS

BY HARRY BOWLING

No part of the world has witnessed a greater transformation in the last quarter-century than Southern California. And, of course, that change has been all for the good. Life has been rendered more concentrated, more convenient and more complex—the three great "C's" of modern civilization.

Smooth paved highways have brought less dust and more speed; swift autos and mighty motor trucks have swept from their path the old one-horse shay and the lumbering hickory wagon; compact cities and thriving towns have sprung like century plants budded on mushrooms from sleepy pueblos and straggling villages. Los Angeles herself has led the procession in the march of steel and concrete.

Everything in and around Los Angeles speaks of the fine fury, the willful taste, the golden wastefulness, at once the pride and the despair of the apostles of modern culture. Los Angeles is progressive, inspiring, ornamental. . . .

And yet—

Californians who knew their Southland in more primitive days sense something missing in our newborn grandeur, our artificial adornment, for which progress has no compensation and science no substitute.

It jolted through their bones from the "thank-you-ma'ams" of bumpy trails, now hard and gliddery pavements, over which they cursed their sweating horses through warm clouds of choking dust.

In the solitude of rough, treeless mesas, now graded and garnished with shade and flowers, it greeted their nostrils as a tonic, strong and wild and pungent. In sandhills jumbled and tumbled along solitary shores, now overbuilt and overcrowded, it sang to them the song of the sea.

In the long ride ahorse or tramp afoot that ended in a white adobe, a willow and a pepper tree, a pump and windmill and a Spanish greeting, now reached by interurban as a properly convenienced, electric-wired, heavily-taxed bungalow, it gave to an old California supper a taste and a tang that needed no coaxing condiments.

But whatever it is, it is gone. It belonged to different days like musty flavor of old vintages. We cannot stand still, we must progress—and we must pay the price.

TREE VANDALS

The first case of vandalism recorded in the Sequoia National Park occurred over 1000 years ago.

Phloeocina punctatus attacked a Big Tree and left his mark. Phloeocina punctatus was a beetle, but his last name is suggestive of more modern vandals who, despite the activity of park rangers, occasionally carve or puncture the sequoias.

This is how the vandalism of Phloeocina punctatus at Giant Forest about the year 922 A.D. became known to park officials.

Dr. Barton W. Evermann of the California Academy of Sciences desired a cross section of a big tree for the Golden Gate Museum and addressed Supt. John R. White on the subject. An eleven-foot section of Sequoia gigantea, eighteen inches thick, was cut from a fallen giant at Giant Forest, loaded on a truck and sent down the mountain road.

When this section of a mammoth tree was installed in the Golden Gate Museum Mr. E. P. Van Duzee, entomology expert there, discovered traces of the borings of a beetle in the heart of the big tree. Successive rings of growth showed that the beetle's improper activities must have taken place over 1000 years ago.

It is rumored that these two-legged modern bugs who carve their names on park trees will hereafter be known as Phloeocinae punctati. This awful fate may deter them.

AMERICAN GREEK TO ENGLISH

Babbitt unabridged—English as she is "spoke" by Americans—by the hero of "Babbitt" in particular—so puzzles our British cousins that the English edition of the novel is provided with a glossary, much to the amusement of Mr. Heywood Broun, who tells us in the New York World that—

"Unfortunately the translator seems to have been far from expert, and we find: 'Where you get off—where you are making a mistake,' 'Roustabout—revolutionary,' 'Rambunctious—cantankerous' for a climax in this comedy of errors we have saved 'Flivver—cheap motor car of delicate build.'

"In a good many instances we are surprised to find phrases which we had supposed to be international listed as Americanisms. We did not suppose that flivver stopped at the water's edge, and we are a little puzzled to find 'frame-house—built of a wooden frame with horizontal wooden planking for walls.' Frame-house ought not need a definition. A frame house is—well, just a frame house.

"Now and again the interpreter who has undertaken to transpose 'Babbitt' from American into English has permitted himself a few humorous flights not entirely compatible with the seriousness proper to a philologist. Thus, he writes in his glossary: 'Ice-cream soda—ice cream in soda water with some flavoring, a ghastly beverage.' Temperance drink.' We also suspect that he may be spoofing us in 'His Queen—a respectable woman. But possibly that is nothing but local pride.

"The glossary is a little confusing to anyone with a hankering toward internationalism. Here is a people who speak our language and whose civilization is superficially similar to our own, and yet a number of the words and phrases which we use in everyday conversation are so alien to them that they had to be explained, and often explained wrong. One grows discouraged with plans for international brotherhood when he finds 'Bromides—thincummies,' and realizes that not only are the English ignorant of our language, but that they also have one of their own.

"Consider, too, how great is the gap between these two friendly nations when it is necessary for the editor of the English 'Babbitt' to explain: 'Pullman car—no smoking is allowed in sleeping or parlor cars, but at one end is a compartment labeled "Men" containing washing basins, a wall seat and two chairs. Here smoking is permissible.'"—(Literary Digest.

HEARDLESS BOY RADICAL LEADER

Young Seaman Faces Two Serious Charges

Captured in Raid at Harbor on Syndicalists

Conspiracy Believed Cause of Honolulu Loss

Graduated from a high school in Washington, D. C., at 15; an A.B. during the high seas at 16; then a member of the I.W.W., later a leader and finally an organizer, with credentials from the chiefs of the wobblies — and finally, before his seventeenth birthday, a prisoner in the Los Angeles County Jail, accused on two counts of criminal syndicalism and violation of the Harrison Narcotic Act.

That, in brief outline, is the career of Donald Martsch.

Martsch was rounded up, along with thirty-five other radical agitators in the series of spectacular raids conducted by the anti-Red squad of the Los Angeles Police Department, which came to a culmination Wednesday night with the arrest of fifteen men, several of whom are known to be dangerous radicals.

The man in the opinion of Acting Captain Lake Lane, head of the anti-Red squad, presents one of the most sinister developments in police experience.

PAPERS TELL TALE.

"It is almost impossible to believe Martsch is as young as he appears to be," said Lane. "But his birth certificate, found at the time of his arrest, proves it. He's hardened as old in experience of the world as many a man twice his age. And he certainly has gone some."

This young Martsch awaits trial on serious charges. Federal and state authorities in Washington are after him. She is the wife of Martsch, an employee of the Navy Department, according to the police. Here is what she wrote to Martsch in a recent letter:

"I want you to write whenever you can. I worry if you don't. Remember, I'm expecting a whole lot from my youngest son, so study all you can. Make good, so we shall be very proud of you. I think of you very often, and it is harder than anyone knows for me to have you gone. Charles said: 'Well, he will learn a whole lot.' Charles said he is to travel, too."

MOTHER HOPEFUL

It was found by the police in Happy Valley. Residents of San Pedro know that place, and its reputation for unsavory—the hangout of hoboes and wobblies. But Martsch wrote to him later:

"You are located in Happy Valley for a while. Makes me think of Jack London and his Valley of the Moon. Perhaps you, too, will develop into a writer of fiction. If so you could tell a few things. I hope you don't get into bad company.

"Don could tell a few. And the vivid contrast between San Pedro's Happy Valley and Jack London's paradise would give Don's readers a shock.

The police assert that they "have a case" on young Martsch without a doubt. In the accumulated mass of evidence now in possession of Sergt. Lane is his membership card in the I.W.W., showing that his number in the organization is X-930. There are also other cards belonging to persons whom the youngster has initiated into the organization. Not all of these neophytes have been picked up yet, but the police say that finding them is only a matter of time.

GETS CONVERTS

Martsch apparently carried all the paraphernalia of a full-fledged organizer for the I.W.W. His credentials are signed by leaders of the organization and the evidence indicates that in the short period of his residence at the harbor he has been active in getting converts.

Wednesday night's raid was not so sensational as the police expected it might be. Although every effort had been made to keep the plan secret, news of the approach of the raiding squad undoubtedly had been tipped off to the "wobblies." When the police entered the notorious "Bucket of Blood" at Fourth and Beacon streets, the place was crowded with the nondescript riffraff of the port, and they met the raid with jeers and derision, although there was no attempt at violence.

The character of the place was revealed when Sergt. Lane went behind the bar in his search and found a large pile of the latest copies of Industrial Solidarity," official organ of the wobblies. On the strength of this discovery he asserted that he would urge the Police Commission to take action against the place and its proprietors.

LITERATURE FOUND

But only three of the hundred or more present were found to possess evidence sufficient to warrant their arrest. Every man present was subjected to rigid search by the dozen policemen who assisted in the raid.

Paul Ware, ringleader and chief organizer of the wobblies at the harbor, seemed rather surprised at his arrest.

"You won't find anything here," he told Sergt. Bob Evans when the raiders entered his residence at 567 Sixth street. "The underground wireless beat you to it."

Ware told the police that he knew of their intentions even before the raid at the "Bucket of Blood."

"I figured you'd probably want to see me," he said, "so I came on home to wait for you. But you won't find anything."

Ware was right. The police did not find anything, and they were compelled to depart without arresting any of the half dozen or so men living at Ware's house—one of whom, by the way, is Harold Low, who, according to the police, is well known to them as a wobbly organizer.

But Ware did not know that the authorities have in their possession a mass of evidence said to be incriminating, and on the strength of which the grand jury returned a secret indictment against him on the 1st inst.

"I'll be out of here in about ten minutes," he told Lane when led to his cell.

Raids on half a dozen other places, known to be hangouts for wobblies, revealed that all had scurried away at the first signal of danger. The wobblies were not receiving visitors.

Both Federal and State authorities are working now on definite evidence that the recent fire which destroyed the steamship City of Honolulu was the result of a wobbly conspiracy. The Shipowners' Association and business men of San Pedro and Los Angeles are alarmed at the continued activities of the organization at the harbor and are determined to stamp it out. There are at least 250 known I.W.W. at the port now, the police say, several of them with police records. "We'll get them all or drive them out of town," declared Lane.

PRISONER SENT TO ARIZONA JOB

"I'm not guilty; I pleaded guilty because I thought my past prison record would prevent me from getting leniency," said Earl V. Allen, aged 26, yesterday, before Judge Willis, sitting in Judge Reeve's court.

Allen was accused of stealing a gold watch from James Beggs. He told the court he had served a sentence for petty larceny for the theft and was again arrested. He said he had been sent to San Quentin prison by Judge Willis for from one to fifty years for robbery and was recently released. He said the only person he knew in Los Angeles was Judge Willis.

The court sentenced him to the County Jail for six months, but released him on his own recognizance. The sentence is to be served if Allen comes back from Arizona, where he is going to work.

"Now you have a new chance away from the city," said the court.

Deny Affection Existed in Suit for Damages

Mr. and Mrs. M. Arnest did not alienate the affections of Nathan Hechtman from his wife Eva, they asserted yesterday in their answer to her $50,000 lost love suit, because at the time of the asserted alienation Mr. Hechtman had no love for his wife.

The Arnests also assert in their answer that they took the Hechtmans into their home at a time when the latter couple were out of funds and gave Hechtman a partnership in their millinery business. Shortly after the Hechtmans came to live with the Arnests, the answer states, Mrs. Hechtman showed signs of jealousy against her supposed benefactors.

Chamber Given Warm Greeting on Excursion

That the Tri-state excursion which left Los Angeles Monday night for a week's tour of Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico is meeting with warm greetings along the way, was the news contained in a telegram received by the Chamber yesterday from Secretary Frank Wiggins.

The territory being visited is entering upon an era of real prosperity and there has been evidence that the neighboring territory is looking toward Los Angeles as its best trading center. The party will return home next Monday night.

People and Their Troubles

Elizabeth Jordan's Column

DISCIPLINE FOR BETTY

Betty, aged "edsackly five," as she herself puts it, is what her mother calls "a handful." Not that Betty is bad. She is so good at times that the members of her family grow anxious. But she is the most cheerful and irrepressible of small human beings, and rebukes and admonitions seem to slide off her consciousness like the proverbial water off a duck's back.

Betty's mother, Mrs. X., has often wondered drearily whether the child's mind ever registered any of the various precepts and corrections she received. The other day she discovered that it did. As to the ultimate effect of the corrections and admonitions she is not yet very sanguine. This is what happened.

BETTY GOES TO MARKET

Betty drove downtown with her mother in the automobile to do some marketing. Among other places they visited a fruit store, where Betty was fascinated by the display of oranges, peaches, pineapples and melons. She was especially interested in a large "honey dew" melon; her mother was examining, and she reached up her tiny hands and rolled it around the counter. Mrs. X. promptly checked this diversion.

"Betty," she said firmly, "take your hands away from the counter and keep them away. Don't touch that melon. Don't touch anthing."

She turned her back to look at some more fruit. Betty stood off and studied the melon. It was a beautiful melon and it rolled so nicely. The least touch made it roll. One could almost make it roll with a single finger! Betty tentatively poked the melon. Then she pushed it. The melon rolled to the edge of the counter, dropped to the floor, and burst. Mrs. X. turned hastily and saw the disaster.

"Betty," she cried in horror, "didn't I tell you not to touch that melon?"

Betty raised her stricken gaze from the remains of the melon to her mother's face.

"Yes," she said, "you told me not to tuch the melon. You told me not to touch anything at all. You told me to take my hands down from the counter. And I was a bad, wicked little girl, not to mind you. And I'm sure I don't know what you're going to do with me!"

Mrs. X. tried to get in a word at this point but Betty drew a deep breath and hurried on.

"I'm 5 years old," she said earnestly, "and that's old enough to mind when I'm spoken to. Every single time you speak to me I ought to mind. When I'm doing anything naughty I ought to stop doing it just as soon as you speak to me because I'm not a little baby any more. I'm a great big girl and it's just terrible for me not to do what I'm told. And I don't know what's going to become of me."

Mrs. X. leaned weakly against a barrel. The proprietor of the fruit store came out from behind the counter to give closer attention to the monologue. Several shoppers also drew near. Betty was unconscious of the audience. With big, round eyes fixed on her mother's face the orator continued her self-arraignement.

"I don't know what you can do with me," she hurried on. "Sometimes I'm most 'scouraged. It's time I was taken in hand. What I need is dis'carplin an' punishment. The nex' time I want to do anything I guess I mus'n't do it. I must be punished because I didn't mind. I guess the best way to punish me is not to let me do anything at all. I guess that will teach me to be a good little girl an' mind my dear mother when she tells me not to touch melons. I guess I better be punished right away without waiting. I guess—"

THE BABBLING BROOK

"Betty," urged Mrs. X., wearily, "would you mind letting me get in a word now? There are a few things you haven't said yet—"

But Betty proceeded to say them—running on without a pause, as if she were a little phonograph on which a talking record had been put.

"I guess the way to punish me is not to let me go to Kitty's party tomorrow. I guess that would make me feel pretty bad. Little girls that don't mind their mothers ought'n't to go to parties, I guess—"

But at this point Mrs. X. took her inspired off-spring by the hand and firmly led her out of the pleased circle of which she was the center. As the two walked toward the waiting automobile at the curb Betty's words still floated back to the amused group in the fruit store.

"I guess the nex' time you come shopping you mus'n't take me along," she was earnestly advising her mother. "I guess you'll just have to leave me at home in the naughty chair!"

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Waste Even Break

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Just another kick. I took my wife last Tuesday to hear the Phillips murder trial. When we arrived at the courtroom, a broad-shouldered, dark-complexioned sheriff or bailiff, who answered to the title of "Kid," shoved us all into a double line in back of a railing.

There we stood from 8 in the morning until after 4 in the afternoon, while many people with passes were admitted into the courtroom. While we were in line I saw a man I know is a politician or some kind of an officer in the Sheriff's office come up with a lady and hand the "Kid" a ticket and he immediately took the lady in and secured her a seat.

The next day I went to the Sheriff's office and asked for tickets for my wife and myself. I was told that they were all gone and again we stood in line, still watching the elite going in and out, while we were forced to stay outside—the railing.

Exactly what I am aiming at is this: I am a taxpayer in both the city and county and always labored under the impression that the courts were for the public, until this week, and now I am wondering as to who really runs them, the people or the politicians.

The "Kid" kindly volunteered the info that there was a nasty murder trial going on in an adjoining court, into which we went with others to merely find a colored man being tried for some kind of a robbery.

Results of Insanity

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As that office is the seat of all wisdom, as ancient Athens was that of Greece, I refer a question to you for solution.

I was walking along Spring street, keeping to the right, which few pedestrians do, when I heard a pistol shot, and saw a man fall in front of a powdered dame. While she held the smoking weapon in one hand, she opened her vanity box, surveyed her face, and powdered her snub nose, which somewhat resembled a frog. A policeman was standing at the corner, looking at the world go by and pedestrians dodging the auto-crazy fiends. The officer walked up, tipped his hat, and asked: "Lady, did you kill that man (for the man was dead.)

"Yes, I did! What's the idea?"

"Don't you know you did wrong?" meekly replied the officer.

"No, I don't! I was crazy!" snapped the shootist.

"You don't look like you were!" replied the policeman.

"Of course, not! I was crazy then, but am not now!"

"How do you know that you were crazy then, and not now?"

"None of your business!" screamed the Amazon. "That man insulted me!"

"If you were crazy, how was it that you did not shoot some one else, instead of this man?"

"I don't wish to be annoyed! Leave me, or I'll tell my lawyer to have you fired from the police force."

The officer apologized to the "lady killer" and resumed his place on the corner. The lady walked away amid the plaudits of the mob.

The question is: Did the officer do right? Or should he have detained the lady for professional expert witnesses to determine the exact moment when a person becomes insane, and when sanity is recovered. Also, whether a person is competent to judge of his own sanity or insanity? And when, and why?

J. M. SCANLAND.

Stop Congestion

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The new law referred to in your paper for the further protection of pedestrians is too arbitrary. Why don't the authorities go to the root of the matter at once and penalize the reckless automobilists, the creators of the trouble?

First of all, reduce the speed limit in the city to ten miles per hour, or at least in certain districts, and abolish downtown parking on all congested car-line streets, leaving them free for all vehicular and street-car traffic and keep all traffic moving. Compel all shopping autoists to use the auto parks provided for them, or to seek some quiet adjoining street to park their cars. Most families now possess a car and the ladies having nothing better to do drive downtown just for the satisfaction of seeing and being seen, parking their cars wherever they chance to be, while visiting stores and promenading on the sidewalks, to the detriment of the regular traffic.

There is another class of obstructionists, who, having no home accommodations for storing their cars, keep them in the public streets, both day and night, even without any lights, causing much discomfort and annoyance to private citizens by parking their second-hand, war-scarred lizzies in front of their doors, disturbing their nightly repose eby their untimely noises. There is far too much latitude given to automobilists. Any Dick, Tom, Harry or Mary Jane can, by putting down a few dollars, acquire a second-hand car on the installment plan, pose as a driver, without any credentials whatsoever, and when they know how to step on the gas can join the downtown crowd of obstructors perambubting the city until they either kill somebody or are themselves incapacitated by some unforeseen accident.

Prohibition and the Bible

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In reading J. D. Baker's letter of November 2 I couldn't help but wonder what spirit prompted him to so boldly proclaim himself a judge as to the author of prohibition, viz: God or the devil. He cites First Cor., XIV:27: "If any man speak—let one interpret." Mr. Baker's letter needs an interpreter. When did Christ command anyone to drink a little wine? Paul, writing a personal letter to Timothy, tells him to "drink a little wine, for thine often infirmities." First Tim. V:23.

This was written in the first century, and is not a commandment. As to personal liberty First Cor. VIII:9: "But take heed lest by any means this liberty of yours becomes a stumbling block to them that are weak." Paul's first thought was always of his weaker brother, not his own personal liberty. Verse thirteenth: "Wherefore, if meat (or drink) make my brother to offend, I will not eat (or drink) while the world standeth lest I make my brother to offend"—or offend my brother Volstead.

As law-abiding citizens of these glorious United States, it is our privilege to obey the Constitution with its amendments written by the "rulers" of our country. Paul says, Romans XIII-1-5: "Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God, the powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever, therefore, sisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation—love one another—for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law." And we surely love Volstead and all the Senators, don't we? Let us love our God, our Constitution, our Senators and so become loyal Americans.

CHAS. J. FAHLBERG.

HER AFTERTHOUGHT

A St. Louis girl who went to Meramac highlands for a swim was seen to stand on the end of the diving board and assume the correct position for a dive when she noticed that she had forgotten to remove her wrist watch. She stepped back, took off the timepiece, placed it in the pocket of her bathing suit and plunged into the water.—[Exchange.

Question: Over which highways is the automobile tourist travel heaviest? J. E. C.

Answer: The American Automobile Association says that tourist travel is heaviest over the central routes across the country, namely the Lincoln Highway, the National Old Trails Road and the Yellowstone Trail. In the winter the heaviest travel is over the Atlantic Highway, south of Florida.

Q.: Does the number of a snake's rattles indicate its age?

A.: Theoretically they do, since a rattle is added with each molting. Wear and accident break the set so often that the number is not a true indication of age.

A.: Are walruses covered with hair? E. H. J.

A.: Young ones are thickly clothed with a faded brown fur, but as age advances the hair falls out and the old animals are almost hairless.

Q.: What is the derivation of the word wapentake? P. A.

A.: The word is from the Scandinavian and means literally a touching or taking of weapons. The name had its origin in the custom of touching lances or spears when the hundreder or chief entered on his office. In some parts of England the term is used to indicate a division corresponding to the hundred and ward of other parts.

Q.: How many negroes are there in the State of Vermont? M. C.

A.: According to hte 1920 census there are 572 negroes in the State. There are 24 Indians, 11 Chinese and 4 Japanese. The total population of Vermont is 352,428.

Q.: What space should be allowed between beds in a tuberculosis ward? M. T. L.

A.: The United States Public Health Service says that the common practice of the past has been to allow 100 square feet of floor space between beds in the tuberculosis ward.

A.: According to the 1920 census reas says that it has been their practice to allow from 80 to 100 square feet, depending on the size of the ward.

Q.: How can flues be cleaned with zinc? J. C. W.

A.: To clean chimney flues simply put a handful of scrap zinc on the fire. This can be done at any season and is an old and safe soot destroyer.

U.S.C. OR WASHINGTON TO MEET PENN STATE AT PASADENA NEW YEAR'S

TROJANS MAY TACKLE BEZDEK'S CREW IF THEY BEAT STANFORD

Washington's Performance Against California and U.S.C.-Card Gridiron Struggles Will Serve to Pick the West's Representative

Penn State will meet either the University of Southern California or the University of Washington at Pasadena on New Year's Day. The University of California, twice defender of the honor of the Pacific Coast, has, by the action of the Associated Students in caucus, definitely refused to meet Penn State and act as the representative of the West. Tomorrow's game between U.S.C. and Stanford at Palo Alto and California and Washington at Seattle will probably settle the representative of the West. If California beats Washington worse than 12 to 0, U.S.C. will probably be the representative of the West, unless the Trojans should be humbled by Stanford. If, on the other hand, Washington makes an unusually good showing against California and then is beaten by Stanford a week later, U.S.C. is almost certain to get the call.

SUN SHINES AT STANFORD

Rain Stops at Palo Alto; Rae Doughty, Card Half, Discolates Shoulder in Practice

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—The rain stopped, and the heavens smiled on Coach Kerr and his Stanford football warriors as they worked out on the secret practice turf at Palo Alto today. But the change came twenty-four hours too late to prevent serious injury to Rae Doughty, right halfback for the Cardinals, who has started every game for Stanford this season.

Doughty slipped on the wet turf last night just as DeGroot was about to nail him, and in the resulting collision Rae was sent to earth with a dislocated shoulder. He is now in the Peninsular Hospital, and reports have it he will be out of the game for ten days, possibly for the season. Certainly for the U.S.C. fraess Saturday.

Kerr this afternoon tried out Paul Murray, Scotchy Campbell, and Guy Dennis in the berth left vacant. Murray came up from last year's seconds, but has suffered hard luck for the present season. He has an akle which has been injured over and over, and Trainer Denny has not been able to patch it up. Guy Dennis tore terrible holes in the Sagebrush defense for a time last Saturday, but he is hardly in condition for a whole game. Scotchy Campbell could play all afternoon, but he lacks experience. Scotchy was used at quarter early this season, but since the improvement shown by Bud Woodward, has been shifted to half. Likely Campbell will start the battle against U. S.C.

TURF IN GOOD SHAPE

Granted the rain has stopped for the week, the turf will be in the best possible condition for the Trojans. Rapid acting drain facilities are provided in the Stanford stadium, and the playing field will be smooth and solid.

Stanford is gathering confidence as the battle approaches. Even though on records U.S.C. is truely superior by several touchdowns, the Cardinals all have it figured now that this is time for Coach Kerr to break through into the real circle of Coast football teams. He will be handicapped by the loss of Doughty, but the spirit of the squad is not in the least weakened.

Kerr stated today that he expects to start the following men: Mertz, left end; Shipke, left tackle; Cravens, left guard; De Groot, center; Faville, right guard; Johnston, right tackle; Lawson, right end; Woodward, quarterback; Wilcox, left halfback; Campbell, right halfback; Cuddeback, fullback. Possible exceptions are Dennis for Campbell, Houck for Cravens.

Capt. DeGroot went to the hospital last night with bad throat trouble. He will be back on the field tomorrow night. Capt. Solomon of the Stanford freshmen is also in the hospital with a similar ailment. The freshmen have their important schedule-end game with the California frosh Saturday, and unless the Stanford frosh skipper gets back into the game things may go badly for Coach Hunt.

Everywhere about the bay it is regretted that the schedule makers have separated the Stanford-California freshman game and the U.S.C.-Stanford varsity battle, for, of course, it is impossible for fans to see both contests with the former being played at Berkeley. As it is, the Cardinal-Trojan fracas is holding the center of interest. Indications are that an immense crowd will journey to Palo Alto to greet Gus Henderson's players in their first appearance in Northern California this season.

Information on Roads to Stanford Game

As many autoists in Southern California are going to make the trip to Palo Alto to see the Stanford-U.S.C. game there tomorrow, the following information on the condition of the roads to the north, which has been furnished by the Automobile Club of Southern California, will come in quite handy.

The pavement is unbroken and in fine shape via the Ventura coast road, through Hollywood, Calabasas and Ventura to Santa Barbara, but north of there there is a good deal of construction work being done. From Gaviota Station to one-half mile of the foot of the north side of the Cuesta grade the highway is unbroken. Here there is still a small stretch of pavement to be opened, which necessitates a detour.

Due to the heavy rainfall on the detour between Soledad and Salinas, motorists are advised to swing west out of Salinas to Moss Landing, where the pavement is left and an excellent gravel road leads almost to Watsonville. There is no more difficult road from Watsonville to Palo Alto.

WILDCATS AND TNT ELEVENS TO CLASH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MONROVIA, Nov. 9.—Rain or shine, Monrovia Wildcats tomorrow meet their ancient enemy, the Glendale Dynamiters, on Monrovia Field. The game was originally set for Armistice Day, but had to be switched at the last moment. Local fans believe the battle will be one of the best of the prep school year, for though Glendale has piled up no decisive scores during the season, she has fought some good fights and is coming over to Monrovia tomorrow set for a victory that the Wildcats are determined she will not have.

Citrus played Glendale to a standstill in a 0-to-0 tie, while Monrovia won from Citrus by a score of 12 to 6. So as far as the dope goes the Wildcats have the best of it.

GREB WILL BOX IN PORTLAND SHORTLY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND, Nov. 9.—Transportation has been furnished Harry Greb of Pittsburg, light-heavyweight champion boxer of the world, to appear in Portland the latter part of November to meet an opponent to be selected by the Milwaukee Boxing Commision. Greb will probably appear in other Coast cities while in the West.

Not a Rabbit but a "Bunny"

One Reason for Mechanic Successes

"Bunny" Maurice, speedy Poly halfback, is shown running back a punt, a job at which he is without a peer in the city grid circles. "Bunny," who is a brother of Cliff, former Mechanic captain, has built up a record that far exceeds his brother's and this is only his first grid year. Maurice's favorite sport is to bust off-tackle for five and six yards at atime.

OLYMPIC CLUB FAVORITE OVER MULTNOMAH

Everything is set for the second great football classic to come to Southern California this season. The first was the California-U.S.C. game staged in Pasadena's new stadium and the second is the Armistice Day contest to be held in the same place tomorrow afternoon between the club champions of the West, Olympic and Multnomah.

Olympic enters the fray slightly favored. Bob Evans has built up the greatest eleven in the history of the club. He has aline that even mighty California could not gain against, and which utterly crumbled the Stanford eleven. And behind that line Evans possesses three backfield stars who have no superiors on the Pacific Coast. Rabbit Bradshaw plays quarterback for the "Winged O" aggregation and he is sure to break away for at least one hair-raising run on the morrow. And he has Jack Patrick to back him up. And the third member of the famous trio is none other than Clyde King, the drop-kick ace.

Multnomah is counted on to win tomorrow by some, through the fact that she has some great stars. But even Bill Steers, Everett Brandenburg and Mike Moran can hardly top these Olympic champions. Steers is a great kicker and it is this factor which Multnomah expects to decide the game in her favor tomorrow.

Tickets will be on sale at booths just outside of the stadium and the Brookside and Lincoln-avenue entrance ways in order to keep down the traffic congestion. The Pasadena civic officials say that roads and parking space have been provided since the California-U.S.C. game.

GAMES TODAY

Poly and Franklin at Patterson Field.
Jefferson at Manual Arts.
Lincoln at Hollywood.
Pasadena, L. A. High and Long Beach, byes.

Champions, or not champions? That is the question, as far as Franklin is concerned will be decided today at Patterson Field. Coach Voyle Brennen's fightin' Mechanics and Francis Daugherty's title-aspiring Kiteflyers are sheduled to meet in the feature game of the fifth and next to last round of City League football. Two other games round out the prep grid card. Jefferson faces Manual Arts on Wilson Field in a grudge battle and Lincoln and Hollywood will put on the lowest kind of a battle, a fight for cellar honors.

Franklin the only eleven in the City League that has not been defeated, goes into today's contestedetermined to win, and thus get a firmer grip on the City title. The Kiteflyers will depend upon the husky booting of Bob Lee and the speed of Mike Godett and Bud Teachout at the end positions. This does not mean that Franklin squad is "made" up of three stars, because on the contrary, it works like a well-oiled machine. Coaches Daugherty and Toney have assigned each one of their men a task to do, and each one does what he is told. That is the reason for the Kiteflyers success to date.

HEAVY AGGREGATION

On the other hand, the Mechanics loom up a heavy powerful aggregation. One that is to be feared by all. Brennen's eleven has potential abilities and once it gets started, it is next to impossible to stop it. Poly have five stellar

WHAT HO---YE AUTO DISPLAY!

Big Exhibition is Ready for Opening Tomorrow

Splendid Array of Machines to Greet Visitors

Doors Will Be Thrown Open About 2 o'Clock

A final rush of work on the part of everybody concerned with the decorations of the big tents out at Prager Park will make them ready by tonight to house the most splendid array of automobiles ever exhibited in this or any other Coast city.

The final touches to the decorations will be completed today, according to an announcement made yesterday by Manager Burt Roberts and then the motor cars themselves, the exhibits from the eastern factories, will be run into the show and arranged in their respective places.

By tomorrow noon, everything will be in readiness for the formal opening of the show tomorrow night and it is planned to throw the doors of the tents open at 2 p.m. tomorrow in order to permit those persons who wish to to avoid the rush of the evening crowd, an early opportunity to look p.m. tomorrow afternoon in order over the latest offerings of the automobile industry.

This is the tenth annual automobile show staged in Los Angeles and in the opinion of automobile men, it will be by far the most elaborate display and the most complete showing of models held in a western city.

Some sixty odd makes of cars in some seventy odd motor types will be on display and over three hundred different models will be shown. The floor space of the big tents is over 135,000 square feet, every foot of which will be devoted to the passenger car, truck and accessory exhibits. This is about a third greater footage than was ever before devoted to showspace here and gives some idea of the magnitude of this year's display.

KRAMER MEETS WALTERS AGAIN

Sailors Rematched for Main Event Tonight

Stahl and Ashmore to Clash at Hollywood

Pete Herman Hooked Up With Veteran Boxer

Just to show the fight public that the good cards lined up at the American Legion Hollywood arena recently were not flukes, Matchmaker Frank Crowley has signed up an array of scraps that fairly bristle with action. Sailor Kramer and Sailor Walters, two of the hardest-hitting, two-fisted fighters in these parts, have been lined up for the main event tonight. The battle between these two gobs should be a slam-bang affair from start to finish as the pair of them like nothing better than to mix it. In fact that's all they like nothin' else but.

Tonight's main event is a return match, as last Friday, the two battling featherweights put up one of the most sensational draws ever seen in local rings for a long time. Kramer dropped Walters in the first round but Walters came back and slugged his way to a draw before the astonished Kramer and spectators.

Jake Stahl, the San Diego 138-pounder who has a "rep" that is hard to beat, has been lined up with Sailor Ashmore, that hard-fisted young man, for the semi-wind-up. On paper this appears to be a real scrap between regular battlers.

Pete Herman, the 122-pounder who has come to the fore so speedily, will mingle with the veteran Kid Mende in the special event, and should make it a battle from gong to gong.

Jimmy Barkley and Joe Murphy, flatic performers of the "knock 'em dead" type, are down for an important spot on the card. Sailor Willie Williams returns after a long absence to take up his duties against Jonny Lee. Kenneth Clark has drawn Sailor Mayer. Jonny La Rose and Billy Murray clash in the curtain raiser. George Blake referees.

BECKETT-SIKI BATTLE IS OFF

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The Home Office today intimated to the promoters of the Battling Siki-Joe Beckett fight, scheduled for December 7, that the contest would not be allowed to take place. The articles of agreement between Siki and Beckett call for a twenty-round contest for the heavyweight championship of Europe to be staged in the Olympia.

The authorities state that the bout will not be allowed in any place in the United Kingdom, holding the view that "in contests between men of color and white men the temperaments of the contestants are not comparable and moreover all sorts of passions are aroused."

The Home Office takes the further view that there is such a large number of colored men in the British Empire that "such contests are considered against the national interest."

MAY LIFT BARS ON MINOR LEAGUERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Legislation affecting ineligible players and teams harboring them may be put through before the start of the next baseball season. There is said to be a move on foot to lift the bars for all the minor leaguers ment in favor of a rule prohibitleague circles there is some sentiment in favor of a rule prohibiting major teams from playing exhibitions with so-called independent teams because they harbor outlaws. The sentiment prompting the plan to permit ineligibles to return is due mainly to the fact that certain minor league owners are the losers because the independent clubs who sign these players draw fans who might otherwise confine themselves to organized baseball attractions.

backfield men in Twitchell, Stahl, Maurice, Barlet and Aides and Brennen is never certain which quartet to start. The Mechanic line is the heaviest in the city and has not been outplayed to date. Natcher at center, Cox and Soules at guard and Vosberg and Redington at tackle form a powerful, imposing forward wall one that averages near 185 pounds. Burman and Foster, the Mechanic ends, will be able to take care of themselves and Twitchell, who has not been outpunted to date, should be able to go even stephen with Lee in the booting game. Advance dope predicts this game to be a world-beater.

GRUDGE BATTLE

When the Toilers meet Jefferson today they will go into the battle determined to wipe out the stain of defeat that Democrats smeared on Manual's grid name last year. Sid Foster's crew has perked up considerably since the L. A. game and is out for blood today. However, Coach Costello has built up a strong eleven that should be able to give a good account of itself today. It is rumored that Manuel Lareneta, hailed as the best back in Southern California, is out with a sprained ankle. If so, Jeff's chances of winning are slim, but somehow the story of Lareneta's injury sounds kind of fishy.

The Lincoln-Hollywood battle should be a good one, even though Tommy Davis's lads are the favorites. Both schools are deadly rivals and the teams will fight above their heads. The cellar awaits the squad that loses.

L. A. High, Long Beach and Pasadena draw byes today but the Pasadena squad will tackle Santa Ana tomorrow on the Bearcat's grid.

LOOKING BACK

Some Interesting Features Gleaned from the 1922 Pacific Coast League

Portland made twenty-two hits and Sacramento seventeen in the game of May 31. Portland won, 12 to 7. Leverens pitched the entire game, notwithstanding the fact that Sacramento players made one or more hits every inning.

The Angels scored fifteen runs on fifteen hits in the game with Vernon, June 2.

Pitcher See of the Seals had four hits in five times at bat in morning game with Oakland June 4. The Seals had sixteen hits that game and came back in the p.m. contest with fifteen more.

The Vernon Tigers used thirteen players in defeating Oakland 6 to 5 on June 9. The game went ten innings.

Every Sacramento player had one or more hits in game played against Salt Lake June 8. The Sacs duplicated this stunt the following day. The team made sixteen hits each game.

BAY LEAGUE IN THREE GRID BATTLES TODAY

Three fast games are on tap for the fans of the Bay League football conference, today. The best of those will probably be the battle between Gardena and Compton, as it will decide whether or not Venice is to take the lead or whether Gardena will hold her tie with the Gondoliers. The game is to be played at Compton and a large crowd of rooters from Venice, which has a bye this week, is expected to make the game a big affair.

San Pedro and Inglewood will play at Inglewood for the cellar championship. At present San Pedro is leading, due largely to the fact that the Harbor team has played only three games. Another fast game will be the Santa Monica and Huntington Park battle, which is scheduled to be played at the Park school. Both of these teams are fast and exceptionally heavy, and a terrible slaughter is expected.

Following are the standings of the teams:

BAY LEAGUE

	W.	L.	P.r.
Venice	3	1	.750
Gardena	3	1	.750
Santa Monica	3	1	.667
Compton	3	1	.667
Huntington Park	2	2	.500
San Pedro	1	3	.333
Inglewood	1	4	.200

FOR NORTHERN CHAMPIONSHIP

Oregon and Washington to Fight for Laurels

Crucial Clash is Scheduled for Thanksgiving

Coast Honors Are Conceded to California

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Nov. 9.—It looks as though Oregon and Washington in their Thanksgiving game at Seattle will fight it out for the championship of the Pacific Northwest. As to the Coast championship, it is pretty generally admitted that neither one would have a chance against California. Washington will have an opportunity to find out for sure about that next Saturday, when she meets the Bears at Seattle, but Oregon and California have no game scheduled.

Those who have been watching the Washington team develop do not believe that the Bears will have the walkaway that they had with Washington State. Nevertheless a California victory is practically conceded. That 61 score against the Cougars chilled all hope of victory at Seattle. But Coach Bagshaw has been working with less experienced men than was Welsh, and it is only natural that they should show greater development as the season progresses. Furthermore, the Vikings will be on their own field, and with a large and sympathetic crowd to cheer them. More than 16,000 tickets had been sold a week in advance of the game, so the stadium probably will be crowded.

ON IMPROVE

Many believe that Oregon will complete the season with the best record in the Northwest. The team is known as a late season winner, and it has been steadily improving. All that it needs now is a real punch on offense, and it ought to have that, for the backfield is fast and experienced. Oregon is not expecting serious trouble with Washington State next Saturday. Welsh's men should have their morale pretty well shattered by that terrible trouncing at Berkeley, whereas Oregon's games so far have given it confidence, but not too much confidnce.

Oregon has been casting about for a suitable name to give her athletic team. The Bears, the Trojans, the Cougars, the Vandals and the Sundodgers, Vikings or Huskies, as Bagshaw's teams have variously been called, are all well known, but the Oregonians have no nickname. The Pioneers and the Berkserks have been suggested, but not adopted. Some prefer to continue to call them Oregon or the Oregonians and let it go at that. The Oregon Aggies is the only other team on the Coast without a pseudonym. Last year they called themselves the Fighting Aggies, but this year they are content to be known as the Oregon Aggies. At that they are showing more fight this year than they did last.

ONE MORE CHANCE

The University of Idaho has just one more chance to escape the cellar championship on its first year in the conference. That chance lies in defeating the Trojans on November 18, so it is pretty likely the Vandals will stay right where they are, at the bottom of the ladder. Idaho has been losing by hairbreadth scores from much heavier elevens. Idaho will play Utah at Boise next Saturday and the contest appears to be about even up. Last year Utah won 17 to 7.

The Idaho team will not return to Moscow after the Utah contest. Instead it will head for Pasadena and the Trojans. The next week it will be back at Spokane, meeting Gonzaga and will close its season on Thanksgiving against Montana at Missoula. After that, if it doesn't sign up for a Cook's tour or a North Pole dash, it will probably return to its class work at Moscow. With eight hard games this year just one was played on the home field.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND

Multnomah Club followers here cannot understand the two-to-one odds that are reported as being offered on the Olympic team against Multonomah by California bettors It is realized that the Olympics have strengthened since last year, but Multnomah has practically the same team that easily defeated the San Francisco clubmen then. The report here is that San Francisco sportsmen have raised a $40,000 purse to go at double odds on the Olympics. At those odds it will be quickly covered if the Portland bettors can connect up with it. If Multnomah plays at full strength they cannot see but that the Portlanders have at least an even chance. The one thing that has jarred their confidence was Multnomah's low score against the Oregon Aggies.

Chance to Head Burbank School for Baseball

Frank Chance, one-time peerless leader of the Chicago Cubs, has accepted the position of president of the National College of Baseball at Burbank. Obtaining the services of Chance is regarded as the master move of the undertaking, as he is known nationally.

Jess W. Orndorff, former Los Angeles catcher, and a motion-picture producer, has been elected vice-president. R. W. Colburn, a business man of Burbank, is secretary and treasurer, while Frank Dillon, who won a flock of pennants for Los Angeles, has been appointed superintendent of instruction.

It also was stated that the High school at Burbank will institute a night course for the benefit of those attending the baseball college, and in that way enabling them to keep up in their regular studies. Forty-two applications from prospective students have been received from various States to date.

Trojan Squad to Arrive in North Today

When the special car, in which the Trojan team started for San Francisco arrives in the northern city this morning, twenty-six players and their staff of high-powered assistants, trainers and helpers, will take up their quarters at the Fairmont Hotel, in the Bay City, instead of going to Palo Alto. According to the latest dope, which has been handed out by Henderson, no trip will be made to Stanford's campus until a few minutes before the game.

The following is a list of the men who went north with the delegation of "receptionery" last night: Hyden Phythian, Winchel Boice, John Milton, Dick Emmons, John Glenn, Norman Anderson, Chief Newman, Horace Blair, Leo Calland, Ralph Cummings, John Hawkins, George Freeman, Busty DuPuy, Jim Purcell, Lowell Lindley, Holly Adams, Chet Dolley, Harold Galloway, Gordon Campbell, Otto Anderson, Hobo Kincaid, Roy Baker, John Riddle, Phil Tiernan, Eddie Leahy, Tony Wayhan, Coach Henderson and wife, and assistant coaches Hess, Hunter, and Herd, and trainers Dean Cromwell, Doc Weston, Cap Rogers, Gerphide and Hall.

Essick Signs Contract to Lead Bengals

No easy sailing for seven other Coast League managers during the next three seasons.

For the very ample reason that Bill Essick, Vernon manager, has affixed his signature to a three-year contract offered him by President Ed R. Maier of the Tigers.

Since Miller Huggins was resigned to manage the Yankees, there has been no doubt that Essick would continue to pilot the Vernon club. President Maier is well satisfied with his work and rewarded him with a substantial rise in salary.

Essick has handled the Vernon club for five seasons. He won flags his first three years, and finished a close second last season. Just why no major league club has gone after him has been a puzzle to many fans.

MILTON AS GOOD AS EVER, IS LAST REPORT

Tommy Milton, speed king of 1921, whom it was feared had lost his eye due to an accident in a recent race, is in Los Angeles. Yesterday he went out to the plant of Harry Miller to inspect some of the new racing creations that are being assembled in that shop. Milton was wearing dark glasses, but it was evident that the accident was not as serious as at first thought.

TOURNEY AT ANGELES IS INTERESTING

Large Number of Players Requires Five Flights; Rain Improves Course

Play has been continuing all this week in the first round of the first annual Fall Handicap golf tournament, which is being staged over the course of the Angeles Vista Golf Club. Despite the rain, which kept the majority of players from local courses, a goodly number of "bugs" have braved the elements to keep from being eliminated from one of the most interesting tourneys which has been held in the city for a number of years.

The first play in the tournament was scheduled to be held last Saturday, when the qualifying round was played at scratch. However, so many entries were received that it was found necessary to continue the initial play until Sunday night. More than 350 persons played over the course last Sunday, and despite the fact that the official play was going on, all of the entrants declared that there was no trouble encountered as a result of too much crowding.

According to the managers of the course, which has been opened to the public, the recent rains have helped the condition of the course greatly. The earth has become packed, and the grass has grown to just the right length. The larger part of the course has been rolled since the first rainfall, and it is doubtful that there is a better place to be found in the Southland, for winter playing.

Teams All Set for Big Tilt on Tomorrow

Joe Pirrone's All-Stars are all set for their games with Doc Anderson's Colored All-Stars at the White Sox Park tomorrow and Sunday. Both teams maintain they will cop easily and show the local fans some real baseball.

A percentage arrangement, by which the winning team gets the biggest cut will be tried out this year, so all of the players will be on their toes and fighting for victory all the time. The colored team is the strongest that has appeared in Los Angeles, and contains on its roster some of the greatest colored baseball stars in the world. Mendez, the Cuban shortstop, has been hailed by many major leaguers as absolutely without an equal.

Pirrone's team will boast of a fine battery collection with Pete Lapan and Everet Gomes as catchers, and Red Oldham, Nick Dumovich and Tony Faeth as pitchers.

VERNON SPECIAL LICKS KINDLING SPLITTERS

The lightweights of the Vernon Special Junior High School defeated the Lincoln High School babes yesterday afternoon on Snyder Field, 13 to 6, after a tough fight.

Jim Harrison Vernon fullback, and Tommy Young, quarterback for the winners, were the stars of the game. Harrison made both of the scores for Vernon, one by a wide end run, and the second by a forward pass. Smith, right half for the Kindling Splitters took the ball for forty yards after intercepting a pass, for the lone tally of his team.

BIG TOURNEY NEXT WEEK AT HOLLYWOOD

In order to make golf more of an all-year sport, the Hollywood Country Club is staging a huge invitational handicap tourney over its course, from November 13 to 18. The qualifying round of play will be held next Monday, it was announced yesterday.

Play will continue all next week, and the final round will be played Saturday after which a social affair will be given by the club for the players. A number of trophies have been offered and more than 100 entries are expected.

SOULE AFTER DERBY ENTRY

California Horseman's Eyes on Tijuana Classic

Big Fixture Up for Solution Early Next Year

Racing Fans Await Opening November 30

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—Unless Edward G. Soule succeeds in getting a high-class 2-year-old or so between this and the finish of the Pimlico meeting in mid-November, Slieveconard and Polythia will be the only horses of class he will have for winter racing at Tijuana. Mr. Soule, a Californian, has not missed a winter meeting at Tijuana since James W. Coffroth established racing on a first-class scale at the Lower California course, which is only a few minutes' ride by trolley from San Diego, Cal. Paddy Whack, Regal Lodge, Edwina and Polythia have borne his silks there in other seasons.

Mr. Soule is looking for a first-rate 2-year-old or so in order that he may have representation in the renewal next March of the Tijuana Derby. The Tijuana Derby coming will be a gallop of one mile and a furlong, with an added money value of $6000. It will attract a better class of horses than will have taken part in any earlier renewal. Several of the fastest distance runners of mature years in training now in Kentucky and Maryland are going to the Pacific Coast to prepare for the Coffroth handicap, a gallop of one mile and quarter, for 3-year-olds and over, that will have an added money value of $30,000. A flock of smart coming 2-year-olds will go with these veterans.

DISCOVERS JOCKEY

A year ago last winter Mr. Soule discovered Jockey Marinelli at Tijuana and brought that young man East to make something of a reputation on the courses of New York and Maryland. Soule will look over such budding talent from the Western Canadian and sagebrush courses as shows in the course of the 100 days or more of racing James W. Coffroth will inaugurate Thanksgiving, with a view of bringing another Marinelli this way for service next year. Soule is one of the keenest and most successful handicappers and professional speculators following racing as a calling. He has a shrewd eye for potential riding skill.

While the thoroughbreds were racing at Aqueduct in July, Mr. Soule bought Slieveconard from John Sanford of Amsterdam, in the hope that that New York-bred son of The Curragh and Danoscara might make a Coffroth handicap horse. In a way he has been disappointed in Slieveconard. The son of The Curragh, it has developed, was not intended by nature for distance running.

HAS NOT BEEN LOSS

But Slieveconard has not been a loss. He is a capital manager of weight, with a quick turn of speed, and a natural mudder. He beats the cleverest second-raters of the East at six furlongs, seven furlongs and one mile. Soule has won him out many times over. The competition in handicaps at Tijuana will not be as keen as it has been in races of that sort on the New York courses through the summer and autumn. It is probable, therefore, that Slieveconard will win at all distances up to one mile and a furlong. He may develop into a genuine route traveler. He is stoutly bred.

Polythia, a daughter of the sprinter Polymelian, bred in Wyoming by William R. Coe, proprietor of the Shoshone ranch, which once was owned by the late Buffalo Bill, bids fair to make a useful distance runner at Tijuana. Polythia has developed appreciably in physique since Mr. Soule brought her East last spring.

Veteran jockeys who have signified to Mr. Coffroth their intention of riding at Tijuana through the winter are Jimmie Butwell, Clarence Turner, W. W. Taylor, C. Taylor, H. Howard, Lawrence Lyke, Buddy Ensor, E. Smallwood, Andrew Schuttinger, Clifford Robinson and Albert Johnson. Most of these boys will ride altogether as free lances, but some of them will have stable connections.

TIRE SQUAD GETS STIFF WORKOUTS

Samson Soccer Eleven Getting in Grand Shape for Tilt With United

Anticipating a hard-fought game with the Long Beach United at Washington Park Sunday afternoon, the Samson Tire eleven has had several stiff workouts during the week. Oscar Kozma, Samson pilot, is anxious that his charges should remain at the head of the league and is taking no chances.

"The never-say-die spirit and its concomitant aggressiveness make the beachmen rangerous rivals," says Kozma, "and while we expect the stiffest kind of opposition, our superior science and better cohesion should bring us out on top. The open game of the visitors will prove no puzzle to us. Our backs are speedy enough to handle the long swinging passes on which the beach forwards rely to a large extent."

FANS TO CHEER

It is stated that the beachmen will have a large contingent on hand to cheer their hopes on to victory, and in this they will have the moral support of the other teams in the league, who are anxious to see the winning streak broken. The fireworks will start at 3 bells and will be in charge of John Ritchie.

Preceding this feature the L. A. United will clash with the Overseas, commencing at 1 p.m. As the result of several additions to their line-up, among them being Sammy Brown, late of the Uniteds, and J. Bain, ex-Athletic Club player, the veterans are conceded a good chance against the champions. Horace Jones will handle the whistle.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

Philip Whitemore, adventurer, conceives a plan to commercialize the vast fishing resources of a Canadian wilderness and is backed through a company organized by Brokaw. Brokaw warns him by letter that rival factions are planning to wreck the enterprise. On a certain night Pierre Courtez and his sister Jeanne, friends of Whitemore, en route to meet him at their forest rendezvous, are attacked by unknown assailants, who abduct Jeanne. Whitemore rescues her and the three friends go to Fort o' God, the secluded home of Pierre and Jeanne, where Whitemore meets Henry d'Arcambal, Jeanne's father. In a note to Whitemore Jeanne tells him that she cannot accept the love he offers her. Later he sees her in the arms of a man unknown to him and leaves immediately for his company's camp. Arriving there he meets the camp's gang foreman, Thorpe, and recognizes in him the man he had seen with Jeanne that evening. Several nights later Pierre goes to Thorpe's cabin, kills him and is himself seriously wounded. Knowing that death is near, Pierre confides in Whitemore the meaning of Jeanne's clandestine meetings with Thorpe and tells him also that Thorpe had been assisting in the plot against him under the assumed name of Lord Pitshugh Lee. From his story Whitemore believes the dead man to have been the father of Jeanne. With Jeanne at his side Pierre dies. Later Whitemore learns that the chief conspirator against him was none other than Brokaw, who sought to make impossible the success of the company for his own financial benefit.

Philip had not spoken during Gregson's terrible recital. He sat like one turned to stone. Rage, wonder and horror burned so fiercely in his heart that they consumed all evidence of emotion. And to arouse him now there came an interruption that sent the blood flushing back into his face—a low knock at the closed door, a slow lifting of the latch, the appearance of Jeanne. Through her tears she saw only the man she loved, and sobbing aloud now, like a child, she stretched out her arms to him; and when he sprang to her and caught her to his breast, she whispered his name again and again, and stroked his face with her hands. Love, overpowering, breathing of heaven, was in her touch, and as she lifted her face to him of her own sweet will now, entreating him to kiss her and to comfort her for what she had lost, he saw Gregson moving with bowed head, like a stricken thing, toward the outer door. In that moment the things that had been in his heart melted away, and raising a hand above his head, he called, softly:

"Tom Gregson, my old chum, if you have found a love like this, thank your God. My own love I would lose if I destroyed yours. Go back to Eileen. Tell Brokaw that I accept his offers. And when you come back in a few days, bring Eileen. My Jeanne will love her."

And Jeanne, looking from Philip's face, saw Gregson, for the first time, as he passed through the door.

Chapter XXIV

Both Philip and Jeanne were silent for some moments after Gregson had gone; their only movement was the gentle stroking of Philip's hand over the girl's soft hair. Their hearts were full, too full for speech. And yet he knew that upon his strength depended everything now. The revelations of Gregson, which virtually ended the fight against him personally, were but trivial in his thoughts compared with the ordeal which was ahead of Jeanne. Both Pierre and her father were dead, and, with the exception of Jeanne, no one out he knew of the secret that had died with them. He could feel against him the throbbing of the storm that was passing in the girl's heart, and in answer to it he said nothing in words, but held her to him with a gentleness that lifted her face, quiet and beautiful, so that her eyes looked steadily and questioningly into his own.

"You love me," she said, simply, and yet with a dimness that sent a curious thrill through him.

"Beyond all else in the world," he replied.

She still looked at him, without speaking, as though through his eyes she was searching to the bottom of his soul.

"And you know," she whispered, after a moment.

He drew her so close she could not move, and crushed his face down against her own.

"Jeanne—Jeanne—everything is as it should be," he said. "I am glad that you were found out in the woods. I am glad that the woman in the picture was your mother. I would have nothing different than it is, for if things were different you would not be the Jeanne that I know, and I would not love you so. You have suffered, sweetheart. And, I, too have had my share of sorrow. God has brought us together, and all is right in the end, Jeanne—my sweet Jeanne—"

Gregson had left the outer door slightly ajar. A gust of wind opened it wider. Through it there came now a sound that interrupted the words or Philip's lips, and sent a sudden quiver through Jeanne. In an instant both recognized the sound. It was the firing of rifles, the shots coming to them faintly from far beyond the mountain at the end of the lake. Moved by the same impulse, they ran to the door hand in hand.

"It is Sachigo!" panted Jeanne. She could hardly speak. She seemed to struggle to get breath. "I had forgotten. They are fighting—"

MacDougall strode up from his post beside the door, where he had been waiting for the appearance of Jeanne.

"Firing—off there," he said. "What does it mean?"

"We must wait and see," replied Philip. "Send two of your men to investigate, Mac. I will rejoin you after I have taken Miss d'Arcamba over to Cassidy's wife."

He moved away quickly with Jeanne. On a sudden rise of the wind from the south the firing came to them more distinctly. Then it died away, and ended in three or four intermittent shots. For the space of a dozen seconds a strange stillness followed, and then over the mountain top, where there was still a faint glow in the sky, there came the low, quavering, triumphal cry of the Crees; a cry born of the forest itself, mournful even in its joy, only half human—almost like a far-away burst of tongue from a wolf pack on the hunt trail. And after that there was an unbroken silence.

"It is over," breathed Philip.

He felt Jeanne's fingers tighten about his own.

"No one will ever know," he continued. "Even MacDougall will not guess what has happened out there—tonight."

He stopped a dozen paces from Cassidy's cabin. The windows were aglow, and they could hear the laughter and play of Cassidy's two children within. Gently he drew Jeanne to him.

"You will stay here tonight, dear," he said. "Tomorrow we will go to Fort o' God."

"You must take me home tonight," whispered Jeanne, looking up into his face. "I must go, Philip. Send some one with me, and you can come—in the morning—with Pierre—"

She put her hand to his face again, in the sweet touch that told more of her love than a thousand words.

"You understand, dear," she went on, seeing the anxiety in his eyes. "I have the strength—to-night. I must return to father, and he will know everything—when you come to Fort o' God."

"I will send MacDougall with you," said Philip, after a moment. "And then I will follow—"

"With Pierre."

"Yes, with Pierre."

For a brief space longer they stood outside of Cassidy's cabin, and then Philip, lifting her face, said gently:

"Will you kiss me, dear? It is the first time."

He bent down, and Jeanne's lips reached his own.

"No, it is not the first time," she confessed, in a whisper. "Not since that day—when I thought you were dying — after we came through the rapids—"

Five minutes later Philip returned to MacDougall. Roberts, Henshaw, Cassidy and Lecault were with the engineer.

"I've sent the St. Pierres to find out about the firing," he said. "Look at the crowd over at the store. Everyone heard it,—and they've seen the fire on the mountain. They think the Indians have cornered a moose or two, and are shooting them by the blaze."

"They're probably right," said Philip. "I want a word with you, Mac."

He walked a little aside with the engineer, leaving the others in a group, and in a low voice told him as much as he cared to reveal about the identity of Thorpe and Gregson's mission in camp. Then he spoke of Jeanne.

"I believe that the death of Thorpe practically ends all danger to us," he concluded. "I'm going to offer you a pleasanter job than fighting, Mac. It is imperative that Miss d'Arcambal should return to d'Arcambal House before morning, and I want you to take her, if you will. I'm choosing the best man I've got because—well, because she's going to be my wife, Mac. I'm the happiest man on earth tonight!"

MacDougall did not show surprise.

"Guessed it," he said, shortly, thrusting out a hand and grinning broadly into Philip's face. "Couldn't help from seein, Phil. And the firing, and Thorpe, and that half-breed in there—"

Understanding was slowly illuminating his face.

"You'll know all about them a little later, Mac," said Philip softly. "Tonight we must investigate nothing—very far. Miss d'Arcambal must be taken home immediately. Will you go?"

"With pleasure."

"She can ride one of the horses as far as the Little Churchill," continued Philip. "And there she will show you a canoe. I will following in the morning with the body of Pierre, the half-breed."

A quarter of an hour later MacDougall and Jeanne set out over the river trail, leaving Philip standing behind, watching them until they were hidden in the night. It was fully an hour later before the St. Pierres returned. Philip was uneasy until the two dark-faced hunters came into the little office and leaned their rifles against the wall. He had feared that Sachigo might have left some trace of his ambush behind. But the St. Pierres had discovered nothing, and could give only one reason for the burning pine on the summit of the mountain. They agreed that Indians had fired it to frighten moose from a thick cover to the south and west, and that their hunt had been a failure.

It was midnight before Philip relaxed his caution, which he maintained until then in spite of his belief that Thorpe's men, under Blake, had met a quick finish at the hands of Sachigo and his ambushed braves. His men left for ther cabins, with the exception of Cassidy, whom he asked to spend the remainder of the night in one of the office bunks. Alone he went in to prepare Pierre for his last journey to Fort o' God.

A lamp was burning low beside the bunk in which Pierre lay. Philip approached and turned the wick higher, and then he gazed in wonder upon the transfiguration in the half-breed's face. Pierre had died with a smile on his lips; and with a curous thickening in his throat Philip thought that those lips, even in death, were curved in the act of whispering Jeanne's name. It seemed to him, as he stood in silence for many moments, that Pierre was not dead, but that he was sleeping a quiet, unbreathing sleep, in which there came to him visions of the great love for which he had offered up his life and soul. Jeanne's hands, in his last moments, had stilled all pain. Peace slumbered in the pale shadows of his closed eyes. The Great God of his faith had come to him in his hour of greatest need on earth, and he had passed away into the Valley of Silent Men on the sweet breath of Jeanne's prayers. The girl had crossed his hands upon his breast. She had brushed back his long hair. Philip knew that she had imprinted a kiss upon the silent lips before the soul had fled, and in the warmth and knowledge of that kiss Pierre had died happy.

And Philip, brokenly, said aloud: "God bless you, Pierre, old man!"

He lifted the cold hands back, and gently drew the covers which had hidden the telltale stains of death from Jeanne's eyes. He turned down Pierre's shirt, and in the lamp glow there glistened the golden locket. For the first time he noticed it closely. It was half as large as the palm of his hand, and very thin, and he saw that it was bent and twisted. A shudder ran through him when he understood what had happened. The bullet that had killed Pierre had first struck the locket, and had burst it partly open. He took it in his hand. And then he saw that through the broken side there protruded the end of a bit of paper. For a brief space the discovery made him almost forget the presence of death. Pierre had never opened the locket, because it was of the old-fashioned kind that locked with a key, and the key was gone. And the locket had been about Jeanne's neck when he found her out in the snow! Was it possible that this bit of paper had something to do with the girl he loved?

BUMPER TALKS

November Eleventh

Maybe a lot of people have already forgotten what this date signifies. And then again there's about three or four million of us that will never forget it—the long days in France—splashing around in mud up to our shoe tops—the thoughts of home and hopes that some of us would be fortunate enough to get back for Christmas—the disappointment when we didn't—all these things and more. I'm dedicating this ad to the boys who were over there—give them a cheer, folks. Believe me, they've earned it.

CAR AND BUS LINES AFTER NEW ROUTES

Transportation System for Industrial District Planned by Companies

A system of transportation to handle passenger traffic for the new industrial district will be developed in the eastern part of the city if Santa Fe avenue will be made available, according to an application filed yesterday with the State Railroad Commission. The petitioner, the Pacific Electric Land Company, asks the commission for a certificate of public convenience permitting the operation of an automobile stage service over a route lying between East Twentieth street and Long Beach avenue in Los Angeles and Heliotrope Drive and Baker avenue in the Maywood tract southeast of the corporate limits.

The projected bus line, which is understood to be responsive to the needs of the rapidly building zone in which are located the Los Angeles Union Stockyards, the Globe Grain and Milling Company, the Burr Creamery Company and a score or more large manufacturing plants, will operate six cars, four of which are planned to be run on a twenty-minute schedule between 6:30 a.m. and 9:30 p.m., daily. It is set forth in the application that at present no local transportation line runs within a mile's distance of the contemplated route.

FLOOD BRINGS WAR CRY

Roofless Health Office Now Swimming Tank; Dr. Powers Sorrowful, Wrathy

With the roof gone and huge puddles of water standing in all of the offices and hallways of the City Health Commission quarters in the Normal Hill Center, Health Commissioner L. M. Powers and his 200 helpers yesterday declared open war on the city, with special attention paid to the Park Commission, which is in charge of wrecking the Normal Hill Building to make ready for the new $2,000,000 Public Library.

Standing in the leaking offices under umbrellas, Dr. Powers and others of the Health Commission yesterday morning watched masses of office files and other papers reduced to pulp by the dripping rain. They stood by while the electric wiring in the building shorted and the lights went out, and they moaned as the telephone switchboard went out of commission.

NEW LEAKS ADDED

Frantic efforts by women clerks, carrying umbrellas and wearing raincoats and rubbers, to salvage some of the office records were punctuated by the crashing of huge timbers from the second floor of the building where Park Commission men were busy adding new leaks to the already-leaking roof of the first floor of the building.

"In about a week we will have the roof off," declared a foreman to Dr. Powers, when the Health Commissioner rushed to the remaining portion of the second floor of the building to protest. "We know that the rain is beating in on you fellows, but we have our orders," was the reply to the protest.

ENDANGERED BY TIMBERS

And, in the meantime, falling timbers from the roof continued to crash through the windows of the first floor of the building, driving clerks and doctors from their desks and endangering the lives of persons attempting to transact business with the department.

Late yesterday afternoon Dr. Powers said that while no one in his department had been injured, a huge timber had crashed through the office window of Chief Milk Inspector Dr. William Veit, and crushed his desk. The doctor was not in the room at the time or he probably would have been killed, according to Dr. Powers.

UNHEALTHY DEPARTMENT

From all that could be learned from Dr. Powers yesterday, his department will occupy the second and third floors of the Bullard Block some time in December. In the meantime the City Health Department is, without a doubt, the most unhealthy health department in the entire country.

The department is without a roof, is out in the rain, has no lights, no heat, and no telephones, and if the wrecking crew, now working on the building continues at the present speed, will be without any building at all within a week.

Guild Elects Mrs. Macbeth as President

Mrs. Norman Macbeth, club extension president of Los Angeles Chapter, Needlework Guild of America, yesterday was elected president of the Los Angeles Chapter, succeeding Mrs. Boyle Workman, who had been president of the organization for the last ten years.

The Los Angeles chapter yesterday concluded its twenty-sixth annual ingathering of garments, having collected more than 25,000 articles of clothing, which will be distributed among the sixty-seven charitable organizations of Los Angeles. During the first year of Mrs. Workman's presidency only 8000 garments were distributed.

The phenomenal growth of the Needlework Guild in Los Angeles is seen from the fact that in 1896 there were only ten sections established, while today there are sixty-four. These sections include private groups, clubs, churches and schools. This fall six new sections have been organized, while four new charities have been added to the list of recipients.

At the election yesterday Mrs. R. H. Herron, in whose home the first meeting was conducted twenty-six years ago, was officially voted the founder of the Los Angeles chapter.

Wife Fed Up on Suicide Threats; Seeks Divorce

Rose Basto had enough of her husband, Luiz Eduardo Basto, when he kept her for an hour and a half on her knees, imploring him not to commit suicide as he threatened, she declared today in a suit for divorce filed in the County Clerk's office. Once, she averred, he actually took a small dose of poison just to frighten her, while she was in a hospital. On another occasion, she said, he told her brother he would kill himself unless the brother left town. How the brother had offended Basto was not revealed.

Basto also annoyed his wife by claiming to be the son of a Portuguese Count, and boasting about it; by being lazy, lying in bed till noon; by glaring and staring at her at night, and by claiming to be a "healer," she declared. The healing profession, she asserted, he had practiced in Hanford without a license. Basto was also domineering, she said.

They were married at Ontario, Cal., Dec. 9, 1920, and separated March 21, last. Griffith, Jones and Craig are Mrs. Basto's attorneys.

WED EIGHTEEN DAYS, SHE ASKS DIVORCE

Eighteen days of married life with Charles P. Lynne were plenty for Mabel C. Lynne, 19 years old, who filed suit for annulment today. The complaint, reminiscent, when taken with her name, of a famous play, asserts that she was innocent of the ways of the world when she wed and that her husband, in addition to being a drug user, was incapable of giving her the pure, strong devotion to which she thought she was entitled.

OUTLINE PLANS FOR ROLL CALL

Red Cross Chapter Meets at Luncheon

City Divided Into Districts by Workers

Review of Deeds Given by Club Speakers

BY MYRA NYE

Yesterday at the Union League Club after the luncheon hour, plans were outlined for the annual Red Cross roll call which begins Sunday and ends on Thanksgiving Day, by the president of the Los Angeles chapter, Mr. R. C. McWatters.

Stirring appeals were made by Bishop W. Bertrand Stevens of the Episcopal Church, Mayor Cryer and Dr. Helen Woodruff, an overseas Red Cross nurse for five years, recently returned.

Mrs. C. C. Ashley, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. William A. Edwards, Miss Jane Humphries, Mrs. E. H. Lauer, Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, Mrs. C. M. McRoberts, Mrs. W. M. Read, Mrs. R. B. Von Klein-Smid and Mrs Arthur C. Wier comprise the executive committee with the general committee of over 100 members divided into groups in charge of the department work

"Help keep our Red Cross strong for its continuing duties by answering this new annual roll call," said the president of the organization. "The further we get from the war the more difficult is the work of stirring enthusiasm and yet the need is great now and will continue to be so." Mr. McWatters reviewed some of the accomplishments of the last year as a starting point for the new work; $144,657 was spent in service to veterans of the World War and their families and 35,000 ex-service men were interviewed and helped in other ways than by money alone.

The fundamental functions of the Red Cross in this city are: To render service and assistance to the men of the Army and Navy; to extend the activities of Red Cross nurses in rural communities; a department upon which Bishop Stevens puts great emphasis, and the efficiency of the organized work; to be adequately prepared for every emergency due to disaster and in the Junior Red Cross to teach the children service and unselfishness, to build up future mutual trust and confidence.

The committee has divided the city into districts, each one in charge of a band of workers. A canvass will be made of all the people who will be asked to respond to one of the memberships, annual $1, contributing $5, sustaining $10, life $50 and patron memberships $100. It will be the object of the committee to make the city glow with the appeal to the eye by beautiful Red Cross banners, the window Red Cross cards, automobile posters and Red Cross buttons which will be worn by those answering to the roll call.

Galpin Shakespeare Club

Perhaps no group is more vitally interested in the literary theater movement in Los Angeles than the club women. There is no club so small that a drama section is not a vital factor in the club life and that section is usually one of the most popular. The clubs read and discuss the more advanced of the modern plays and emphasize the study of the classics in dramatic literature.

Yesterday before the Galpin Shakespeare Club, Frayne Williams outlined his plans for a literary theater which will present the first play backed by the University of California extension in the Ebell clubhouse and expects a large part of its audience to be club women, and at the same time to make an appeal to young college people, as well as a popular appeal.

Mr. Williams is confident that this latter difficult combination may be effected, and in his talk yesterday he outlined the movement as he knew it in London, Dublin, Adelaide, Australia, Hamsted, Budapest, Pasadena and now this city.

"If George Bernard Shaw keeps on he may write as well as Willard Mack," said Mr. Williams rather contemtuously speaking of the popular disregard for the former and the acclaim given the latter as a playwright. This, he said, was indicative of poor taste and shallow intelligence on the part of audiences.

"To appear in the better literary plays is the very best thing commercially for a young actor," said Mr. Williams, who told how many stars were taken from his Little Theater in London to play at fabulously high salaries. Sir Beerbohm Tree first appeared at the Little Theater and one of Mr. Williams's intelligent actresses was taken to play the leading role in Brieux's "Damaged Goods" at a high salary.

"So it is clearly to be seen," said the speaker, "that these literary theaters, such as we are trying to establish here, form a rich background for histrionic talent.

"And yet the securing of adequate talent to take part is the greatest obstacle we have to surmount. Professional men and women do not take kindly to the idea. In Dublin a professional actor threw a chair at the head of William Butler Yeats when he tried to begin rehearsals on "Shadowy Waters," which finally won such popularity. The actor judging from old standards said it was bosh, there was nothing to it and the lines were rot. Against such obstacles J. M. Synge, Lady Gregory and Yeats had to make their way to final success.

A Molière tercentenary festival with two plays by the great French dramatist will start at the literary theater on the 25th inst., and later "The Knight of the Burning Pestle," an Elizabethean comedy revival; "The Shadow of the Glen," by Synge; "The Jackdaw," by Lady Gregory, and "The Cherry Orchard," by Anton Chekov will be presented with Mr. Williams directing and a well trained cast, which has been studying for nearly a year.

Ebell Literature Luncheon

"I was a musician for twenty-five years, and now I'm just a song writer," was a statement made by Carrie Jacobs Bond at the literature luncheon of Ebell Club yesterday. Mrs. Bond's personality has the same lilting quality which is to be found in her compositions, and into her talk there crept bits of herself, and what she thought and believed.

Though her talk was essentially about her experiences, Mrs. Bond gave some interesting side lights on the attitude felt in Europe toward America, which she felt while there this summer. She said that there was a great deal of antagonism toward Americans, which she thought was not justified, for as she expressed it, "There is no make-believe in the friendliness of the American people, and I longed for my fighting clothes, when I listened to their idea of our country."

In answer to the request of the club that she tell of her experiences and how she came to be a song writer, Mrs. Bond gave a brief sketch of her musical life, and told of her ambition to become an organist, which is a dream she has never realized. Mrs. Bond described herself as "a writer of little songs," and surely she is just that, a writer of little songs which reach the heart and human element in every one who has heard them.

The honor guest and speaker at the luncheon was Dr. Charles Orbison, who has returned from Riga, Russia, where he was engaged during the war in taking care of the children of that part of the country. Dr. Orbison's expression about his work there was that it was an "American investment in children," and as such, earned the grateful love of the people there. In his stay in Riga, Dr. Orbison and his assistants fed $5,000 children and looked after their general welfare, reducing death and disease a remarkable amount. Dr. Orbison was most enthusiastic about his experience and said that he wouldn't trade the two years he spent there for any other two years of his life. He had with him many mementos which he brought back as tangible evidences of the gratitude of the people of Riga.

The morning program of the literature section was interesting and dealt with a talk on the English dictionary by Lily Benton Fremont, and a review of Amy Lowell's lectures on "Tendencies in Modern Poetry," and the exponants of them, by Mrs. Samuel Carey Dunlap. The poets mentioned by Mrs. Lowell in these lectures were: Edwin Arlington Robinson, Robert Lee Frost, Edgar Lee Masters, Carl Sanborn Helen Dolittle and John Gould Fletcher.

Birds of a Feather

A young man managed to get into conversation with a pretty girl during a railway journey.

He was very pleased with himself, and when the train arrived at his destination he said to the girl:

"I am afraid you wouldn't, perhaps, have been so nice to me if you'd known I was a married man."

"Oh, as to that," answered the girl, "you might be a little surprised to know that I have just come out of prison after serving a sentence for bigamy."—[Exchange.

LOCAL .. MISS .. ARTISTS' .. BEAUTY .. IDEAL

Fourteen-year-old Girl, Blonde, with Retrousse Nose and Perfect Height, Weight

Marjorie Fayre

RARER than radium is perfect beauty in woman. Penrhyn Stanlaws, painter of lovely women and magazine illustrator, says that perfect beauty is never found. There may be present in some woman all the points of beauty, but not correctly combined, or there may be a well-balanced combination with some of the beauty features lacking.

When Mr. Stanlaws found little Marjorie Jamieson, known on the screen as Marjorie Fayre, he knew she possessed many of the tributes of beauty, but it was not until she took the part of the fairy queen in "Winged Wings" that he realized he had struck a vein of pure beauty, according to his standards.

Marjorie is a blonde with a Barne-Jones chin, a retrousse nose only slightly tilted. This, according to Mr. Stanlaws, is the ideal combination with her other features, which are classic in their lines. Her hair is fluffy and of a golden sheen. Her eyes are dark blue. She is five feet five inches in height, and weighs 115 pounds.

She is only 14 years old, and yet in her photographs she appears at least 18 years old. This, however, is the first time she has been taken with "grown-up" clothes and ornaments.

Differing from the boyish type, which has been so popular of late, Marjorie, even in spite of tennis and outdoor life, has not the boyish walk so prevalent, nor the boyish figure. She is altogether feminine with the slenderness of her age.

DEATH CAR CARRIES LOAD OF DYNAMITE

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Nov. 9.—George Miller, chauffeur who was killed yesterday in a collision between here and Santa Fe Springs, had forty pounds of dynamite in his wrecked car, it was revealed today.

That the dynamite failed to explode when Miller's car crashed into a heavy truck loaded with drilling pipe on the road to Santa Fe Springs is considered little short of miraculous. Miller, who was killed in the crash, was on his way for drilling tools when he met death in the collision.

This method is embodied in Glandogen, the gland tonic. Glandogen is a glandular compound containing the active principles of the glands of healthy young animals. Diet and Health

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

I, I, I: I, MYSELF; I
THE STORY OF ME BY ME
Chapter XXXIV

We are a physical culture family. My mamma and my daddy and my Aunt Sue and my Gramie and my uncles and myself, we all take our setting-up exercises every day. And we would no sener think of going without our setting-up exercises than we would think of going without our daily baths.

I told you how every day after my bath in the morning and about five o'clock in the afternoon all my clothes are taken off of me and I lie on my bed in a warm room and I kick and wave my arms and stretch all my muscles beautifully. Of course I crv a little bit too during the day. Not too much, but enough so that my lungs are fully extended.

My lungs are getting pretty powerful now, too. You ought to hear me yell. Daddy says I am developing so that if I don't make the football team in my college, I shall be a good yell leader. But I plan to make the football team myself. Gramie thinks I am developing into a Caruso or a McCormack.

Recently mamma has begun to help me with my exercises. You know that along with the proper food there is nothing like good muscular development to help develop the bones. So mamma is helping me now to develop my muscles. Today I shall give you the two new exercises she has given me.

Mamma began the exercise movement she has me do with not more than three or four, and she has gradually increased them, two a day, until now I am doing fifteen each. While I am flat on my back on the bed she takes hold of my hands and wrists and brings my arms straight over my head. And I take a good breath of lovely fresh air and this helps my chest to develop well.

My next exercise is with my legs. Mamma takes hold of my feet firmly around the ankles, brings my legs way up and then presses down gently until my knees touch my abdomen. Then she brings them up again and I am getting so that I push a little bit, because it is lots of fun, and then she brings them down. This helps build up my abdominal and leg muscles.

These exercises are good for me. There are some exercises that are advocated for babies that are very pernicious, my doctor says. My mamma and my daddy saw a picture in a movie theater of a baby that was being exercised by being tossed back and forth between his daddy and his mamma, and held in his daddy's hands and swung downward by his feet.

My mamma and my daddy said it made them fairly shudder when they thought of the very great danger there might be in dropping that baby. My doctor saw the picture, too, and she said that there should be a law to prohibit such pernicious exercises as these, for if the baby should get a tumble in those positions it might injure his back so that he would be a cripple for life, or it might even kill him.

My daddy and my mamma think too much of me to take any chances of injuring me.

An revoir.

NAVY .. CREWS .. TO .. JOIN .. CELEBRATION

Festivities to Mark Observance of Armistice Day at Venice

VENICE, Nov. 9.—Reception of the officers tomorrow morning when the battleships Texas and Oklahoma arrive off the Venice pier for participation in the three-day Armistice Day celebration, fostered by the local post of the American Legion, will be the first step in an elaborate program planned for the World War veterans and the navy personnel of the two ships.

A reception committee, headed by Mayor Gerety and Legion officials, will journey to the Texas when the ships arrive at 11 o'clock and tender the key of the city to Admiral R. H. Jackson and his staff of officers and men.

As Queen of Victory, Miss Irma Berline, 214 Grand Canal street, one of the original Mack Sennett bathing beauties, will occupy a prominent place in the Armistice Day parade through the principal streets of the city Saturday morning. Miss Berline was selected by a committee as the most beautiful representative in the bay district. Hundreds of photographs were entered in the contest.

SAILORS TO PARADE

The parade, headed by navy officers and their men in regular formation and fully equipped, will move down Ocean Front past the reviewing stand at Market street, where Admiral Jackson, Mayor Gerety and other prominent officials will occupy a place of honor. World War veterans and other organizations are also planning to participate in the parade.

Friday afternoon Admiral Jackson and navy officers will be taken on a tour of the motion-picture studios, and will be entertained with a dinner dance that evening at the Ship Cafe on the pier. Armistice Day morning World War veterans will be registered by the Boy Scouts. In the afternoon picked teams from the U.S.S. New York and the Texas will stage a football game on the Venice High School grounds. Aerial stunts and a band concert between the Texas and Oklahoma are also on the program for the afternoon.

At night a basketball game between the Texas and Oklahoma will be played in the local high school gymnasium; fireworks will be displayed off the pier; a mammoth victory ball will be held at the Venice ballroom, and a midnight vaudeville show will be staged at the Neptune Theater, with motion-pictures of the Forty-ninth Division and the Balboa Park sailors promised.

SERVICES ON SHIP

Sunday at 9:30 a.m. Boy Scouts of the bay district will have an opportunity of attending regular church services aboard the two battleships. Special boats provided through the co-operation of Admiral Jackson and local Legion officials will carry the youngsters to and from the ships. This is said to be the first time in the history of the Navy that a group from the outside has been privileged to attend regular Sunday services.

PARADE WILL OPEN PROGRAM

Strongheart, famous dog of the movies, will appear in special stunts and there will be many other numbers to keep the spectators entertained.

The carnival spirit will prevail at night when the Street in Paris will be opened with its Cafe de la Paix, Folies Bergeres, novelty shops and side shows. A spacious dancing platform is being erected and the Legionnaires are prepared to provide entertainment of a class which will keep their guests busy until a late hour.

PLEA FOR WORLD PEACE

A plea for world peace through international understanding will be made by the combined churches of Los Angeles, the Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, the American Legion and the League of Women Voters, in a meeting conducted under the auspices of the Los Angeles District Federation of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

The meeting, which is to be at Trinity Auditorium, is divided into a morning and an afternoon session. Mrs. John C. Urquhart, president of the Los Angeles District Federation will introduce Mrs. Seward Simons, who will preside. An organ recital by the Federation Music Clubs will open the morning session at 10 a.m.

The first speaker of the morning program is Rev. J. Bromley Oxnam, pastor of the Church of All Nations, whose subject is "Fundamental Basis of World Peace."

DR. SHEDD TO SPEAK

Representing the Ministerial Union and Church Federation will be Dr. John C. Shedd of Occidental College, chairman of the National Justice to Armenia Society, who speaks on "Peace Through Justice in the Near East. Frank Jenal, former Grand Knight of the Los Angeles Council, Knights of Columbus, representing the Catholic churches of the city, will talk on an "International Court of Justice." Mrs. Herbert A. Cable will offer resolutions conveying the sentiment of the meeting.

The afternoon session will open at 1:30 p.m. with music by the State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs. The first address will be made by Ernest C. Moore, director of the Southern Branch, University of California, who, representing the Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations, has chosen for his topic "International Peace Through Public School Education."

LEGION ON PROGRAM

"World Peace from the Viewpoint of the Service Man" is the topic of a talk to be given by Commander H. V. Silverberg of Los Angeles Post No. 5, American Legion. The Jewish churches of the city, have for their spokesman Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, of Temple B'nai B'rith, who asks the question "Must We Have Another World War?" The meeting closes with an address by Mrs. Shelly Tollhurst, representing the League of Women Voters, whose subject is "The Outlawry of War."

The executive committee in charge of the meeting is headed by Mrs. Seward Simons as chairman, and is composed of Mrs. J. C. Urquhart, president of the Los Angeles district, C.F.W.C.; Mrs. Frank A. Parades in beach cities in which men from the Pacific Fleet will march are another feature of the day's general celebration.

SAILORS TO MARCH

Men from the Oklahoma and Texas will parade in Venice, where a competitive concert between the ships' bands will be staged. At Long Beach 1500 bluejackets, marines and soldiers will augment patriotic and civic clubs in a parade, while the parade in Los Angeles will have men from the California, New Mexico and Idaho. The ships in the harbor are to don gala array for the holiday and maintain open house for visitors, while the sailors are to be given seventy-two hours liberty.

A beautiful and impressive sunset service on Mt. Rubidoux will be featured by a ceremony honoring Great Britain and her gallant sons for their part in the world conflict. Representatives of the British, Canadian and American governments will participate as will the British War Veterans' Club, Sons of St. George and other organizations.

In the evening the celebrations have a lighter side.

PAGEANT AT HOTEL

The most pretentious of these will be staged at the Alexandria Hotel, where a pageant, in which war veterans with the colors and decorations of their nations will vie with a $250,000 fashion revue put on by Cecil De Mille. Evan Burrows Fontaine, the dancer, will entertain.

The first annual reunion and banquet of veterans of the First Division, A.E.F., is scheduled at Jahnke's Tavern, with hundreds expected to attend. At the Gamut Club, members of the Canadian Maple Leaf Club are to have a special Armistice Day dance, and the British Overseas Club is giving a dinner for all British veterans from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. with a concert and dance in the evening.

SHERIFF TRAILS BANK BANDITS

had been stolen only a few days past, according to officers.

Following the departure of the bandits, Natesta, the teller, rushed outside and leaped in a car standing by the curbing and attempted to start the engine, hoping that he would be able to follow the three men. Just as he got the machine started the owner of same came running to the scene and demanded to know why Natesta was attempting to make away with his car. The time lost in explaining the reason for the emergency seizure gave the bandits ample time to get out of sight.

Under the direction of Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Al Manning, Deputy Sheriffs Nolan, Stensland, Sweesy, McNulty, Callahan, and Moody rushed to the scene and assisted by Constable Ben Parker, who was first notified, started the search for the three men.

BELIEVED NOVICES

From their actions, officers believe that bank robbery was a novelty to the three men and that this was probably their first attempt.

The fact that they wasted so much time gathering up the small coins before demanding that the safe be opened, led officers to this conclusion.

Inasmuch as they did not have time to get very far before the alarm was given and officers were on the scene, it was stated last night that it is quite probable the men hid in some shed or abandoned house during the afternoon.

President Thayer took only enough time off to get the wound dressed and then returned to the bank for the afternoon's business.

Officers declared that the presence of mind and bravery shown by the three bank officials prevented the bandits from getting away with a large sum of money. Because the two men who entered the bank wore no masks the bank officials and customers present at the time of the robbery were able to give officers good descriptions of them.

BONDS SALE PLAN RESTS IN COUNCIL

City Attorney Decides Body Has Disposition of Sewer Securities

That the power to determine the plan of procedure regarding the construction of the recently approved $12,000,000 sewer system is vested in the City Council alone, was decided yesterday by the City Attorney in reply to a communication from the Board of Public Works, requesting advice as to the proper procedure in the expenditure of funds derived from the sale of bonds for that work.

The gist of the City Attorney's decision is expressed in the following extract from his letter to the Board of Public Works:

"The Council should first give an order to the City Engineer for the preparation of plans and specifications for the whole work or portion thereof. Upon the approval by the Council of such plans and specifications an ordinance should be adopted authorizing your board to advertise for bids for the whole work or some designated part of the same, and thereupon the usual notice inviting proposals for the work ordered should be given. When a satisfactory bid is obtained and accepted, a contract should be awarded, executed on behalf of the city, and carried out in accordance with the terms of the ordinance. The charter provides that your board has charge, superintendence and control of such public works. Under such ordinances as may from time to time be adopted by the Council."

GRAND JURY RESTS

There will be no session of the Federal grand jury today, that body having concluded its work last night. There were no additional indictments returned involving the Needles strike incident. A number of cases that have been under consideration for some time were disposed of. The next meeting will be held Friday, the 17th inst.

BURCH SCORES VICTORY

State Blocked in Effort to Tell Jury of Attempted Jailbreak; Prosecution Rests

Frequent clashes between counsel, and the closing by the prosecution of its case, marked the trial yesterday of Arthur C. Burch, on trial in Judge Shenk's court for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy on Aug. 5, 1921.

The trial was also characterized by an important victory for the defense when the court ruled that testimony regarding the efforts of Burch to smuggle a loaded revolver and twelve cartridges into the County Jail be stricken from the record.

The prosecution, represented by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clark, rested its case at noon yesterday and the defense, when the hearing was resumed at 2 o'clock, put witnesses on the stand in an effecort to prove that Burch could not have killed Kennedy from the spot where he is asserted to have stood when the fatal shot was fired.

CHIEF ON STAND

To bolster up this contention, Defense Attorney Paul Schenck placed Chief of Police Charles C. Blair of Beverly Hills on the witness stand late this afternoon. He testified that he was called to the scene of the shooting the night Kennedy was called.

Next day, he testified, he arose before daylight, and accompanied by Frank Lebhart, a motorcycle officer on the Beverly Hills police force, again went to the scene of the murder for a further investigation. Near the house and at one side, he testified, he found a sort of "a nest" where the murderer might have stood or knelt when he fired the shot which killed Kennedy. He examined some wire at the top of the steps in direct line with the path which a bullet would have taken in its flight from the "nest in the weeds" to its victim and found it unmarked.

INTERRUPTED

At this point one of the jurors, A. W. Tuttle of Redondo Beach, interrupted him and asked him the exact position of the wire from the gate to the house ten or fifteen feet in back of it. The police head declared that a shot fired from the "nest" would undoubtedly have left a mark on the wire.

Earlier in the day the defense had placed Mrs. Affie Burns on the stand to testify regarding the condition of Madalynne Obenchain when she was taken to jail at Beverly Hills shortly after the murder.

Mr. Clark interrupted at this point and succeeded in having her removed from the stand on the ground that the prosecution was not attempting to prove conspiracy to murder and that Mrs. Burns's testimony regarding the woman jointly charged with the murder of Kennedy was not relevant.

Indications are that the trial will not be concluded until the latter part of next week. In the absence of Dr. J. J. Fipley, former physician in the County Jail emergency room, his testimony regarding removal of a thorn from Burch's knee after his arrest was read into the record from the testimony he had given at the second trial of Burch.

URGE VALLEY PROTECTION

Business Men Call on Herbert Hoover to Back Plans For Harnessing Colorado River

Urging that immediate steps be taken to protect Imperial and Palo Verde valleys against the ravages of the Colorado River, the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday forwarded to Herbert Hoover, chairman of the Colorado River Commission, a resolution which members of the board believe will result in action.

The commission is now in session at Santa Fe, N. M. The resolution wired to Chairman Hoover was presented to the board by Lucius K. Chase, chairman of the chamber's reclamation and power development committee. It follows:

LETTER FOLLOWS

"Hon. Herbert Hoover,
"Chairman Colorado River Commission,
"Santa Fe, N. M.

"The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce earnestly hopes that at this session of the commission a compact may be made which will protect the vested interests of the various States in the normal flow of the waters of the Colorado River and that surplus water to be conserved by impounding works may be so fairly apportioned that all the States interested will feel an immediate impetus through prospective development.

"In case, however, a compact cannot be made at this time, we urge upon the commission the advisability of adopting a resolution urging upon Congress the necessity of enacting a bill for construction of a dam in or near Boulder Canyon for the preservation of Imperial and Palo Verde valleys, safeguarding rights of upper States by appropriate condition in act."

MADE CLEAR

Members of the board made it clear that the chamber is anxious that the Colorado River Commission set the wheels in motion, leaving the matter of proper apportionment of water and power between States to a later date, provided the commission cannot reach an agreement on that point at this time. Anything that may be equitable will suit the chamber, just so there is no needless delay in getting the work under way.

UNUSUAL SONGS

UNIQUE PROGRAM GIVEN BY MRS. ROTHWELL

By Edwin Schallert

Music of the exception rather than the rule distinguished the song program interpreted by Elizabeth Rothwell, with the gifted assistance of Walter Henry Rothwell at the piano, last night at Trinity Auditorium. It was Mrs. Rothwell's first recital in this city, although she has previously sung at the Philharmonic concerts, and one that afforded the intellectuals a perhaps longed-for hearing of the newer lyric literature—if you can call it lyric.

The audience was of excellent size, although the theater was hardly filled. While the applause was not at all times demonstrative, it indicated throughout a very gratifying attitude on the part of the public, even though several of the numbers severely tested the ears and the understanding because of their futuristic quality. The singer received enough bouquets and baskets of flowers to bank half the stage, and to call forth the services of a squad of ushers.

It is difficult to estimate such a recital as Mrs. Rothwell's in the terms of singing. So many of the songs are not sung; they are only given. The voice concerns the auditor only incidentally, it might be said.

Vocally Mrs. Rothwell's best efforts were, of course, in the Brahms songs, particularly the exquisite "Mainacht." It might also be said that these provided her only opportunity vocally, except for the recently discovered Handel arioso and occasional passages in the other songs.

Interpretation is therefore chiefly to be considered, and in this Mrs. Rothwell was more successful in her German group than in her French. "Fantoches," by Debussy, had brighy particular charm to offer, and was repeated, among the French, but even here I felt that more sophistication would have colored this number more appropriately. It is disguised wickedness, but is as light as thistledown. The lightness of Mrs. Rothwell's style in it was the pleasing feature. Debussy's "Beau Soir," Henri Busser's "La Nymphe de la Source," Ravel's "L'Enigme Eternelle" and Laparra's "Lettre a une Espagnole" were in the French group. The Ravel was the outstanding novelty, but here I felt a missing note of irony.

Mrs. Rothwell sings Hugo Wolf's numbers with all the graces of the German lieder singer. They are among the best examples of both her feeling and understanding. She endows them with real depth, and a wondrous lot of true dramatic and pictorial color. "Das Verlassene Magdelein" and "In dem Schatten meiner Locken," broad in their contrast, were beautifully effective. The latter with its mischievous naivete, won an encore.

Schoenberg's "Traumleben" reveals a new idiom in music, used with attractive discretion. The dissonance, if one may call anything dissonance nowadays, is suave rather than grating. A difficult song—splendidly done. Hans Pfitzner's "Gretel" lifted the curtains of mist which hung from the Schoenberg composition. True sunshine, this.

I wish I could go on talking about the music and the interpretations, but time interferes. I can only briefly mention Walter Henry Rothwell's interestingly rhapsodic "You Bloom Like the Rambler Roses;" Cyril Scott's "A Little Song of Picardie," and Richard Hageman's brilliant "At the Well." The last a splendid song.

Too, I could write at length on Mr. Rothwell's accompaniments that are full of character and richness—half the performance, and sometimes more, because of the fact that the piano in some of the songs rises to Wagnerian duties.

I could ask for more clarity of enunciation from Mrs. Rothwell at times, as far as I personally am concerned, but her generally excellent style, the warmth which she gives to her numbers and her ofttimes brilliant tones, particularly en haut, added to the novelty of her program, make her concert one of the significant affairs of the year. Mr. Rothwell, I must mention again, added much to this.

ANNOUNCE SUNDAY PROGRAM

Several artists well known in the world of music, will be introduced as special attractions at Grauman's Sunday morning "Discovery" concert, presenting a balanced and interesting program. Virginia Fiohri, soprano, and Jeannette Rogers, flutist, will appear in a duet, "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto." Grauman's six violinists, Jaime Overton, Rene Hemery, Anton Bradac, Dr. T. H. Reiss, N. Weiler and L. Meltzer, will offer two selections, and Vivian Saunders Jones, soprano, will sing an aria from Puccini's opera, "Manon Lescaut." W. Weiner, xylophone solo; V. Donatelli and V. Rossi, saxophone duet; 5-year-old Constance Cella in a Russian dance; Henry Murtagh's five organ solos, Grauman's symphony orchestra and several discovery artists, promise an entertaining concert.

BRYANT WASHBURN IN CAST OF "RUPERT"

By Grace Kingsley

The star role in Monte Bell's clever sketch, "Just as Advertsied," at the Orpheum, is all very fine, says Bryant Washburn, but there's just one role that's a lot nicer and that is playing Santa Claus to one's two-kid sons, especially if said role has been played every year since said two-kid sons were born.

Wherefore, Bryant Washburn and his wife, Mabel Washburn, who have been succeeding beautifully in the two-a-day, are going to abandon their tour until after Christmas.

And in the meantime, Mr. Washburn has signed up to play a featured role, that of Fritz Tarlenheim, in the Selznick production of "Rupert of Hentzau," which Victor Heerman will direct. The story, as will be remembered, is a sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda," which Rex Ingram put into film form for Metro.

Following the completion of this in February, probably, or late in January, Washburn and his wife will resume their vaudeville tour, according to present plans.

"But Mabel and I just can't bear to think of being away from our children at Christmas time," explained Mr. Washburn. "You see we've always made a great deal of the day with them, and when my small son, Sonny, asked me what would I do about Santa Claus if I was away from home, and began to weep—well, I made up my mind I just couldn't stand it to leave, that's all. The children are with their grandparents, and are all right, of course, but I guess we'd feel worse than they would if we left them."

"Rupert of Hentzau" is to be one of the biggest productions ever made by Selznick. Elaine Hammerstein is to have the role of the Princess Flavia, which Alice Terry played in "The Prisoner of Zenda," and Bert Lytell, as heretofore announced, is to play Rudolph.

BARBARA LA MARR IN "POOR MEN'S WIVES"

Barbara La Marr, the dark-eyed beauty, whose fascinating personality is seen to such advantage in "The Prisoner of Zenda," Gasnier's production of "The Hero" and "Trifling Women," again has been selected to play a featured role in a Gasnier production.

Miss La Marr was signed by B. P. Schulberg to play the role of the working man's wife in this, the latest Al Lichtman attraction, after a canvass of screen players that is unique in film production.

Claire Windsor, who played the part of the daughter of luxury so convincingly in "Rich Men's Wives," of which this picture is the sequel, was first considered, but discarded because of objections that probably caused her to smile; she was thought too beautiful, too obviously adapted to the life of the well-dressed woman, too much the daughter of luxury to shine convincingly in the narrow limitations offered by the salary of a working man.

More than a score of feminine stars and featured players were interviewed and, in some cases, given screen tests, before Miss La Marr again was signed for the part.

The story just has been completed by the Dazeys, Frank and his wife, whose pen name is Agnes Johnston, who were the co-authors of the original story. They have also written the scenario for the picture, on which Gasnier will begin camera work within a few days.

SHOOTING ENDS JAPANESE FEUD

Apartment-House Worker is Seriously Wounded

Accused Assailant Escapes Net of Police

Trouble Between Men of Long Standing

A long-standing feud between two Japanese house men at the Golden Apartments, 1130 West Seventh street, resulted yesterday in the shooting of S. Megoro, 30 years old, by Tom Shinzaka, 45 years old, according to the police. Megoro is near death at the Receiving Hospital and police are combing the city for his asserted assailant.

The bullet-punctuated climax of the feud between the two Japanese occurred in a room on the fourth floor of the apartment-house, according to M. Arase, another Japanese employed there, who was a witness of the affray.

"SECRETS" ARE CAUSE

According to Arase, Megoro and Shinzaka had fallen out repeatedly during the two years they were employed in the apartment-house over "secrets" imparted to one or the other by the managers. Instructions given to one were not transmitted to the other and friction between them had been growing steadily.

Yesterday morning the two met on the fourth floor. A quarrel ensued, and, according to Arase, Shinzaka drew a revolver from his pocket and began firing. Megoro fell with a bullet through his abdomen.

Shinzaka then rushed from the apartment and through a rear door, police said. In his flight he dashed through the home of P. L. Boyd, in the rear of the apartment-house. Police were summoned, and, believing that Shinzaka was barricaded in his home, which also is in the rear of the apartment-house, detectives broke into the house, but were unable to locate him.

Hundreds of spectators, attracted by the excitement, assembled. Police said last night that Shinzaka's arrest is expected hourly.

ELEPHANT UNRAVELS FILM CITY

Long and Ugly Word From Sightseeing Savant Blamed for Wild Night Out

Big Charlie, Universal City's pachyderm plus, tore off eight hours of psychic epilepsy, the side of his stable, a hermit's shack, the porch on the village smithy and an electric light pole in a period ending at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning before he was inveigled from his reversion to type by the wiles of his trainer, A. V. Stecker.

A sightseeing savant is blamed for the big elephant's wrecking spree.

"Wonderful specimen of Loxodon Indicus, what?" said the savant as he lamped Charlie inhaling his evening appetizer of two bales of hay and a barrel of water.

Charlie blinked his button eyes and forthwith began to epilepse, for back in Charlie's jungle words like those mean action, his trainer says.

But there being a lot of material in an elephant to epilepse it was not until 10 o'clock at night that Charlie "I don't remember" he was a docile beast, heaved up the concrete floor of his hut, walked through the wall and out to do about $2000 damage to the motion-picture lot.

UNIVERSITY CHIEF HOME FROM EAST

President Von KleinSmid Says New Problems Trouble Schools There

The East has come to a standstill in the matter of university enrollment, President Von KleinSmid of the University of Southern California declared yesterday upon his return here after a six weeks' tour of Eastern colleges and universities with enrollments exceeding 6000 students.

University administrations in the East "are in a more chaotic condition than ever before," he declared, "due to the large and new problems confronting them." This condition he attributed to economic conditions which are more pressing than on the West Coast.

Intercollegiate football is getting to be looked upon with suspicion, he said further, because it has been so greatly commercialized in the East. President Von KleinSmid declared that no suspicion attaches to the sport here and it is "recognized as being the best opportunity for large universities to get together and co-operate in one great movement within the university organization from the standpoint of the student body. But if it becomes too commercialized the students will have to forego the privilege," he said.

The university head attended the inauguration of Prof. Capon as president of the University of Buffalo, at Buffalo, N. Y., last Saturday, representing the local university.

Fear of Being Left Alone is Suicide Cause

Fear of separation from Russell Ransom, aged 20 years, whom she met in Long Beach October 29, was what caused Mrs. Jacqueline Llewellyn, Long Beach actress, to shoot herself in the breast in San Francisco, Wednesday, according to police reports from that city yesterday. Mrs. Llewellyn died on the operating table, absolving Ransom, as the youth was submitting to a transfusion operation to save her life.

Ransom told the police, by whom he is held for investigation, that he and Mrs. Llewellyn met a man she knew on the street and feared he would tell of her whereabouts. This was Tuesday, when they were on their way to their apartment after pawning one of Mrs. Llewellyn's rings. Ransom declared he placed a pistol under his pillow when they retired. He was awakened by a shot and found Mrs. Llewellyn holding the weapon in both hands.

Mrs. Llewellyn told the police before she died her husband was in Juarez, Mex. She declared Ransom was in no way responsible for her wound.

SHOOTING ENDS JAPANESE FEUD

Trouble Between Men of Long Standing

A long-standing feud between two Japanese house men at the Golden Apartments, 1130 West Seventh street, resulted yesterday in the shooting of S. Megoro, 30 years old, by Tom Shinzaka, 45 years old, according to the police. Megoro is near death at the Receiving Hospital and police are combing the city for his asserted assailant.

The bullet-punctuated climax of the feud between the two Japanese occurred in a room on the fourth floor of the apartment-house, according to M. Arase, another Japanese employed there, who was a witness of the affray.

"SECRETS" ARE CAUSE

According to Arase, Megoro and Shinzaka had fallen out repeatedly during the two years they were employed in the apartment-house over "secrets" imparted to one or the other by the managers. Instructions given to one were not transmitted to the other and friction between them had been growing steadily.

Yesterday morning the two met on the fourth floor. A quarrel ensued, and, according to Arase, Shinzaka drew a revolver from his pocket and began firing. Megoro fell with a bullet through his abdomen.

Shinzaka then rushed from the apartment and through a rear door, police said. In his flight he dashed through the home of P. L. Boyd, in the rear of the apartment-house. Police were summoned, and, believing that Shinzaka was barricaded in his home, which also is in the rear of the apartment-house, detectives broke into the house, but were unable to locate him.

Hundreds of spectators, attracted by the excitement, assembled. Police said last night that Shinzaka's arrest is expected hourly.

ELEPHANT UNRAVELS FILM CITY

Long and Ugly Word From Sightseeing Savant Blamed for Wild Night Out

Big Charlie, Universal City's pachyderm plus, tore off eight hours of psychic epilepsy, the side of his stable, a hermit's shack, the porch on the village smithy and an electric light pole in a period ending at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning before he was inveigled from his reverasion to type by the wiles of his trainer, A. V. Stecker.

A sightseeing savant is blamed for the big elephant's wrecking spree.

"Wonderful specimen of Loxodon Indicus, what?" said the savant as he lamped Charlie inhaling his evening appetizer of two bales of hay and a barrel of water.

Charlie blinked his button eyes and forthwith began to epilepse, for back in Charlie's jungle words like those mean action, his trainer says.

But there being a lot of material in an elephant to epilepse it was not until 10 o'clock at night that Charlie "I don't remember" he was a docile beast, heaved up the concrete floor of his hut, walked through the wall and out to do about $2000 damage to the motion-picture lot.
